BOY MURDERER GETS 14 YEARS

White House Accused of Propaganda Trick

QUIZ DEMANDED ON 'INSPIRED' DETROIT CHARGE

Letter Under Fire in Congress Debate.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—A letter read to the house yesterday by Majority Leader Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], addressed to President Roosevelt and purportedly coming from a Detroit worker, asserting that corporations were starting a propaganda drive against the 5 billion pump priming program, drew fire today.

The letter was attacked by Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [R., N. Y.], who expressed doubt as to the authenticity of the letter and demanded an inquiry into the genuineness of what he called an amazing document. He went so far as to say that it bore the earmarks of being inspired by the White House.

Denounces New Intimidation.

He further charged that inspired chain letters were being used to influence congressmen.

"Congress will not tolerate this new attempt by the White House to intimidate the free expression of public opinion against the President's dangerous spending program," Snell declared.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] challenged Rayburn to prove the authenticity of the supposed letter to the President. The letter had been sent to Rayburn yesterday by the White House with instructions to read it on the floor.

Text of the Letter.

The letter said: "My dear Mr. President: I thought you [and Jim Farley] might be interested in copies of the new propaganda about to be launched on members of congress against your recovery program, and that your leaders in congress might get ahead of this and take the teeth out of it before they get started by letting them know beforehand where the stuff actually originates.

"This is being originated in a large corporation in Detroit, Mich., the same outfit that got the 'chain telegrams' started by their henchmen, in the different states, many of which were signed by minor children, babes in arms, and even the family pet poodle, and congress fell for it like a ton of brick, so they are about to try it again. But the minor children and pet poodles can't vote. And what a lot of cars it will take to pay for this support.

"Wishing you all success.

"Your supporter 100 per cent.

"[I don't sign my name because I would lose my job.]"

Blast at White House.

"I challenge the majority leader to prove that is a genuine letter," Taber said. "All the circumstances indicate that it was written in the White House itself in an attempt to discredit beforehand any letters which citizens may write criticizing huge new expenditures by the government."

"It appears to be an official attempt to silence the free expression of opposition," chimed in Snell. "It is a flagrant repudiaton of a fundamental principle of representative government. It is a duty of congress to know what the people think of this fantastic program.

"A recent nation-wide poll indicated 79 per cent of the people favor encouragement to private enterprise and only 21 per cent support renewed New Deal spending. On the face of these returns the country is opposed to the President's new proposals by at least 3 to 1. The White House effort to stifle this overwhelming opposition rightly will be resented by the entire nation.

Cites Recent Action.

"Two other recent actions of the President reveal an unwholesome intolerance of public opinion. A secret executive order signed two weeks ago vested the senate lobby committee with new powers of intimidation, through the threatened exposure of private income tax returns.

"More recently the President has expressed militant impatience with that section of the press which has attacked and exposed certain of his policies. The press, as represented

GRAFT CHARGES STIR UPROAR IN PENN PRIMARY

$1,200,000 Kickback Plotters Named.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., April 26.—[Special.]—The uproar increased tonight in Pennsylvania's bitter Democratic primary battle when Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti voiced two new charges against two leaders in Gov. George H. Earle's administration.

The first charge made by Margiotti, himself a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, was that David Lawrence, state Democratic chairman, and Matthew H. McCloskey, the state's most favored public works contractor and co-leader of the Philadelphia Democratic organization, ordered architects to "kick back" $1,200,000 of the commissions they received under the public works spending program for Pennsylvania.

Brewer Pay-off Charged.

The second charge, made tonight before a massmeeting at Butler, a town in the western part of the state, northeast of Pittsburgh, was that Lawrence and McCloskey split $20,000 for the passage of legislation wanted by the brewers.

This deal, according to Margiotti, took place in 1935. The brewers wanted certain legislation to give them greater assurance in the collection of their merchandise accounts.

After the legislation was passed, the attorney general declared, $10,000 was paid to Lawrence and McCloskey through Ralph M. Bashore, secretary of the Democratic state committee and secretary of labor and industry in the Earle state administration. Later the remaining $10,000 was paid to Lawrence.

Denials Are Issued.

Lawrence, McCloskey, and Bashore all denied the charges as "utterly fantastic."

The first important revelation in connection with the 65 million dollar building program, financed jointly by state and federal funds, was brought to light by Mayor S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia, who is running against Earle for the senatorial nomination. Wilson charged and Earle admitted that he received $26,500 from McCloskey, who later was awarded 30 per cent of the construction contracts in the program.

Backed by Guffey.

Wilson is backed by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who is waging a bitter fight for control of the party. His running mate for the gubernatorial nomination is Thomas Kennedy, secretary treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, who was turned down by the regular state organization. John L. Lewis, head of the mine workers and promoter of the radical C. I. O., is behind the Wilson-Kenndy slate.

Margiotti is running an independent race against the Kennedy wing of the party on the one hand and the Earle crowd, who trotted out the politically unknown Pittsburgh lawyer, Charles Alvin Jones, for governor on the other. In 1934 Margiotti ran for the Republican nomination for governor, polling 200,000 votes, and later was taken into the Earle administration. But he refused to stay hitched.

Preparing New Charges.

It was reported in Harrisburg today that the attorney general is preparing a new list of charges against his opponents, which he will spring tomorrow. He is expected to make public the names of persons who bought and sold votes in the legislature for cash.

Mayor Wilson, who also is campaigning in the western part of the state, around Pittsburgh, demanded today that Earle turn over his cancelled checks and private banking accounts to the state police.

Labor Indorsed Candidate Trails for St. Paul Mayor

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—(AP)—William H. Fallon, independent, had a 37 vote lead over John J. McDonough, labor indorsed candidate, in the nonpartisan race for mayor tonight when returns from all but six of the city's 237 precincts had been counted. Fallon had 45,264 votes, McDonough 45,227. Fallon had the backing of Mayor Mark Gehan, who did not seek reelection.

Workers Fight CIO Raiders at Muncie Plant

Muncie, Ind., April 26.—[Special.]—More than five hundred members of the United Automobile Workers of America, C. I. O. affiliate, tonight attacked and broke a picket line formed by 100 workers to protect their jobs at the General Motors corporation's Chevrolet plant here. One of the workers and one of the U. A. W. A. men were injured in the rioting.

Police rushed to the scene with tear gas bombs but did not use them because the battle ended quickly. The pickets fled into the plant and later dispersed to their homes. The U. A. W. A. forces also left the factory. Further trouble was expected tomorrow if another picket line is formed.

Ball Bats, Clubs Used.

The worker who was injured was Charles Cook and the U. A. W. A. victim hurt was Everett Kelly. Both were struck during the struggle, in which the U. A. W. A. members used baseball bats and clubs. Cook and Kelly were able to go home after first aid treatment.

The workers in the picket line were members of an independent organization, the Automotive Gear Workers' union, which claims a membership of 700 of the plant's 1,000 employés. The workers asserted that only a few of the U. A. W. A. men are employed at the factory and most of them come from surrounding towns.

Starts Five Day Week.

The plant, which manufactures automobile parts, recently had been operating on a two and three day a week schedule, but yesterday a full five day week was announced. When trouble loomed in the afternoon the factory's operations were suspended on orders from the General Motors office in Detroit.

The workers then formed their picket line to safeguard their jobs. During the afternoon three C. I. O. officials were chased away from the plant by the pickets with such speed that their automobile collided with another car and badly damaged it.

"We don't want any outside organizers," said Walter L. Lundberg, spokesman for the independent union. "We feel we are intelligent enough to take care of our own jobs."

Last February Superior Judge Herbert E. Wilson in Indianapolis upheld the right of the independent union to organize in opposition to the C. I. O.

ROOSEVELT PUTS U. S. ENVOY TO STUDYING HITLER YOUTH CAMPS

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today disclosed that Ambassador Hugh Wilson is studying, at his request, the German government's outdoor camps for girls and boys. The President said at his press conference he told Wilson he was very much interested in the camps, about which he knew very little except for the fact that the boys and girls seemed to be improving very much physically.

What Place Is This? Ask Strollers; It's White House

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—A young man and woman strolled through the White House grounds today, taking pictures and exclaiming over the beauty of the house and scenery. After about ten minutes of observation they turned to L. H. Wolfe, policeman on duty: "What place is this?" the young man asked.

Il Duce, Hitler Send Gifts for Zog and Bride

TIRANA, Albania, April 26.—(AP)—Tribesmen, soldiers, and diplomats crowded this tiny capital tonight for the wedding tomorrow of King Ahmed Zog and a fair Hungarian countess with a dash of old Virginia in her blood.

Fierce visaged Ghegs from the north and barefoot Tosks from the south dropped their ancient animosity and drank from each others' wine skins to the health of Countess Geraldine Apponyi, who is to become Albania's first queen. The 22 year old countess appeared with the king at the Officers' club ball. The Albanian army marched in review before the royal palace today in the biggest parade Tirana ever has seen.

Hunted Ten Years for Bride.

Matchmaker Jake Koci, the king's confidant who arranged the first meeting of the sovereign and the countess at a palace ball last New Year's eve, disclosed that Zog's ten year hunt for the right lady had been a delicate, diplomatic one.

Wedding gifts for Zog and the countess poured in. The Hungarian government sent three thoroughbred horses. Adolf Hitler sent a fine automobile with the Albanian coat of arms and also a helmet of Skanderbeg, the Albanian national hero.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, presented Premier Mussolini's remembrance of four gilded bronze vases which once belonged to Napoleon, and a statue of a dragon from King Victor Emanuel.

No Religious Ceremony.

One of King Zog's presents to his bride-to-be—whose aristocratic pedigree reaches back through her mother, Mme. Gladys Stewart Girault, to Virginia's plantations—was a diamond studded tiara.

The Mohammedan king and the Catholic countess will be married in a simple civil ceremony in the dance hall annex of the royal palace. Heqmet Delvina, vice president of parliament, will officiate. There will be no religious ceremony, but prayers are to be said in mosques and churches.

Mme. Girault, formerly of New York, will see her daughter become a queen. Close by also will be the countess' grandmother, Mme. Virginia Harding D'Ekna of Monte Carlo, also formerly of New York.

Hearing Bares Strange Circle of Stock Deals

Under questioning by two government attorneys the strange financial structure of a Mexican timber lands promotion was laid bare yesterday afternoon before Examiner Henry L. Fitts of the federal Securities and Exchange commission at a hearing in the Bankers building.

The hearing was the result of an application by the Resources Corporation International of Chicago to make a public offering of 35,000 shares of its stock. In its application, the corporation valued its holdings in five Mexican states at 9 million dollars. This figure was questioned by the SEC.

Reveal "Gift" of Millions.

After several days of preliminary hearings the government attorneys, Smith W. Brookhart Jr. and James P. Goode, bore down on Harper S. Hoover, chairman, and several of nis associates, forcing them yesterday to disclose that Hoover acquired 735,000 shares of the corporation's stock, valued at $7,350,000, without cost to himself.

The company, with offices at 333 North Michigan avenue, was organized by Hoover in 1931 to sell 2 million acres of Mexican timber land, held by Hoover under verbal options. It was to be sold on a stumpage basis to independent lumber operators, Hoover testified. Funds contributed by members of a syndicate were placed with large sums supposedly put up by Hoover and his associates to purchase the lands.

When Resources International was incorporated it took over from Hoover, by way of the syndicate, his equity in the Mexican tracts which amounted to approximately $359,154, issuing him 735,000 shares of corporation stock. In addition it took over indebtedness of $1,650,000 on the land.

Tells Details of Deal.

On the stand yesterday C. Stanley Duggan, SEC investigator and former agent of the federal bureau of investigation, analyzed the syndicate through which $3,589,837 was subscribed for the venture. Of this amount $2,023,954 was canceled and never paid, Duggan testified.

Of the net subscription—$1,565,883—$731,002 was in cash and the remainder in stocks, land, cemetery lots, services, and intangibles, Duggan declared.

It was then that Duggan, under questioning by Brookhart and Goode, disclosed that Hoover and his associates had canceled their supposed subscriptions to the syndicate after other subscribers had put up actual cash.

Q.—Did Hoover subscribe to the original syndicate? A.—He subscribed twice, once for $200,000 and again for $250,000. He canceled both subscriptions by a book entry. Neither was ever paid.

Other Executives Canceled, Too.

Q.—Did Arnold Joerns, vice president of Resources International, subscribe? A.—Yes, for $150,000. This also was canceled.

Father Torn by Grief at Sentence.

Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court yesterday rejected the defense plea that an irresistible impulse made Theodore Danielsen Jr. stab his mother to death and sentenced him to serve fourteen years in prison. The boy and his loyal father sobbed. Judge Harrington was pale and shaken.

In a lengthy opinion, Judge Harrington, who heard the strange case without a jury last week, outlined the reasons why he found the boy guilty of murder. He pointed out that:

The fatal scuffle between the boy and his mother, whom he knifed last March 3 in their home at 5316 Lieb avenue, lasted five minutes.

There were 18 distinct injuries on the body of Mrs. Eleanor Danielsen, some of which indicated she was strangled before the knife thrust.

The boy, 16 years old, was taller and heavier than his mother and was uninjured except for a few scratches on his face.

Boy Nervous in Court.

Coatless in the warm courtroom, young Danielsen nervously rubbed his perspiring hands on his trousers as the judge read the first portion of the 16 page document. As the judge reached the latter part in which he told his difficulties in deciding the case, the pale, blond youth lifted his head and dazedly nodded assent.

"Have you anything to say before I pronounce sentence?" Judge Harrington asked in a voice that showed the strain under which he was carrying out his duty. He had been up until 5 o'clock yesterday morning formulating his decision.

Danielsen's father, haggard from the double tragedy, lifted his arm from around the boy's shoulders and they approached the bench. The defendant's lips were moving, but at first no words came. Then he said falteringly:

"I love my father, judge. I want to go home with him."

Sets Term at 14 Years.

"Your sentence," the judge intoned, "will be to the Illinois state penitentiary for a term of fourteen years."

The father crumpled over the table in front of the bench, sobbing. The boy burst into tears and flung his arm around his father's neck. It is doubtful whether they heard the judge's next words:

"This sentence unfortunately is not the only sentence you will suffer for the balance of your days. The everlasting memory of the regrettable offense which you have committed will undoubtedly be as bad, if not worse, than any the law could impose."

As bailiffs started to lead the boy away his father frantically clung to his arm until his grasp was broken. He then walked unsteadily out of the courtroom, not waiting to hear the usual defense motions.

Judge Harrington retired to his chambers for a few minutes. "That was a tough one," he said with a sigh. He is 41 years old, and has four children.

Grants Stay of Mittimus.

The judge, after returning to the bench, overruled a motion by Defense Attorney Leonard C. Reid for a new trial, but granted a stay of mittimus for thirty days and the filing of a bill of exceptions. Morris G. Meyers was the prosecuting attorney.

Back in cell B-2 in the county jail, the warden asked young Danielsen how he felt.

"Not so good," he replied, and then, "How long have I got to serve?"

He was told the minimum time is eight years and three months, with all allowances for good behavior. There is no parole for those convicted of murder.

The boy is to be sent to the diagnostic depot in the former women's prison at Joliet at the end of his 30 day stay.

JUDGE'S OPINION

Judge Harrington's opinion begins with a statement that the prosecution proved all the necessary material allegations as required by law. It then gives a description of young Danielsen as a high school boy, as shown by the evidence, as follows:

"The defendant was in the second year in the Carl Schurz High school. He started being a truant from the high school the latter part of November, 1937; his first truancy lasted about two weeks and the last approximately four weeks. Up to the time of his truancy he was getting along satisfactorily in his studies, then he commenced to fail in his subjects. When his report cards were furnished by the school, he changed them to show attendance and satisfactory marks.

Letters Are Intercepted.

"He intercepted letters from his division teachers complaining of his absence, and as to communications not intercepted that informed his parents of his absence, he lied in explanation to both parents concerning his attendance, and advised them that the teachers were mistaken.

"He spent his truant time loafing around the school hall, in school stores adjacent to the Carl Schurz High school, and at a theater downtown. His own testimony indicates that his parents never scolded him, that he received an allowance of 75 cents per week in addition to other moneys; that he brooded to some extent about his truancy, and frequently expressed within himself a desire to tell parents of his truancy. This, however, was not done till March 3, 1938.

Attends No Classes.

"On that morning he left home at the usual hour to attend high school. He had no quarrel with his mother before he left. She had prepared a lunch which he carried with him, and while he went to the school building, he did not attend his classes and ate his lunch in the school store between 11:30 and 12:00 o'clock. In the afternoon he went to the school library where he read books until about a quarter of two.

"He made up his mind about noon of the same day to advise his mother of his truancy. He thought it had been going on long enough, and that his parents ought to know about it. He knew that they would be angry with him, but outside of that, he did not think anything about it.

"He arrived at home about 2:20 p. m., entered through the front door, and said hello to his mother. She asked about school and other things.

Practices at Piano.

"He went to the bathroom and washed his face and hands, and then went to the piano and practiced three-quarters of an hour, which was the usual thing for him to do. His mother was with him when he was practicing, watching him play and pointing out mistakes.

"When he finished playing the piano, his mother went to the kitchen and later he went down stairs. He took the dog out, and then he went down stairs and attended to the furnace and stayed there about 15 minutes. His mother went back up stairs and was fixing some cherry pudding or pie in the kitchen.

"He came upstairs shortly after and told her about his absence from school. He told her he lied about the last semester; that he had been absent from school during the semester. She said, 'Oh,' and was quite angry. He did not remember the exact words that she started to say.

Tells of Struggle.

"She started to shake him and to scold him. She said he was useless. She took hold of his shoulders with both hands. Then she took hold of his face. He did not struggle with her and he said he did not put his hands on her neck. He said she grabbed his face hard and made marks on it with her nails while she was scolding him, but he did not remember exactly what was said. Then she let him go and started to scold him harder and he stated he lost control of himself. Her voice rose.

"He was standing in the kitchen next to a table, and when her voice rose to its height, he reached for the bread knife. He thought he grabbed the knife with his right hand, but was not sure. He thought that he did not have a hold of her with his left hand, but that she had hold of him. He said he struck her with the knife and put it in her neck. She said, 'Oh,' and screamed; it was not very loud. He said he struck her in the side of the neck while she was facing him; that she fell to the floor, and that the knife remained in her neck.

Washes Weapon.

"Then, he said, he took the knife out and thought he had killed her. He washed the knife at the kitchen sink. He did not know why he washed the knife, but it was an impulse to get it out and wash it.

"He said he thought about finger prints when he took the knife out, and that he put the knife back in her neck where it was before; that the knife brushed over her forehead when he put it in the second time. He was not certain whether he made a wound the second time in this manner, but he might have.

"When asked why he stuck his mother the second time, he answered, 'Well, I just lost my control. I just done it, that is all I know.' He said he ran out of the room into his bedroom, took a grip and a suitcase and put his clothes in it; that his only thought was to get out, get as far away as he could and that he knew he would need some clothing other than what he had. He took $5 from his mother's purse and some change from a jar, and he had $5 of his own —a total of about $12."

Reviews Physician's Report.

The judge at this point reviewed the report of Dr. Paul Schmitt coroner's physician, showing he found 18 distinct injuries on the body of Mrs. Danielsen. The opinion continued:

"In Dr. Schmitt's opinion the deceased came to her death from hemorrhage due to the severance of the cervical branches of the right subclavian artery and strangulation; that the condition of the body indicated a struggle which lasted for some time; that the hemorrhage in the neck and along the clavicle indicated and were symptoms of strangulation by fingers or hands.

"The defense consisted first of the reputation of the defendant as a clean living, truthful, quiet and peaceful person, a boy who had attended church and Sunday school regularly, was an accomplished pianist, enjoyed the sports of the normal young man, and professed love and devotion to his mother and father, particularly to his father.

"Numerous neighbors, friends and relatives testified in support of these facts.

Mother Unstable Emotionally.

"About five years before the deceased married the father of the defendant she suffered an attack of infantile paralysis. She had attacks at rather infrequent intervals of emotional instability, manifested by hysteria. While in some of these attacks, she yelled and screamed and threw objects, particularly at her husband.

"After these spells, which lasted but for brief periods, she was a quiet, loving, affectionate and dutiful wife. During none of these attacks had she evidenced any of her anger towards the defendant.

At this point the judge reviewed the testimony of Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, of the Criminal court behavior clinic, who testified that Danielsen had the power to choose between right and wrong, but not the power to refrain from doing the homicide. He also pointed out that Dr. Hoffman corroborated the testimony of Dr. Schmitt regarding the struggle before the stabbing.

Evasive in His Answers.

"The defendant in all of his testimony was hesitant in his answers and evasive in many instances," the opinion went on, "and failed to remember details he previously had frankly admitted.

"After the careful consideration of all of the evidence, I am satisfied that the defendant is guilty of a crime, that there was a scuffle between him and his mother, when he first explained his truancy, which lasted approximately five minutes.

No Injuries to Boy.

"It does not appear by virtue of any evidence in the record that the defendant at any time was in danger of great bodily harm to himself that would justify him in meeting the assault of the mother and inflicting the injuries heretofore described together with the stabbing and strangulation.

"The physical facts which indicate there was no blood on the defendant's shoes or clothes, indicate the stabbing was the last act of the fatal assault.

"Murder is the unlawful killing of a human being, in the peace of the people, with malice aforethought, either expressed or implied.

"I am satisfied from all of the evidence that the malice of the defendant is more than implied.

Considers Past Life.

"What punishment to mete out to you is the court's next problem. There are many facts the court has taken into consideration in arriving at the punishment which will be meted out—your age, your previous exemplary life, the love and forgiveness of that wonderful father who has so steadfastly supported you in your trial, the emotionalism of your age and the fact that you have had no previous experience with the law.

"The commandment, 'Honor thy father and mother,' is one that you have learned at your mother's knee. It has been the ancient and modern law of mankind which has been recognized through the ages and incorporated into the laws of this state in a little different language, but to the same effect, that a child has the obligation to obey a parent; that a parent has a right and, yes, the duty to discipline and moderately correct his or her child.

Regrets Lack of Institution.

"The court, however, has a duty to society as well as to you, to inflict a just punishment that might be a deterring influence to others who might be so inclined to violate our laws. It is not an easy task for me to pass sentence in your case for many reasons.

"It disturbs me that you will have to be placed in an institution where you will be associated with persons experienced in the tricks of criminality and veterans of our present penal institutions. Had I the power to send you to an institution of a military, vocational type, where you could complete your high school work and learn some trade or occupation to fit you for return to civil life, such as we need in this state, I would gladly do so.

"Your father has shown extreme loyalty to you and has forgiven you for what you have done, and you can make his cross of grief much lighter if you endeavor to satisfy your obligation to society in the same courageous manner in which he has carried on.

"I hope that you will make the most of the opportunities during your incarceration and will associate yourself with those young men who have sorrow and regret for their offenses against society, and have the desire to redeem themselves and return to civil life as good citizens."

Coat "Collector" Comes to Grief

Courtly Thief Seized

Fred Du Bois.

This may remind dozens of north side women whose expensive fur coats have been taken in burglaries: A day or two before, when they were strolling in their furs, a courtly gentleman of middle age joined them, chatted a moment, watched them enter their homes, and then walked on.

Well, he's Fred Du Bois of 670 Sheridan road. Arrested early yesterday as he was trying to break into an apartment at 628 Sheridan road, he confessed that he found out where to steal the furs by taking the addresses of the women he saw wearing them.

Mrs. Adeline Corby of 611 Addison street didn't recognize him when she went to the Town Hall station to identify her mink coat, found in his possession. He remembered her. He had assured her it was safe to go into her apartment building after a fire, and she had mentioned which apartment was hers. Then he'd gone back and robbed it while she slept.

16 FELONIES BUT NO PRISON; 17TH BRINGS HIM YEAR TO LIFE

It was a familiar routine for Patrick McNamara, 56 years old, when the bailif brought him before Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday. With his old assurance McNamara went into his well remembered act.

Patrick McNamara.

For thirty years it had worked, ever since his first arrest in 1908 as a burglar. In the ensuing years he was arrested sixteen times for similar felonies. On fifteen occasions McNamara dickered with the prosecution, pleading guilty to a lesser charge.

Yesterday the charge against him was another burglary. Policemen found him in the Lindberg Engineering company at 221 North Laflin street, on the night of April 10.

Assistant State's Attorney Irwin Clorfene, on instructions of First Assistant Wilbert F. Crowley, refused to bargain.

"You've had thirty years to reform," remarked Judge Allegretti, "and it seems to me that if you haven't reformed in that time you never will. One year to life in Joliet penitentiary."

BANDIT SHOT IN POLICE AMBUSH; TWO MORE FLEE

Through a peephole from the back room, Policeman Fred Euting saw three pretended customers draw guns last night to rob Bernard Doran in a haberdashery at 1661 East 79th street. The policeman ran out, firing. He wounded one bandit and routed the others. Seizing a revolver from beneath the counter, Doran chased one of the robbers two blocks, but the fugitive escaped.

The wounded bandit is Serafino Lunnatti, 24 years old, of 4738 West 55th street. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where it was believed he would die.

Doran's shop has been held up nine times since 1930. In 1931, police using the peephole killed a bandit on one occasion and on another killed a robber and wounded his companion. Doran once wounded and captured a bandit. Euting had dropped in for a brief vigil last night, as his custom, because of the store's numerous holdups.

DELVE INTO OLD LOVES TO SOLVE FURRIER KILLING

Gang Associations Also Put Under Scrutiny.

Investigators of the slaying of Rudolph Sabatino, partner in a Michigan avenue fur and dressmaking shop, last night sought their clews in his pre-marital love affairs and his past association with dealers in stolen merchandise. The body of Sabatino, riddled by six bullets, was found early yesterday in the center of Hiawatha avenue near Spokane avenue.

The theory that Sabatino, who was 35 years old, was murdered after a gang ride was strengthened when his widow, Georgiana, 25 years old, a former dancer and musical comedy actress, admitted that her husband had been a bootlegger during prohibition days and recently had urged her to let him get stolen furs to sell in their shop at 540 North Michigan avenue, which she operated as his partner.

Urged to Give Up Pals.

Mrs. Sabatino said she refused the offer, and urged him to abandon such plans and give up his criminal associates. She believed he had complied with her wishes. Questioned concerning a possibility that Sabatino was killed because he would not contribute to a defense fund for two men indicted for burglarizing a fur store, the widow said she did not think her husband was involved in that case in any way.

Supporting the gang ride theory were the ferocity of the killing and the location at which the body was discovered—a sparsely settled section on the far northwest side, a block south of the city limits. This is known as a lovers' lane area because of its comparative privacy.

Quiz Former Girl Friend.

In the inquiry into Sabatino's love affairs police questioned Mrs. Anna Cammarata, 26 years old, 2212 Campbell park, mother of a 3 months old baby. Mrs. Cammarata, who is separated from her husband, Michael, had kept company with Sabatino before either of them was married.

Sabatino received a telephone call at his shop Monday afternoon and his wife heard him refer to the caller as Anna. In the evening he left his home at 1140 North Monticello avenue, telling his wife he was going to meet Anna and possibly sell her a fur coat.

He drove to a barber shop at 1115 West 14th place, had a haircut and then took the barber, Anthony Lullo, to a wake at 1107 Howe street. Sabatino left at 9 p. m. An hour later two men living at 6401 Spokane avenue heard shots outside their windows and saw an automobile race by. The men thought the car was backfiring and paid no more attention to it, and the body was not discovered until morning by Charles Einhaus, 5031 Greenleaf avenue.

Find Blood Stained Car.

Later in the morning a bloodstained automobile was found in an alley at the rear of 1336 Independence boulevard. The car, which had been stolen Monday evening, was believed to be the one used by the slayers. Sabatino's car has not been found.

Mrs. Cammarata denied telephoning Sabatino or seeing him Monday. Mrs. Sabatino said, however, that she believed it was Mrs. Cammarata's voice she heard over the telephone and other relatives of Sabatino said Mrs. Cammarata frequently had tried to reach him by telephone since his marriage last Jan. 1. Mrs. Cammarata will undergo a lie detector test at the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory at 3 p. m. today.

CATCH VETERAN YEGG IN ACT OF CRACKING A SAFE

Theodore G. Carty, 32 years old, safe cracker who has served terms in Pontiac reformatory and St. Quentin, Cal., penitentiary, was captured by Waukegan police early yesterday just after he had blown open an office safe and taken $126 from it. In his flight from the scene Carty left a rifle and a tear gas gun with his drilling equipment.

Theodore Carty.

Carty, who lives at 500 Florence avenue, Evanston, said that he had earned a good living for years by burglary. His wife is now in the Evanston hospital. A boy was born to her there on Saturday.

The arrest was made outside of the Rynksel Coal company office at 1200 Melrose avenue, Waukegan, by Lieut. Earl Hicks and Policeman Michael Dyer. Carty admitted that he had broken into the same office three times.

CONFIRM M'CAHEY AS SCHOOL CHIEF; CRITICS ASSAILED

Council O. K.'s All Four Appointed to Board.

After a tumultuous session in which critics of the board of education were denounced vigorously, the city council voted unanimously yesterday to confirm the reappointment of James B. McCahey, president of the board.

The council also confirmed the reappointment of Frederick P. Siebel Sr., a member, and the appointments of Mrs. Walter F. Heineman and Wilson Frankland to fill vacancies on the board.

The explosion was touched off by the delivery of telegrams to the aldermen after the session had been called to order. The telegrams were signed by Arnold R. Baar, chairman of the Citizens' Schools committee, and read as follows:

Telegrams Rap McCahey.

"Because of his actual responsibility for a confused and discredited school administration, we respectfully ask you to vote today against the reappointment of James B. McCahey as a member of the Chicago board of education."

When Mayor Kelly submitted McCahey's name to the council more than a dozen aldermen jumped to their feet and, waving the telegrams, sought the floor. Ald. John F. Healy [6th] was recognized and shouted:

"This telegram is the most audacious thing ever sent to the city council. It is an insult to the aldermen. Mr. McCahey has performed his task admirably and well. He is a gentleman of integrity and honesty. It is a pleasure for me to second the motion for his reappointment."

"As usual, it is the backwash of the intelligentsia who seek to usurp power not theirs," said Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], who was next recognized. "Despite his years of constructive endeavor and despite the fact that confusion in the schools is ended, we find groups such as this one objecting to McCahey's reappointment."

Praises President's Record.

"I can't let this attack go unnoticed," shouted Ald. James J. McDermott [14th]. "Mr. McCahey has filled the job second to none and the schools have been put on the accredited list. Yet out on the north shore, amid the blooming cherry trees, sits a man named Baar who, in his wisdom, sends us word to throw out McCahey—tells us how to run our schools. [Baar lives at 642 Cherry street, Winnetka.] McCahey should take Baar into court and make him defend himself."

After several other aldermen had praised McCahey's record and had assailed the Citizens' committee's stand against him, the reappointment was confirmed.

Wilson Frankland, one of the new appointees, is a representative of organized labor, being vice president of the Chicago Metal Trades council. Mrs. Heineman, the wife of an attorney, has for several years been active in educational work sponsored by women's clubs. Their appointments and the reappointment of Mr. Siebel were confirmed unanimously.

LILACS UNFOLD BUDS TWO WEEKS EARLY THIS YEAR

Hasten Days of Joy for City's Shut-Ins.

Lilac buds were beginning to unfold their lovely hues in the warm sunshine all over Chicagoland yesterday, telling in their own way that "share your lilacs" days are nearly here again—about two weeks ahead of their usual schedule.

Officials of the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild were hurrying preparations last night for gathering and distributing the lilacs to Chicago hospitals, settlement houses, and other institutions caring for the sick, crippled, and shut-ins. The detailed plans will be announced soon. The campaign again will be sponsored jointly by the guild and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Ready Within a Few Days.

Reports from suburbs south and west of the city and some form the north shore beyond Evanston indicated that the lilac blooms will be ready to cut within a few days unless their development should be checked by cooler weather. Buds on thousands of bushes were showing color yesterday along St. Charles and Roosevelt roads and Ogden avenue.

Many buds were opening in Lilacia park in Lombard. Edward H. Bean, director of the Brookfield zoo, had a bouquet of lilac blossoms on his desk. His secretary picked them from bushes on the zoo's grounds.

Some buds were beginning to open yesterday as far north as Lake Forest and Highland Park. Garden club members said a few more days of warm weather would put them in shape for distribution to the hospitals next week. Last year it was May 25 before the majority of lilacs in those regions were in full bloom.

Smaller Crop in Prospect.

The present outlook is for a smaller crop of blooms this year than usual. Sleets, heavy snows, and frosts early this month injured many of the bushes that started to bud out during the warm March days. The snow and ice broke some bushes and others were nipped by frost. Most of the damage has been reported from south and west suburbs, where the bushes were farther advanced than those along the north shore.

"The crop may be short, but I am sure that the lilac growers will share generously whatever blossoms there are, with the sick," Theodore V. Purcell of Evanston, president of the guild, said last night. Last year twenty-four big truckloads of blooms were sent to 132 institutions, caring for about 21,000 patients.

Mrs. S. L. Gabby, chairman for the guild in the Elgin Garden club, said that the blossoms in most of Kane county would be ready for cutting in a week or ten days.

Council to Study Plans for New Suburban Trains

The city council yesterday passed a resolution introduced by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], directing the local transportation committee to give immediate consideration to the possibility of inaugurating faster suburban service through elevated railroad structures and Diesel electric trains. The fast trains would give interrupted service from city limit to city limit, under Ald. Lindell's plan.

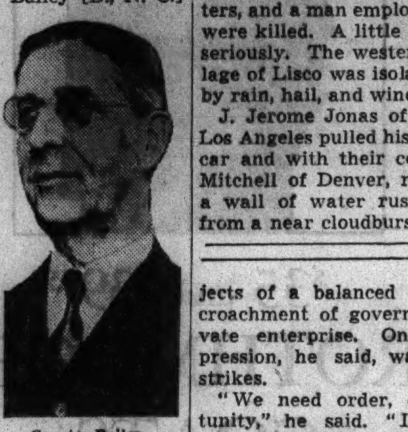
SPENDING HURTS RECOVERY, SAYS SENATOR BAILEY

New Pump Priming Plans Are Denounced.

Pump priming was described by Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] last night as a self-confessed failure which unless stopped will make recovery next to impossible. Before the Illinois Manufacturers Costs association at the Palmer house, the senator argued that the arrival of the Roosevelt depression at a time when government borrowing and spending were at the peak, demonstrated that the billions of priming money had simply caused an artificial prosperity.



Senator Bailey.

The North Carolina Democrat told his audience that America now faces a choice between private enterprise and government spending.

"Public spending," said Senator Bailey, "and private enterprise cannot live together—the one is the antidote to the other.

America Must Choose.

"We have a choice to make in America and we must make it now. We will either depend upon private enterprise or government spending. We cannot depend upon both. Under private enterprise this country grew and prospered 140 years. We have had public spending five years and its consequences are too plain to require pointing out. It is a self-confessed failure. Now let us build upon the rock of private enterprise.

"Under private enterprise we built and enjoyed a free America, American opportunity, American incentive, American prosperity. Abandon it for collectivism by way of dependence upon public spending and the fate that has overtaken the people of Europe will overtake America.

Finds Explanation Easy.

"This depression came when government borrowing and spending were at the peak [except the soldiers' bonus], when the national income was near 70 billion dollars, when farm income was 9 billion, when banks were running over with deposits, when 44 million workers were at work, when wages were as high as in 1929, when prices were normal.

"The explanation is not difficult. We had built up an artificial prosperity. It was fatally weak. Public spending is wanting in the vital elements of enterprise and incentive.

"The sober fact is that the more we have of this public borrowing and spending the worse off we will be, and if we go on with it much longer recovery will be impossible.

Calls for a Halt.

"In due course it will kill our American enterprise, our only dependence for real recovery. The time to stop is now. The sooner the better. We must, of course, provide for relief, but the more we prime the pump the more need there will be for relief."

Senator Bailey took up the subjects of a balanced budget and encroachment of government upon private enterprise. One cause of depression, he said, was the sitdown strikes.

"We need order, equality, opportunity," he said. "If I invest my money I want no government competition. Why should the government tax me to compete with me. The TVA has almost driven private companies out of its territory. Now they say they're going to have seven other TVA's. Who would invest his savings in enterprise there?

How to Balance Budget.

"Jimmy Roosevelt said the other day the main trouble was the budget and the way to balance the budget was more spending. A man that can balance the budget that way has got the pepetual motion cranks beaten a thousand miles.

"But Americans will not put their money in business so long as the threat of political management exists, so long as they can refuse to let me work or let any one else work. In the midst of the sitdown strikes last year the secretary of labor said the legality of that proceeding was not determined. It was determined more than 100 years ago. This has always been a government of law, not of men, not of mobs. That law is not equality which binds me to a contract but does not the other.

"With all this spending we're going down the road to collectivism. So long as the budget is unbalanced, taxes are uncertain."

5 KILLED, 6 HURT BY TORNADOES IN NEBRASKA AND TEXAS

Denver, Colo., April 26.—(AP)—Tornadic winds sweeping east of the great spine of the Rocky mountain range today caused at least five deaths, damaged property and blackened widespread areas with dust.

A tornado shattered a rural school near Oshkosh, Neb., killing two pupils, Mary Zorn, 8 years old, and Ellen Brown, 8, and injuring five other children.

A high wind which blew away her home killed Mrs. V. O. Caswell at Draw, Tex. The John Walters home at Draw was hit and a son, M. B. Walters, and a man employed on the place were killed. A little girl was injured seriously. The western Nebraska village of Lisco was isolated many hours by rain, hail, and winds.

J. Jerome Jonas of New York and Los Angeles pulled his wife from their car and with their companion, A. R. Mitchell of Denver, ran to safety as a wall of water rushed upon them from a near cloudburst near Oshkosh.

Lagoon Theater, Erected for Fair, to Be Wrecked

Trustees of the park district yesterday ordered the demolition of the lagoon theater in Burnham park, just south of the park district administration building. The theater, which seats 6,000 persons, was built for the 1934 World's Fair. Ralph Burke, chief engineer for the park district, said its high maintenance cost is unwarranted and it is too close to the drive for safety. It will be wrecked by WPA workers.

FARMER REVOLT GROWS AGAINST AAA CROP RULE

Expand Plan for Macomb Meeting Tonight.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Macomb, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Officials of the Corn Belt Liberty league found it necessary today to expand their plans in order to handle an overflow crowd that is expected to attend the regional meeting of Illinois farmers who are coming here to protest against the government's AAA control plan tomorrow night.

Farmers in eighteen states and almost every county in Illinois have indicated by telegrams and letters their interest in the movement against federal tinkering with farming.

Surprised by Response.

McDonough county farmers who started the revolt admitted today that they were surprised over the quick response and the widespread interest that is being taken in their efforts by business and consumers as well as farmers throughout the corn belt. Protests against the AAA allotments have been filed by 365 farmers in the county. All demand larger crop acreage than permitted by the government.

"I had no idea there was so much general opposition to the new AAA program," said Tilden Burg of Sciota, president of the league which was started here last week. "It was just about ten days ago I chanced to meet some of my neighbors here on the streets. Our first meeting grew out of this curbstone visit with my neighbors. We were not prepared to head a big corn belt movement, but we are getting plenty of help from other counties and other states.

Encouraged by Business.

"While we have emphasized that the organization is only for farmers, we are getting encouragement from men in industry."

Information coming to league headquarters here indicates that similar organizations are being planned in other parts of the central west.

A farmer from Mount Pleasant, Ia., wrote for details to aid in starting a movement against the AAA in Iowa.

40 Per Cent for Control.

Bloomington, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Before AAA allotments were distributed, F. E. Fuller of Bloomington, manager of many farms in central Illinois, estimated there would be 70 per cent compliance of farmers with the crop control plan. When the allotments were received his estimate was cut to 50 per cent. After discussing the question with 80 farmers he reported today that his latest estimate is only 40 per cent compliance.

MRS. MARY A. HARRIS.

A romance that began eleven years ago in a Tennessee Sunday school appeared to be at an end yesterday with the filing of a divorce suit by Mrs. Mary A. Harris, 25 years old, of 1481 Irving Park road, against Donald B. Harris, 27, whom she charged with cruelty. Harris, a Winnebago Indian of Lusk, Wyo., met his wife at a Union City, Tenn., Sunday school when she was 14 years old. They were married three years later at Crown Point, Ind. Mrs. Harris asks custody of their two children, Mary Lou, 6 years old, and Charles Wesley, 5. Her suit was filed by Attorney Clarence Dunagan.

Australian Swan at Zoo Ready for a Hard Winter

No matter what the temperature was yesterday, the Australian black swan at the Chicago zoological park won't believe it's spring. All the other Australian birds, the finches, the cockatoos and the parakeets, have recognized that it's no use trying to fight the hemispheres and lay their eggs in our springtime. The swan, however, continues to nest in what it thinks is January and is now preparing for a long, hard winter.

PROPAGANDA HIT IN DEBATE OVER SPENDING PLANS

Letter to White House Raises Doubts.

by the visiting newspaper editors, was not intimidated.

"Neither can public opinion in America be intimidated. Every citizen of the United States has a constitutional right to petition congress as often as he may wish on any question of public policy.

"It is the intention of the minority in the house of representatives to make certain that no device of White House coercion or intimidation may choke off the orderly expression of public opinion on this important issue."

Representative Taber also charged that Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, was directing a chain letter propaganda campaign through WPA workers to win support for the administration's spending plans.

Taber said he had received more than 50 letters from relief workers in his district supporting the program.

The letters received by Taber were all identical, he said, and some were in the same handwriting.

200 Millions More Asked.

The pump priming program was swelled by an additional 200 million dollars today when a bill was introduced by Representative Henry B. Steagall [D., Ala.], chairman of the committee on banking and currency, to increase the appropriation for the United States Housing authority from 500 millions to 1 billion dollars.

The bill contains other provisions to make easier the spending of millions on slum clearance and so-called low cost housing. It suspends until July 1, 1939, the present requirement that builders put up 10 per cent of the cost of projects, where the authority is satisfied building will be started promptly. In other words, 100 per cent instead of 90 per cent loans are authorized for a year.

5 BILLION DOLLAR TAX BILL IS GIVEN CONFERENCE O. K.

'Help Business' Act May Become Law Next Week.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Senate and house conferees completed action today on the 5 billion 300 million dollar revenue bill of 1938, which Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, called "the most forward step in years toward helping employment by private initiative."

Senator Harrison acclaimed the bill as a business tax relief measure, but Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] lamented the fact that it retains "a small and indefensible remnant of the surplus profits tax idea."

The measure abolishes the present system of taxing long term capital gains as ordinary income, substituting a flat 15 per cent rate on gains from assets held two years or more, and drastically modifies the undistributed profits tax. Corporations earning more than $25,000 will pay 16½ per cent plus a supertax of 2½ per cent on their undistributed profits.

Provision Dies in Two Years.

Even this face saving vestige of the profits tax principle is limited to two years, during which time congress must enact new corporate tax legislation.

Although the conferees completed their action on the revenue bill, much work remains to be done by the legislative drafting experts and it probably will not be approved finally by the senate and the house and sent to President Roosevelt before next week.

At the final session of the committee the house conferees receded on their revision of the estate and gift taxes and the conference agreement restored the provisions of existing law with one exception. This is the annual exemption of $5,000 on gifts to any number of individuals, which the house had reduced to $3,000 and which the conference agreement fixes at $4,000.

Existing law permits a $40,000 special gift tax exemption, in addition to the annual exemptions on gifts to individuals, and a $40,000 estate tax exemption. The house bill had telescoped these two $40,000 exemptions, providing that a total of not more than $40,000 could be taken for both estate and gift taxes.

Levies Run Up to 70 Per Cent.

The act of 1926 as amended permits an exemption of $100,000 on estate and graduates the rates up to 20 per cent, with a credit of 80 per cent for death duties paid to states. The act of 1932 as amended permits a $40,000 exemption and graduates the rates up to 70 per cent, with no additional credit for state death duties.

In computing the estate tax, the amount due under the 1926 act is deducted from the amount due under the 1932 act. The house bill had combined these separate rates and permitted a total credit for state death duties of not more than 16½ per cent of the federal tax.

The senate conferees receded on the amendment by Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] to subject all future issues of federal securities to the federal income tax. Senator Harrison said the conferees threw out the Borah amendment in the belief that the subject of tax exempt securities should be dealt with by separate legislation, as proposed yesterday by President Roosevelt.

JUDGE PUNISHES FAMILY OF 4 FOR INJURY FRAUDS

Judge Charles S. Dougherty of the Municipal court yesterday sentenced a mother and father to the county jail and placed their two daughters on probation, on charges of attempting to operate a confidence game. They were found guilty of trying to defraud the Illinois Central railroad and the Chicago Surface Lines through fraudulent accident claims.

The parents are Emil Cici, 45 years old, 1347 Taylor street, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail, his wife, Celia, 38, who was sentenced to 30 days. Their daughters are Josephine, 18, and Marie, 17.

To defray expenses of an operation for Josephine, the other three, according to Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown, sued the railroad for $10,000, charging they were injured in an accident Nov. 22. Later Josephine tried to claim $600 from the street car company for an alleged injury Jan. 14.

Rewed Secretly; Now Seeks to Divorce Harry A. Ash

Suit for divorce filed yesterday against Harry A. Ash by his wife, Edna, revealed that they had secretly remarried on March 9, 1938, after their first divorce of Oct. 13, 1936. In her new action, Mrs. Ash, who lives at 5555 Sheridan road, charges that her husband, a former assistant attorney general of Illinois, kicked her twice after their remarriage.

2 U. OF I. CO-EDS MISSING; POLICE HUNT REQUESTED

Chicago Girl, Friend Gone Five Days.

Two girl students of the University of Illinois, one a Chicagoan, have been missing since last Thursday afternoon. Their parents, fearing they are being detained, possibly by kidnapers, yesterday requested police in all the cities of the middle west to search for them.

The co-eds, Mildred Cooper, 18 years old, 4851 North Damen avenue, and Vera Bernice Kohn, 17, of St. Louis, Mo., were freshmen in the college of liberal arts. Their friends described them as excellent students and of a serious turn of mind. Neither, it was said, had shown any mental abnormality, nor had they expressed any intention of running away.

Spent Easter in Chicago.

Both had come to Chicago to spend the Easter holidays with Mildred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Cooper. Mr. Cooper, who operates an apartment hotel, said they left April 18 for Champaign. He added that they had only a small amount of money.

From Miss Mitzi Farber, who lives in the same boarding house with the Cooper girl, it was learned that the missing co-eds called on the telephone Thursday night.

Report Interest in Movies.

"They were last seen on the campus at about 3:30 p. m.," she said. "Late that night Mildred called and told me to tell the house mother she and Vera were in Chicago. I didn't think at the time that they were there. Mildred was interested in a movie career and had a screen test made in Chicago. But I don't think she'd start for Hollywood—the moving picture company told her she was too heavy to be an actress."

Rumors that the girls were in Columbus, O., and Portsmouth and Morgantown, W. Va., were investigated and found to be false. Ticket agents of railroads and bus lines in Champaign-Urbana could not remember selling passage to any young women answering their descriptions.

FRANK ASSERTS FASCISM IS CHIEF PERIL TO NATION

Urges a Government to Serve, Not Master.

Fascism is the one great enemy of American democracy, and Americans will soon decide whether they want a government that is afraid of the people or one of which the people are afraid. Thus Glenn Frank, editor of Rural Progress magazine and chairman of the Republican program committee, summed up the political situation in a speech last night in Thorne hall on the Northwestern university campus.

Communism, said Dr. Frank, who is a former president of the University of Wisconsin, has faded, and he believes that if authoritarianism is to come it will be through the failure of normal political and economic leadership to "keep us out of an unbearable economic chaos." Such failure, he said, might result in the calling in of a "strong man" to take charge.

Will Keep State Subservient.

"But I do not believe we are going to sell ourselves into slavery to the state," he declared. "We are not going to hand America back to the unbridled individualism of pioneer days, nor deliver America into the hands of voluntary groups, whether they be farm organizations, labor organizations, trade association of business men, industrialists or financiers. We are going to keep the government the servant, not the sovereign of our lives."

Dr. Frank said that it was the "new liberalism" which has gone authoritarian, not only in its policies but also in the spirit with which it deals with men and affairs.

Raps at New Liberalism.

"It has increasingly invested its pronouncements with the air of infallibility," he asserted. "It has developed the habit of branding every dissenter as heretic and traitor to the national well being. It has the authoritarian belief in the all dominant state as the savior of mankind. It has betrayed impatience with parliamentary procedure. . . . These trends are away from, not toward, the objectives of a liberal republic.

The magazine editor's talk was sponsored by the women's board of the Passavant hospital, of which Mrs. Walter Kirk is president and Mrs. Joseph Coleman honorary president.

ROOSEVELT FIGHTS ON, BUT WAGE, HOUR BILL IS NEAR DEATH

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt said at his press conference today that he will strive to have his minimum wages and hours bill passed at the present session of congress. He disclosed he had called Representative John J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], chairman of the house rules committee, to the White House to discuss prospects of the legislation.

The administration bill, which would turn control of workmen's wages and hours over to politicians, is destined to be pigeonholed by the rules committee late this week, a poll of the committee indicated. Unless the measure is given the right of way by the committee it cannot be acted upon at this session.

The poll showed seven representatives against the bill, four in favor of it, and three doubtful. If the three doubtful ones voted for the bill, the resulting tie would mean the measure will be sidetracked. Mr. Roosevelt was defeated in his attempt to have the legislation passed at the special session of congress last November.

ART INSTITUTE WINNERS' WORK HUNG IN CAPITAL

Murals by Doris Lee, who won the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal in the 1935 exhibition of American painting and sculpture at the Chicago Art institute, and George Harding, Philadelphia artist, have been installed in the Postoffice building in Washington, it was announced yesterday. These complete its decorations, except for wood portrait reliefs that will be placed in the reception hall of the postmaster general's office.

Miss Lee's painting, "Thanksgiving," was awarded the major prize here in 1935 in a show whose modernistic tendencies aroused a storm of controversy and brought 5,000 visitors a day to the art institute to see what the shouting was about. Mrs. Logan called the painting which won her medal "atrocious," and said it was "out of focus." Some other paintings in the show were assailed as obscene. Miss Lee's two murals for the postoffice building in Washington depict a country postoffice and general store, and a rural postoffice. Mr. Harding painted a revolutionary war dispatch rider and Benjamin Franklin signing the post rider's receipt book.

ELIMINATE JEWS FROM AUSTRIAN LIFE! NAZIS URGE

4 Year Program Against Race Advocated.

VIENNA, April 26.—(AP)—A four year plan to eliminate the Jews from Austrian life was advocated today by the Vienna edition of the Voelkischer Beobachter. [The Berlin edition of this newspaper is Adolf Hitler's organ.]

"In 1942 the Jewish element in Vienna must be extinguished," the paper said in presenting its plan.

"No store, no factory shall be under Jewish management, and by that time no Jew shall have opportunity to earn money in Austria, except in purely Jewish communities, where Jews may eat up their money and wait until they die.

Must Prove Aryan Ancestry.

"Persons who cannot prove Aryan ancestry of three generations shall not be permitted to be film actors, authors, composers, musicians, physicians except within their own Jewish community.

"Austrian industry and the money market shall be freed of Jews and Jewish influence. This can be achieved by means of Germany's control of raw materials. Nobody can force us to give Jews the same contingent of raw materials and foreign exchange as allotted to Aryans."

The newspaper suggested Jews could emigrate to "any country willing to receive them."

Suggests Chaco as Haven.

"It would be the duty of the league of nations to send emigrated Jews to Madagascar or the Gran Chaco or other places," the Voelkischer Beobachter said.

"We cannot take seriously Roosevelt's appeal to the world to permit Jews to enter as long as the United States continues its own racial quotas for immigrants."

One Vienna racial research official estimated this plan would affect over 200,000 money earners in Austria and 450,000 more old men and women and children.

Rajah Mounts Cannon on Walls.

JAIPUR, India, April 26.—(AP)—The embattled rajah of Sikar, in revolt against his overlord, the maharajah of Jaipur, today mounted small cannon on his town gates and continued his defiance of a small besieging army. All efforts to persuade the rajah to evacuate Sikar, walled town of northwestern India, were rejected.

CUBS ROAD CHIEF FLIES TO SIDE OF WOUNDED WIFE

Robert Lewis, traveling secretary of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, arrived by plane last night from Pittsburgh, Pa., to be with his wife, Elsie, 38 years old, who is in a serious condition in Henrotin hospital.

Mrs. Lewis, who is known to her neighbors as Beverly, was found yesterday morning in her apartment at 3917 Frontier street, shot through the head. A .38 caliber revolver lay near her hand.

Charles E. Weber, vice president of the ball club, was notified and communicated with Lewis. Neighbors told Detective Sergeant John O'Neil that Mrs. Lewis had been in poor health and on Monday night took her dog and her jewelry to the home of relatives.

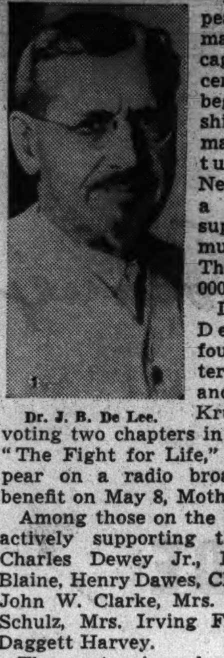
$10 TO BRING BABY; HOW MANY? IS PLEA OF MATERNITY CENTER

"It costs $10 to bring a baby. How many do you want?"



Dr. J. B. De Lee.

This is the appeal that is being made by the Chicago Maternity center which has begun a membership drive to make this institution at 1336 Newberry avenue a more widely supported community project. The goal is $50,000 a year.

Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, who founded the center 42 years ago, and Dr. Paul de Kruif, who is devoting two chapters in his new book, "The Fight for Life," to it, will appear on a radio broadcast for its benefit on May 8, Mothers' day.

Among those on the board who are actively supporting the drive are Charles Dewey Jr., Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Henry Dawes, Clark Lawrence, John W. Clarke, Mrs. George Henry Schulz, Mrs. Irving Florsheim, and Daggett Harvey.

The center is a home and clinic for doctors and nurses who specialize in obstetrics in the home. In 1937 of 5,200 babies delivered in the homes of the poor the center took care of 2,400.

CZECH NAZI CHIEF TO DEMAND VOTE ON JOINING HITLER

Prague's Permission for Election Sought.

BERLIN, April 26.—(AP)—Nazi spokesmen in Berlin today predicted Konrad Henlein would demand early in June that Sudeten Germans be permitted to vote on whether they desire to remain a part of Czechoslovakia or be joined to greater Germany.

The leader of the Nazified Sudeten German party, these spokesmen said, would make his demand just as soon as the communal elections are over. The elections will begin in Prague May 22 and will be held in the rest of the country between May 29 and June 6.

Hitler Restrains Henlein.

It was learned that Henlein was restrained only by Reichsfuehrer Hitler from proclaiming last Sunday in his Carlsbad speech that his movement places itself under the leadership of the fuehrer of Germany. Such action would have meant interference of Germany in the affairs of another nation.

Henlein, therefore, had to content himself with sending a message of greeting to Hitler and at the same time studiously refraining from sending one to President Eduard Benes as chief of the Czechoslovak state.

That the real wish of the Sudeten Nazis, who take their name from the Sudetic mountain range, is anschluss [union] with Germany was privately admitted by many delegates at the Carlsbad convention.

"Lesser of Two Evils."

"In trying to come to an understanding with the Czech authorities," one leader said, "we are choosing the lesser of two evils.

"Anschluss with Germany is our dearest wish. We know, however, that that might mean war. Nobody can foretell what dimensions such a war might assume. Hence we, conscious of our duty to civilization, do not want to be the cause of untold horror and irredeemable destruction.

"So we are ready to sacrifice our dearest wishes to world peace. Our sacrifice, however, demands similar sacrifice by Czechs. Henlein has offered the hand of reconciliation three times. It never was clasped."

BARBER WHO INVENTED FAMOUS MUSTACHE OF KAISER WILHELM DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 26.—François Haby, who invented the famous mustache of former Kaiser Wilhelm II., died today of heart disease. He was 77 years old. Haby, imperial court barber, tended the former kaiser's mustache and curled up the waxed points each day for twenty-six years.

Wilhelm II. when he was emperor of Germany.

The barber died in poverty, though he once was a wealthy man. For years he operated Berlin's most fashionable barber shop. Fifty years ago he invented mustache trainers—"It Is Achieved"—designed to hold the mustache in position, and special curling tongs to give it an upward twirl. The invention enjoyed a big sale among army men and courtiers eager to imitate the kaiser.

After the world war Haby lost his fortune. Demands for mustache trainers sank when Wilhelm and his mustache went into exile. The barber explained he invented the imperial mustache to keep it from dragging in the soup or picking up gravy.

ACQUIT FATHER OF ATTEMPTING TO KIDNAP GIRLS

NASSAU, Bahamas, April 26.—(AP)—After spending six weeks in jail awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to kidnap his two daughters from his former wife's care, Forrester Scott of Philadelphia, Pa., was freed today. A directed verdict of acquittal was returned after the court decided the former Mrs. Scott's divorce, secured in Reno, Nev., was invalid under British law.

The finding made the testimony of the mother, who became Mrs. Harry Clark Boden the day she received her divorce decree last June 22, inadmissible under the rule that a wife can not testify against her husband.

Stanley Boynton of Rockland, Me., an aviator, was freed with Scott. The latter, an attorney, was accused of hiring Boynton to assist in the alleged abduction attempt.

Sir Richard Tute, chief justice, directed the verdict.

How to Keep Peace or Win War Topic of Talk.

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—British and French ministers today studied fresh reports on Czechoslovakia's German minority problem in preparation for joint talks on how to keep peace in Europe or insure victory in the event of war.

Premier Edouard Daladier of France and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, will fly to London tomorrow. They will open conferences with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax Thursday.

The growing demands of the Sudeten German [Nazi party in Czechoslovakia, with apparent encouragement from Berlin, made the fate of this central European democracy one of the most urgent questions before the ministers.

Force or Diplomacy?

Joined with it was the whole issue of German expansion—whether this would have to be met eventually by force or could be checked by diplomacy.

France's defensive alliance with Czechoslovakia made this a subject of vital concern to her especially, but Daladier was cold toward a possible four-power pact linking Germany with Britain, France, and Italy to keep peace.

The ministers apparently pinned their hopes of solving peacefully the Czechoslovak problem on the conciliation of the government and the Sudeten Germans with the possible aid of Premier Mussolini's influence on Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

France Gets Czech Note.

PARIS, April 26.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia, depending on France to plead her cause with Great Britain, tonight gave Premier Edouard Daladier a memorandum rejecting Nazi minority demands as threats against Czech independence. Czech sources said the memorandum was the Prague's government's answer to Konrad Henlein's minimum demands for his Sudeten German [Nazi] party.

HITLER PUTS UNIFORMS ON CAMERA MEN FOR VISIT WITH MUSSOLINI

BERLIN, April 26.—(AP)—Dressed in new gray uniforms made especially for the occasion, movie cameramen and news photographers selected by the Nazi propaganda ministry left for Italy today as the advance guard of Germans attending the Adolf Hitler-Benito Mussolini conference next week.

The cameramen took special delight in seeing soldiers of the army and air force, who had never encountered this uniform before, stand at attention as they would before a military officer.

The cameramen will be followed soon by German newspaper correspondents, all of whom have had to invest in brown uniforms. For ordinary occasions high black boots, riding breeches, and gray or brown shirts were prescribed. For gala occasions, both news and cameramen will wear long trousers and white shirts. In all cases black ties will be worn.

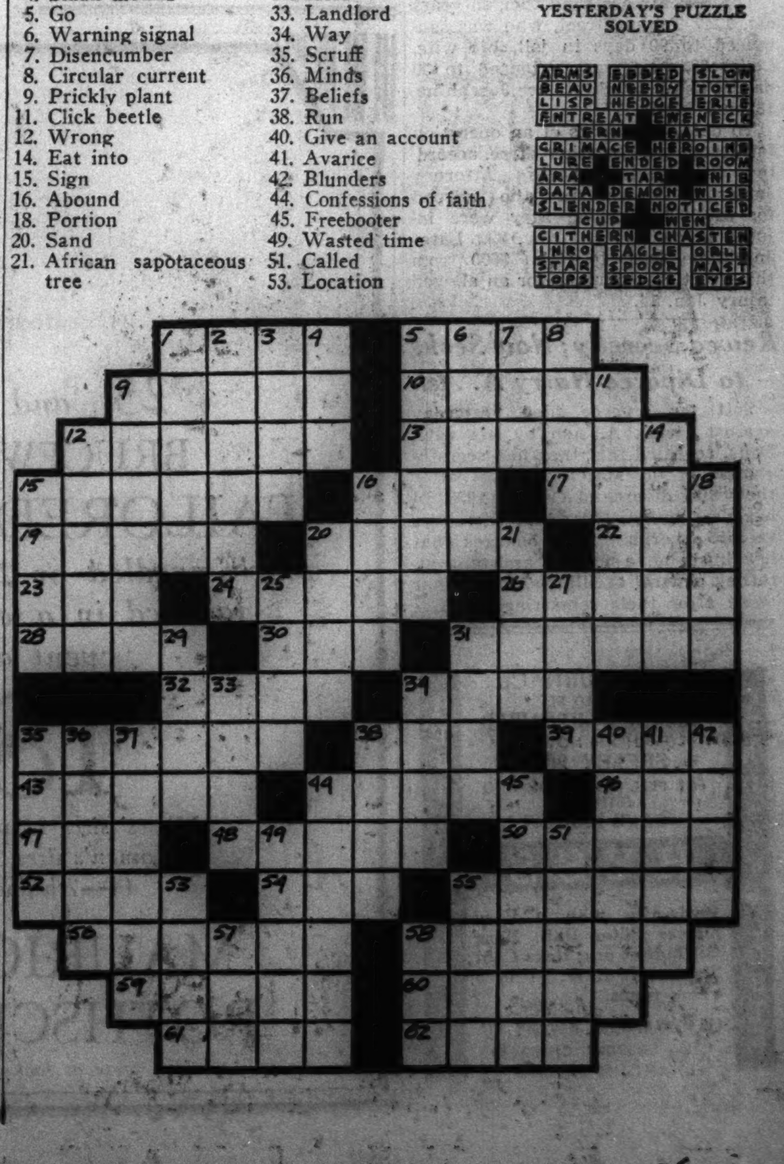
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



To Market by Street Car

YOUR GROCERMAN knows his onions—which is just another way of saying that he knows his business.

And the most important factor in his business is the proper location of his store. He wants to be handy to the people who trade with him.

We asked Mr. Max Simon, President of the Chicago-Cook County Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association, what he considered the most advantageous location for a grocery or meat market, and this is what he said:

"There are approximately 10,000 food markets in Chicago. Practically every one of them is served by the Chicago Surface Lines. That's because at least 80 per cent of their customers are Surface Lines riders."

MR. MAX SIMON
President, Chicago-Cook County Retail Grocers' and Butchers' Association

The Surface Lines is distinctly a home-to-market service. There are no long walks—no stairs to climb. Ninety-eight per cent of all homes in the city are within three blocks of a Surface Lines car or bus route.

Nothing is easier than to board a car or bus, ride to the market, make your purchases and ride home.

The housewife knows it—and so does the grocer. Naturally he wants to be handy to Surface Lines service.

BRITAIN BOOSTS INCOME TAXES TO PAY FOR ARMS

Nation Gets Biggest Peace Budget in History.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—In an effort to minimize an expected storm of protest against the government's action today in boosting income and other taxes, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, tonight went on the air with a speech in which he reëmphasized to the nation the need of sacrifices if Great Britain is to be made safe from aggression. The country must, he said, support the $11,250,000,000 five year rearmament program.

Sir John's speech followed the introduction in the house of commons of the biggest peacetime budget in the nation's history. The budget provides for the expediture of more than five billion dollars during the coming fiscal year. About $1,715,000,000 of this outlay will go for armaments.

Proposes Tax Boosts.

To raise this great sum Sir John proposed:

FIRST—To increase the income tax from 25 per cent to 27½ per cent. The new rate is 5 shillings 6 pence per pound [$1.37½ per $5]. The old rate was 5 shillings per pound [$1.25 per $5]. Every single man in the United Kingdom with an income of $500 and every married man with an income of $900 pays an income tax.

SECOND—To raise the tax on gasoline from 8 pence [17 cents] to 9 pence [19 cents] per gallon. Gasoline now costs about 37 cents a gallon in Great Britain.

THIRD—To raise the tax on tea from 4 pence [8 cents] to 6 pence [12½ cents] per pound.

Britain Stores Up Food.

Sir John disclosed in his speech also that Great Britain is storing up huge supplies of raw materials—especially wheat, whale oil [for margarine], and sugar—in quantities sufficient to supply the civilian population for "the early months" of a war. This was done without permission of parliament "to prevent prices from being raised by knowledge of the government coming into the market," Sir John said. The government will ask parliament to approve its action later.

It was disclosed by agricultural sources that the government's emergency wheat store was accumulated with the coöperation of the United States.

America, some European countries and the British dominions, it was said, helped to keep the market quiet while the British government secretly amassed a million tons of wheat. Most of the buying was carried out by a group of millers and importers with the backing of a $25,000,000 guarantee from the British government against losses.

Stock Market Drops.

Members of the house heard Sir John's tax proposals for the most part in silence. It had been expected that the increased budget would be balanced by further borrowing and by "soaking the rich" through higher death duties and surtaxes. The income tax boost was a surprise.

The effect of the government's action began to become apparent tonight. The London transport board, which controls all of London's public transport, announced that fares will be increased to meet the higher gasoline costs.

The London stock markets reflected disappointment. Gilt edged stocks and industrials generally were weak, while oils lost several points.

Business men predicted that the tax increase would seriously affect the industrial position upon which the country's prosperity depends.

Sees Further Restriction.

Sir Patrick Hannon, president of the National Union of Manufacturers, foresaw further restriction of industrial expansion, while Sir William Davison, chairman of the Income Payers' society, held that the budget would have a bad psychological effect.

"Even at the height of the world war," he pointed out, "we were paying an income tax of only 6 shillings in the pound. Now, in time of peace, we are paying 5 shillings 6 pence."

Business leaders generally, however, indicated that despite criticisms they were prepared to swallow the tax pill in the interest of national security.

The government tried to soften the blow by doubling from 10 to 20 per cent the tax allowance for depreciation on industrial plants. As a result industry as a whole will not be affected by the new taxation.

Financial Position Disclosed.

Sir John's figures disclosed the financial position of the country as follows:

Last year's expenditures amounted to $4,165,000,000 and last year's revenue to $4,360,000,000. About $325,000,000 of last year's expenditure was covered by borrowing.

Expenditure for the coming year from revenue was estimated at $4,721,990,000. This will not include $450,000,000 which will be expended through a loan, so the grand total of expenditure will actually be $5,171,990,000.

On the basis of existing taxations, Sir John's problem was to produce about $360,000,000 more revenue. The new taxations are intended to do this.

Worst Yet to Come.

But the worst is yet to come, Sir John said. The peak of expenditure will not be reached until next year or possibly the year after, when it was estimated unofficially that budget expenditures may be increased another billion or billion and one-half dollars annually.

The grand total of 5 billion dollars for the coming year will be even greater also, Sir John warned, for that amount does not cover supplementary appropriations necessary for the costs of two battleships, seven cruisers, and two airplane carriers due to be laid down this year.

The highest British budget expenditure of history was the war year 1917, when $13,480,000,000 was spent.

Seeking Divorce

MRS. GRACE CLEMENT. (MONA LLESLIE.)

Mrs. Grace Clement, 23 years old, a dancer known as Mona Lleslie, filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit court from Gilbert Clement, 38, a dress designer of Dallas, Tex. Miss Lleslie was rescued from the lake a week ago when, as a publicity stunt, she took an early swim and went under. Attorney Norman Becker, who filed her divorce suit, said Miss Lleslie was an entertainer at A Century of Progress in 1933 and 1934.

NEED FOR NAVAL EXPANSION PAST, DECLARES BORAH

Assails Roosevelt Plan to Spend Billion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] told the senate today that President Roosevelt's billion dollar naval expansion program no longer could be justified even from a world policing viewpoint.

Since Mr. Roosevelt submitted the big navy proposal of Jan. 28, the dean of the senate declared, Europe has abandoned the collective security or world policing theory under which the so-called democracies would undertake to quarantine the dictatorships, and returned to the old-fashioned balance of power theory of dealing with the dictators.

Japan, he said, is too busy in China to be a menace.

Declares Proponents Confused.

Senator Borah said proponents of the measure were confused. To objections that the program will cost more than a billion dollars, the proponents say it will be spread over a period of from ten to twenty years, he recalled.

"But immediately, upon the other hand, we are advised that the additional strength of the navy is essential because of present emergent conditions, because there are great dangers lurking here and there throughout the world," Senator Borah said.

The senator analyzed these supposed dangers one by one and expressed the opinion that the United States is in no danger from any source so long as it minds its own business.

Recalls Italy's Grab.

"We witnessed some months ago the seizure of Ethiopia by Italy and more recently the seizure of Austria by Germany," said Senator Borah.

"These incidents have been made the subject of debate and discussion and I have even heard it said that inasmuch as Italy seized Ethiopia, which is a country of very limited wealth, there is the most urgent reason why Italy should seize the United States because the United States has great wealth.

"The situation has greatly changed in Europe with reference to the dictators since the pending naval expansion bill first was proposed. The entire situation has changed and as profound a change in international affairs as ever took place within a limited time has taken place in the international affairs of Europe since the proposal of this naval bill.

Collective Security Abandoned.

"Great Britain has swung back to the old balance of power idea. Only a few weeks ago she renounced the entire theory of collective security and went back to the old balance of power or to power politics where she is at home, where she understands the game.

"We are dealing with the situation based upon the same principles that have obtained in Europe for the last 250 years. In other words, they are settling their territorial questions, their boundary questions, their questions of real estate, in the manner in which they have settled them throughout all these years.

"Whatever we may think of the method or the manner of those settlements, however much we may sympathize with the small nations, there is nothing new in the situation in Europe calculated to make necessary an increase in our naval strength, because it was a system working along the same lines to which we have been accustomed ever since we have been a government."

ALL COUNTY TAX BILLS TO BE OUT MAY 1; DEADLINE IS JUNE 1

June 1 definitly will be the deadline for paying Cook county 1937 property taxes without penalty, Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer said yesterday in announcing that all tax bills will be in the mails by May 1.

It will be the first time since 1928 that there will be no necessity for postponing the deadline, he said. More than two-thirds of all real estate bills are already out and work is well under way in mailing of personalty bills, he added. Lindheimer urged that taxpayers make their payments by mail instead of paying in person at the collector's office in the county building.

There has been an unusual early rush of tax payments this year, the treasurer said. Since the first 1937 realty bills went out ten days ago, $442,929 already has been paid.

U. S. TO RECRUIT RESERVE ARMY OF 75,000 MEN

Roosevelt Signs Bill to Bolster Defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today signed the bill reëstablishing the regular army reserve, which will give the country a new and select reserve force such as existed before the world war. The reserve was abandoned in 1920 because of the millions of young trained veterans then available for defense of the country.

To be eligible for enrollment in the new regular army reserve a man must, first of all, be a trained former regular. He must have satisfactorily completed an enlistment in the regular army. He must be unmarried and under 36 years of age. These requirements are set up because the regular army reserve is to be a part of the regular army, and its members will be available for active duty in an emergency under the same conditions as the active regular army, on call from the President.

Enrollment Pay $24 Yearly.

The regular army reservist, having undergone the rigorous training of the regular army, will not be required to attend drills or training periods. He will be able to pursue his normal civilian occupation. For accepting the obligations of the regular army reserve he will be paid a reënlistment allowance of $24 a year for each of the four years he is enrolled, or a total of $96.

If and when he is called to active duty, he will be paid an additional sum computed at the rate of $3 for each month of reserve service and up to a total of $150.

Officials of the war department said this reserve filled a long felt need. It would make possible the immediate reënforcement of regular army units and early establishment of those outfits maintained on an inactive status in peace time. The reservist, having served in the regular forces, could take his place alongside his former buddies without delay for training.

Cost Relatively Small.

They said also that this law made available a splendid reënforcement for the regular forces at small cost to the taxpayer. The expense of this reserve when it is filled to its expected size of 75,000 will be about equivalent to the cost of 2,000 men on the active list.

The annual payment of $24 a man and the additional sum paid him when he reports will be far less than the cost of recruiting and training inexperienced men in time of emergency. Prior to the world war the value of trained soldiers was considered high enough to justify the payment of an enlistment bonus in time of emergency up to $300.

Enlistment in this service will be opened July 1, regulations covering its administration are being prepared by the war department. It is expected that about 18,000 former regulars will be enlisted the first year, and that within four years approximately 75,000 will be enrolled.

REDS SPEED WORK ON FAR EASTERN NAVAL DEFENSES

Canal and Munitions Plant in Soviet Plans.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 26.—The Domei [Japanese] News agency reported today that soviet Russia is engaged vigorously in perfecting naval defenses in the far east, facing Japan. The armament plans were reported to include:

1. Completion of an impregnable base at Vladivostok with facilities for the construction of warships.

2. Construction of branch rail lines from Komsomolsk, the terminus of the trans-Siberian, to Dekastori and Sovietskaya bays.

3. Construction of coastal defense batteries near Dekastori; building of a naval port and digging of a canal to link Dekastori with the Amur river, saving many miles.

4. Construction of a new naval base on Sovietskya bay, work on which already has started.

5. Improvement of the harbor of Petropavlovsk on southern Kamchatka peninsula and the construction of a giant munitions plant covering 1,250 acres.

Face Japanese Territory.

Sovietskaya has a large and protected harbor and is on the ice free gulf of Tartary. Across the narrow gulf is the Japanese territory of Karafuto [the southern half of Sakhalin Island]. Petropavlovsk is the chief port for the Russian far eastern fishing industry.

A Japanese embassy military attaché who returned today from Moscow declared the soviet has intensified its isolation policy and is trying to break off connections with the outside world. He declared the soviet is training 80,000 civilian aviators as the basis of the country's new air strength.

Ill feeling between Russians and Japanese, which has been mounting in recent weeks, was aggravated by a clash between fifty Russian troops and a united group of Manchukuan border guards, an announcement of Japanese army headquarters in Corea said today.

Clash Within Manchukuo.

The battle took place 18 miles inside Manchukuan territory and lasted an hour, the report said. The Russians suffered several casualties and were driven back.

Japanese charged that Russian war planes have been flying over Manchukuan territory since April 20 and that on April 23 many Russian troops appeared near Hunchun, a strategic point where the Russian, Manchukuan, and Corean borders come together. The Russians were driven back but returned two days later.

Japanese further charged that on April 24 Russian war planes molested Japanese fishing vessels off the coast of Corea, and yesterday near Vladivostok.

Advance on Shantung Front.

SHANGHAI, April 27 [Wednesday]. —(AP)—Japanese, who are fighting southward toward the vital Lunghai railroad junction at Suchow, broke through Chinese lines today at Hsiaowang, a village southeast of Yihsien, but the Chinese swiftly counter attacked and temporarily plugged the hole. The break through at this point, however, put the Japanese in position to outflank the defenders of Taierchwang if they can continue driving forward. Taierchwang is about 45 miles northeast of Suchow, where the east-west Lunghai railway crosses the Tientsin-Pukow line.

It was explained that officials generally must take such an oath, and therefore those of the church should do likewise.

FRANCO MASSES PLANES ON NEW COASTAL FRONT

Give Aid to Rebels' Drive Toward Castellon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [at the Spanish frontier], April 26.—The 38 mile strip of the Mediterranean coast south of the Ebro river which Gen. Francisco Franco now holds will be used for air bases which will bring his planes much closer to the front for Spanish rebel drives in eastern Spain, it was learned today.

Hitherto the rebel war planes had operated chiefly from Palma, Mallorca, in the Balearic Islands off the east coast.

Now the rebels will mass bombers and combat planes at Vinaroz, where Franco's armies first reached the sea, and at Valderrobres, which is about thirty miles to the northwest of Vinaroz. Both bases will be within quick striking distance of Tarragona in Catalonia to the north, and of Castellon and Valencia to the south.

Effective Against Infantry.

The effectiveness of the rebel air operations in the coastal sector already is becoming apparent. Planes yesterday heavily bombed Castellon and Valencia. Machine gunning of roads, loyalist troop concentrations, and front lines has added to the government's difficulty in holding a defense against the rebel drive toward Castellon and Valencia.

Gen. Miguel Aranda reported that the rebel drive from Albocacer and Alcala de Chisvert, both about twenty-five miles north of Castellon, had made progress after the loyalist defenses were shattered by artillery and air bombardments. He asserted the advance was made despite loyalist counterattacks and said the front was now only five miles from Torreblanca.

Loyalists Report a Push.

Government dispatches earlier had said that their troops drove a wedge between Albocacer and Alcala and that rebel troops had been driven back in disorder for six miles.

Gen. Aranda's right wing also was having trouble straightening out its line westward from Albocacer to Teruel, loyalist sources asserted. Loyalists were said to be resisting firmly in strong mountain positions south of Aliaga.

The rebels were reported to be pouring reserve troops and munitions into Morella and Vinaroz, preparing to add power to the Castellon drive. However, loyalists asserted that Gen. Franco's "march to the sea" had been so costly in men that he does not have sufficient reserves to continue the central Catalonia drive on Barcelona.

WOUNDED AMERICANS TELL OF REBEL RAID ON HOSPITAL TRAIN

VALENCIA, Spain, April 26.—(AP)—Delayed reports of a rebel aerial attack on a government hospital train on April 14 were brought to Valencia today by wounded American and Canadian members of the international brigade.

Ten persons, including a woman, were killed in the moonlight raid of a lone rebel bomber along the Mediterranean coast north of Castellon de la Plana. Six of the thirty Americans among the 200 persons on the train were reinjured in the attack and others in subsequent bombings at Castellon de la Plana where they were taken after the train was wrecked. Today the wounded were brought to Valencia by a medical party which included Dr. and Mrs. Abraham Ettleson of Chicago.

Eight bombs were dropped on the train in the April 14 attack. They were time bombs which exploded after the pilot had dropped them from low altitude and then made his getaway. He returned, however, flying low and with his machine guns opened fire on persons who were fleeing to shelter in the nearby olive groves.

PLAYING COP NOT SO FUNNY; 2 GET FINES OF $25 EACH

Pretending to be policemen was fun. Rupert Pietilla, 30 years old, and Sterling Zerbel, 29, halted Mrs. Benjamin True's car, told her they were policemen, and followed in their own car when she drove on. But the fun ended when Mrs. True signaled to a real policeman who passed. He turned out to be her husband, a Waukegan bluecoat.

Magistrate Clarence Brown heard the story in Waukegan police court yesterday and assessed fines of $25 each from Pietilla, who lives at 217 Washington street, Waukegan, and Zerbel, whose home is at 311 4th street, Waukegan. The charge was disorderly conduct.

SHARK WEIGHING 2 TONS SLAIN WITH A POCKET KNIFE

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—A thirty foot "sea gangster"—a shark with a mouth as big as an automobile wheel—has been killed with a pocket knife by a fisherman in Weymouth bay.

The two ton-shark had been wrecking fishermen's nets for more than three years, and eluding hunting parties armed with rifles and harpoons.

Yesterday the shark became snared in a net near shore and was pulled gently toward the beach. Frederick Farn, a fisherman, jumped into the water, and repeatedly stabbed the shark which lashed the bloody water into foam with his five-foot tail. The battle lasted thirty minutes and ended with the shark dead and Farn exhausted.

NEW QUAKES HIT TURKEY; 16 DEAD; PEOPLE IN PANIC

ANKARA, Turkey, April 26.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were killed today when a new series of earthquakes rocked the Kirshehr district sixty miles southeast of here.

Kirshehr was one of the worst stricken areas in last week's temblors in which dead and missing were estimated at 800.

The renewed shocks, at least seventeen in the last twenty-four hours, revived last week's panic. Frightened peasants sent frantic appeals to the government to arrange transfer to safer areas.

Mrs. William H. Harkness Jr., who brought the giant pandas, Mei-Mei and the lamented Su-Lin, from the wilds of western China, was a visitor at the Chicago zoölogical park yesterday. Today she is to confer with the zoo's board of directors on arrangements for another trip to the panda haunts, where she intends to search for a mate for Mei-Mei.

Mei-Mei welcomed Mrs. Harkness affectionately. The youngster, who is the most looked at animal in the zoo, now weighs forty pounds, compared to twenty-four when she arrived in February. She has been placed in the quarters formerly occupied by Su-Lin, who died April 1, and appears twice daily, from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m., and 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. to amuse her public.

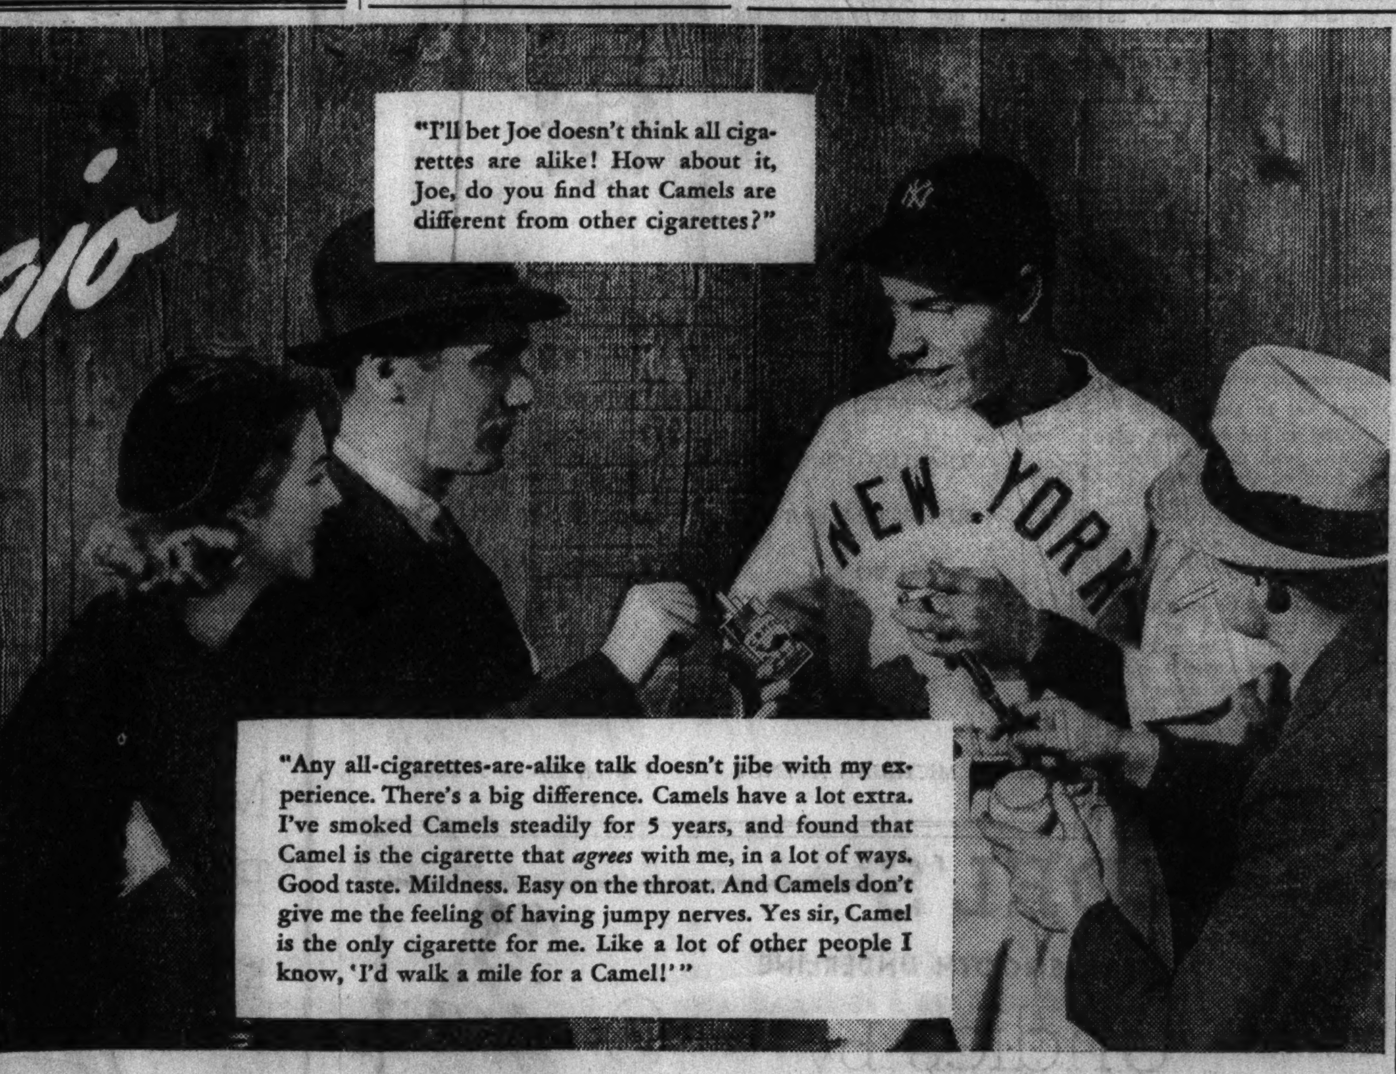
Joe DiMaggio has something to say about how different cigarettes can be!



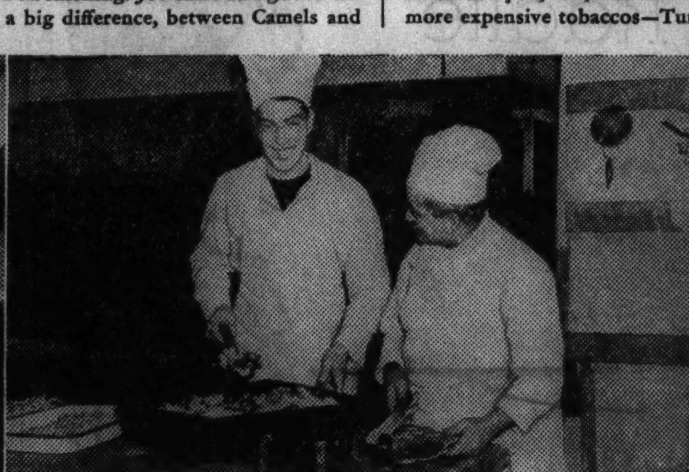
"I'll bet Joe doesn't think all cigarettes are alike! How about it, Joe, do you find that Camels are different from other cigarettes?"

"Any all-cigarettes-are-alike talk doesn't jibe with my experience. There's a big difference. Camels have a lot extra. I've smoked Camels steadily for 5 years, and found that Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me, in a lot of ways. Good taste. Mildness. Easy on the throat. And Camels don't give me the feeling of having jumpy nerves. Yes sir, Camel is the only cigarette for me. Like a lot of other people I know, 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!'"

WHEN BILL GRAHAM saw Joe DiMaggio pull out his package of Camels, he asked Joe's opinion on smoking. Joe came straight to the point: "There's a difference, a big difference, between Camels and the others." Like Joe DiMaggio—like millions of other Camel smokers—you, too, will find in Camels a matchless blend of finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic.

JOE KEEPS his hand in on mending nets. His family are fisher folk from away back. DiMaggio is 6 feet tall—weighs around 185 pounds. His nerves are h-e-a-l-t-h-y!

DURING THE WINTER, Joe's busy at his restaurant. Ask Joe what he does when tired—"I get a 'lift' with a Camel—another reason I say Camels are the cigarette for me. They set me right!"



BACK IN THE KITCHEN of his picturesque water front restaurant, Joe says: "I eat pretty much what I like all season long and smoke Camels with my meals and afterward—'for digestion's sake.' I think Camels are just made to order for mealtime contentment."

CLOSE-UP OF JOE'S GRIP. "Ball players go for Camels in a big way," he says. When someone mentioned that he had a sensitive throat, Joe remarked: "I'm a steady smoker and I find that Camels don't irritate my throat. That shows Camels have real mildness all right."

"TOBACCO GROWERS FAVOR CAMELS FOR THEIR SMOKING!"
—is the majority opinion in a survey of well-known tobacco planters

"When Camel says 'costlier tobaccos' I know it's right," says Mr. Edward Estes, capable young planter. "Camel bought all the best parts of my last crop—paid me the most I've ever gotten. The men who grow tobacco know what to smoke—Camels!"

"Last year I had the dandiest crop ever," says Mr. Roy Jones, another experienced planter who prefers Camels. "I smoke Camels because they pay more at the auctions for the choice lots of leaf tobacco. They paid the highest price I ever got from anybody. It's not surprising that Camel is the leading cigarette with us planters."

Mr. Harold Craig knows the kinds of tobaccos that go into various cigarettes. "I'm the fellow who gets the check—so I know that Camels use more expensive tobaccos. Camel got the best of my last crop. That holds true with most planters I know too. You bet I smoke Camels."

Last year, Mr. Walter Devine's tobacco brought the highest price in his market. "Camel paid top prices for my best lots;" he says, telling what happened at the auction. "Other planters got top prices from the Camel buyers too when their tobacco was extra-choice grade. Being in the tobacco growing business, I'm partial to Camels. Most of the other big growers here feel the same way."

Top prices, that's what J. B. Jackson, another successful planter, got from the Camel buyer last year. "Camel buyers don't buy just any tobacco—they pay more to get the best. That means finer tobaccos are used for Camels. I say cigarette quality has got to be grown in the tobacco. That's why I smoke Camels."

ILLINOIS TRAFIC DEATHS REDUCED 50 PCT. IN MARCH

24 Pct. Drop Recorded in Last 3 Months.

A 50 per cent decrease in automobile fatalities in Illinois last month, compared with March of 1937, indicates that highway motor travel in the state is growing safer, Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer, said yesterday.

Last month the state automobile death toll was 119; in March, 1937, it was 252. In the first three months of the year the massacre totaled 455, a drop of 24.7 per cent below the 603 deaths in the same period last year. Since last September the downward trend has been continuing, Lieberman said.

One Dead, Four Hurt in Crash.

Mrs. Mary Wood, 63 years old, of Moro, Ill., was killed and four persons were injured yesterday afternoon in a collision of two automobiles at 55th street and Wolf road, Western Springs.

Mrs. Wood and her husband, Dr. C. M. Wood, a physician, were on their way to visit their son-in-law, Dr. Edward S. Baxter of 903 Burlington avenue, Western Springs. With them was their grandson, Bruce Baxter, 4 years old. When the crash occurred Mrs. Wood and the boy were hurled from the car.

The driver of the second automobile, Roy Chisholm, 30 years old, and his passenger, Frank Kluiber, 22 years old, of Hinsdale, were seriously hurt.

Suburban Train Hits Truck.

Suburban trafic on the Rock Island railroad was tied up during the morning rush hour yesterday when a seven coach loop bound train plowed into an automobile transport truck at the Ashland avenue crossing near 89th street.

Nelson Caldwell, 29 years old, of Flint, Mich., the truck driver, was seriously injured. Firemen had to cut him out of the wrecked cab with acetylene torches, while others extinguished a fire in the truck. Caldwell had just delivered three automobiles to a sales agency.

Mrs. Effie Bond, 78 years old, 1813 South 5th avenue, Maywood, died yesterday in the Oak Park hospital of injuries suffered March 20 when she was struck by an automobile at Harlem avenue and Dickens street in Elmwood Park. The driver was Axel Bonde, 5055 North Mozart street.

Killed in Indiana Crash.

Terrence Grady, 33 years old, 1210 East 78th street, was killed yesterday when his automobile collided with a trailer truck in U. S. route 20 at Rolling Prairie, Ind., near Laporte.

William McKay, 47 years old, 1138 Kenwood avenue, Hammond, who was struck by an automobile April 17 at 103d street and Western avenue, died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital. The driver was George Van Bokkenburg of 1219 Austin boulevard, Cicero.

Daniel Bergdoll, 55 years old, 837 Grand avenue, died last night in the Franklin boulevard hospital of injuries suffered Sunday, when he was struck at Grand and Milwaukee avenues by an automobile driven by Joseph B. Kelly, 7123 East End avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 274 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 219 were killed in Chicago, where 5,361 were injured in the same period.

Admits Drunk Driving

Mrs. Grace C. Loomis in jail at Wheaton yesterday on erratic driving charges.

Mrs. Grace C. Loomis, 40 years old, of Lombard, who was arrested twice in two months for driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty to one of the charges yesterday before Judge Wyn Knoch of DuPage county. Sentence was postponed until today. Mrs. Loomis was the foster mother of Roger Loomis, whose body was found in Lombard in February, 1937.

She was first arrested Feb. 23 after her automobile crashed into another driven by policemen. She remained in jail at Wheaton for several weeks before she was able to furnish bonds of $1,000. Her second arrest occurred on April 16, when she crashed into a car driven by T. W. Muldoon of Lombard. She has since been in jail. The plea of guilty was entered in connection with the Moldoon collision, the prisoner maintaining her innocence in the first crash.

HEARING BARES AMAZING CIRCLE OF STOCK DEALS

scribed for $150,000. It was later canceled and not paid.

Q.—George E. Howard, secretary and director? A.—He was down for $150,000, afterward canceled.

Duggan went on to name Leonard L. Cowan, Chicago attorney and general counsel for Resources Corporation International who, he said, subscribed for $50,000 which was later canceled. Edward Hartman, listed as vendor of contracts, subscribed $250,000 and canceled it, Duggan declared. Ray Soldwell, auditor, was listed for $25,000, which was later canceled and not paid. Bruce Hoover, nephew of the promoter, was down for $100,000, also canceled.

In his analysis of the company's subscription ledger Duggan told of entries showing that interests in the syndicate pool had been exchanged for $6,000 worth of cemetery lots, automobiles, and other property. A university professor was given a $1,000 interest for speeches he had made, extoling the value of the company's holdings. A motion picture cameraman had been given an interest in return for filming the timber tracts.

At the conclusion of Duggan's testimony Hoover was called to the stand and asked to tell why the syndicate was willing to accept stocks instead of cash.

"Times were hard," he said. "We were willing to take stocks as partial payment."

Q.—Stock in eleven companies was accepted. Had you been interested in any of these companies previously? A.—I was a director in two of them, trustee in one, and an investor in three.

Q.—Did you put up any actual cash yourself? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—Will you point it out on the books? A.—Mr. Soldwell, our auditor, will point it out.

The syndicate ledger was open at the page where Hoover's subscriptions—later canceled—were listed.

"Mr. Hoover's investment," said Soldwell, "is represented by the 735,000 shares of stock he received from the corporation."

Q.—The 735,000 shares that were given him in return for his equity in the land? A.—Yes.

Spectators and attorneys broke into a laugh at this answer. Questioning of Hoover was resumed.

Q.—In acquiring the Mexican properties, which ultimately became the property of Resources International, were the funds that were used those of the syndicate? A.—They were.

Q.—Were only those funds used? A.—That is correct.

Q.—How much was actually paid on the $359,154 equity you held in the Mexican lands? A.—About $152,000.

At this point the SEC attorneys produced an affidavit filed by the corporation in 1934 when it sought to qualify its stocks with the Illinois Securities commission for sale in the state. The affidavit valued the land at 9 million dollars which included 7 millions paid for the land and 2 million dollars of expenses, $150,000 of which was given to Hoover for personal services and cash outlay.

"Which is correct," asked Attorney Brookhart, "the 9 million dollar figure submitted to the state or the figure you just gave us?"

Earlier in the day Attorney Cowan, general counsel for the corporation, was questioned on payment of $886,000 to stockholders during 1937. He had previously testified that the corporation's income was from the sale of timber cutting contracts.

It had been shown that three companies, listed as lumber operators, had paid in $769,000 to Resources Corporation International as advances on timber cutting contracts. SEC attorneys then presented evidence that of this amount $744,000 had been advanced to lumber operators by Hoover.

"These companies," said Examiner Fitts, "apparently were conduits by which Hoover poured back into his own corporation funds which he originally had received from it as shares of stock."

"Did not these distributions from funds so received constitute dividends from capital?" asked Brookhart.

"We did not term them dividends," Cowan replied. "We called them 'distributions.'"

At the close of the session corporation officials requested that the hearings be transferred to Washington. A ruling is expected today.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

THREE BROKERS DENY CHARGES OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Three officials of Hoagland & Allum Co., Inc., La Salle street brokerage house which collapsed with an estimated loss of $725,000 to investors, pleaded not guilty yesterday to charges of embezzlement and conspiracy.

With the agreement of Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson, Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington of the Criminal court deferred further action until May 17.

Thompson said the continuance would give the state time to complete its investigation. The auditors, he said, are only now becoming familiar with the bookkeeping system of the company, which did not post its books for the last four months. The company was a member of no stock exchange and, therefore, its books were not subject to exchange regulation or inspection.

The three defendants were remanded to the county jail under bond of $200,000 each. They are George F. Allum, president; Henry A. Engel, secretary and treasurer, and Olaf A. Larsen, vice president.

HOLD PAROLEE ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Michael Reda, a paroled convict, was held to the grand jury in $5,000 bond by Judge John J. Rooney in the Felony court yesterday on a robbery charge.

Deputy Revenue Collector Held in Security Thefts

United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday held Walter W. Goralski, 4650 Wrightwood avenue, a deputy collector of internal revenue, to the federal grand jury in bonds of $3,500 on charge of converting social security funds to his own use. His defalcations have been placed at $1,147.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

HOW THE ANCIENTS DYED

By CALEB

IN A DAY of standardization and mass production there is something fascinating about a process of manufacture—half trade, half art—that has resisted the pressure of time and industry.

At Langley, in England, the art of dyeing fabrics with a preparation called madder is still practiced as it has been for many decades—a carefully guarded skill handed down from generation to generation. Chief application of the art in that locality is in the printing of foulards, slowly, painstakingly—by hand.

Madder is a substance prepared from the roots of a tree that grows over a considerable area in Europe, India and adjacent countries. It produces a characteristic and beautiful red. The origin of its use as a dye fades into antiquity, for archaeologists have reported its discovery in the patterns on wrappings of Egyptian mummies.

Recently our Store for Men received a shipment of foulard ties fashioned from these madder prints, and with them, a set of the intricate blocks and boards used in the process of making them. The pattern blocks, together with photographs of the English workshops and samples of the dye ingredients, make an interesting display.

The cloth base is a heavy silk twill weave, weighing 36 ounces to the square yard, a grayish white in color. It is first dipped in melted wax and thoroughly covered. The wooden blocks, with faces carved to the pre-determined pattern, are used to imprint the pattern a square foot at a time. The wax is carefully removed in spots to confine the dye to desired patterns, and one color after another is applied, each with a different block.

The results are singularly attractive. The madder colors have a distinctive quality. From the first they look antique—soft, with graceful high-lights and subdued colors.

The various madder dyes used in these foulard prints have a good many ingredients to produce the various colors. Among them are preparations from sumac, bran, lime, beeswax, Persian 'berries,' Dutch Madder, rusty coppers, alizarin red, resin, bark extracts—and many others.

Looking at the exhibit, there is the almost irresistible urge to take some cloth, cut some pattern block and experiment. It might make an interesting hobby.

DICK TRACY—Double Duty

DUTY OF WOMEN TO HELP RETAIN DEMOCRACY TOLD

Voters' League Hears Its Responsibility.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 26.—[Special.]—America's responsibility is to show a disillusioned world that self-government can succeed, Miss Marguerite M. Wells, president of the National League of Women Voters, said in opening the organization's thirteenth convention here today. The object of the meeting is to study the fundamentals of the American system and their application to present day problems.

"But democracy is not a blessing that can be bestowed upon a people and thereafter possessed for all time," Miss Wells said. "Our forefathers worked hard at the democratic system they founded. They bequeathed it to us. Like many heirs to bequests, Americans have been spendthrifts of theirs. The 18th century worked for democracy, the 19th enjoyed it, the 20th, like the proverbial third generation, must go back to shirtsleeves."

Mrs. Bohrer Is Speaker.

Mrs. Florence F. Bohrer of Bloomington, Ill., for eight years a member of the Illinois senate and organizer of her local league, voiced the convention keynote.

The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of "Checks and Balances," by Dr. John M. Gaus of the University of Wisconsin, on leave to study the department of agriculture for the Social Science Research council, and Robert E. Cushman, head of the department of government at Cornell university.

Defeat of the administration's reorganization bill leaves a number of steps to be taken to bridge the gap between the executive and the legislative, Dr. Gaus said. The country is twenty years in arrears on its governmental adjustments, he said.

Point of Failure.

"Unless we bring politician and civil servant into relationship, we have left our division of labor incomplete," Dr. Gaus said. "It is in this area between the body of civil servants and of legislators that our major problem lies and that our failure is greatest. The function that we least appreciate is that of relating the experience and knowledge of the civil servant to the driving forces of politicians in such a way that the public can get the best value."

The Supreme court should abandon the job of legislating and confine itself to the task of judging, Prof. Cushman said.

Play Depicts Lucy Stone's Life.

"A great educational organization like the league of women voters might work toward this end of restoring proper balance between legislative and judicial power," he added.

The evening session was devoted to a play by Mrs. Maud W. Park of Portland, Me., first president of the league, dramatizing the life of Lucy Stone, pioneer worker for woman's suffrage. Previous to this there were fifteen little dinners at which league problems were discussed.

CITY COUNCIL AGAIN ASKS GOV. HORNER TO CALL RELIEF SESSION

After hearing that the Chicago Relief administration's funds will be completely exhausted by May 15, the city council yesterday adopted a resolution requesting Gov. Horner to call a special legislative session to provide additional money. It was the third such resolution passed in the last five months.

Mayor Kelly's advisory committee on relief has estimated that 92,000 relief cases must be cared for in June and that the number probably will be 103,000 in December. To support them in the eight months beginning with May, $29,131,612 is the estimated requirement. Of this the city will be expected to raise $14,326,612, the rest coming from the state sales tax.

The committee recommended that the legislature appropriate an additional $7,000,000 from the sales tax receipts to aid Chicago, and that the city get the other $7,326,612 by an additional 1 cent sales tax or a luxury levy on cigarets, tobacco, gasoline and checks.

COUNCIL VOTES CITY ANOTHER BIG 100 YEARS

Mayor Kelly was authorized by the city council yesterday to appoint members of Chicago's New Century committee to lead in the city's future development in cultural, civic and commercial fields. The committee will be asked to continue the work started last year in connection with the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Chicago's incorporation. "Members of this group will help show the world that Chicago in its second hundred years is moving on to even greater achievements than those marking its first hundred," the mayor said.

U. OF C. SOCIETY PICKS N. U. CO-ED AS PRETTIEST GIRL

Co-eds at the University of Chicago were pretty bitter yesterday about the Blackfriars, the Midway all male dramatic society which will present its annual musical comedy beginning May 6. It was all because Miss Joy Hawley had been selected by the judges for the coveted honor of head score girl for the show, a designation, in effect, as the most beautiful girl on the campus. But Miss Hawley is the blonde queen of the Navy ball at Northwestern university, where she is a student in the school of speech.

Frank Carey, abbot of the Blackfriars, and Charles W. Zerler, publicity chairman, insisted the selection was the result of a mistake by the photographer who does work for both universities. However, the Blackfriars, said Carey, would stand by their choice. The judges, who examined the photographic entries, did likewise, although admitting their position was embarrassing. They are Jay Berwanger, former All-American football star; Nelson Fuqua, former Blackfriars' author, and Harry Kalven, editor of the university's Law Review.

DOCTORS AT SEA GET CALL FOR AID AND SAVE A LIFE

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Two doctors aboard the Porto Rico liner Dorinquen were credited with saving the life of the chief officer of a passing ship in a five hour operation off the coast of Florida last Saturday.

Thirty hours out of San Juan the Royal Netherlands freighter Luna was sighted. Flying the signal, "Have you a doctor aboard?" Dr. F. C. Demondorf, ship's surgeon, and Dr. T. L. Turner of Utica, a passenger, volunteered their services and were rowed to the Luna.

The doctors found the chief officer ill from gall stones. An operation was imperative. It was late afternoon when they finished.

Inquest Holds Slayer of Poultryman to Jurors

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Hezron Delaney, 39 years old, colored, 839 North Sacramento avenue, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the death of Jerome Lazar, 39, of 2230 Cortez street, who was shot Thursday. Police testified that Delaney confessed shooting Lazar, a poultry dealer, in a money dispute.

SMILIN' JACK—THE UNVEILING

CHANDLER RAPS BARKLEY ON HIS SHIFTING STANDS

Kentucky Governor Hits Spending Splurge.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—[Special.]—Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler in his campaign against Senator Alben W. Barkley, President Roosevelt's majority leader in the senate, for the Democratic senatorship nomination in the August primaries is dusting off the Barkley keynote speech at the national convention in Chicago in 1932.

The governor has also exhumed the national platform of his party of that year and is calling attention to the disparity between promises and performances. He weaves it into his argument against the spending jamboree program at Washington and points to Kentucky now almost "out of the red" as an example of what can be accomplished in balanced budgets.

In his office Gov. Chandler pulled out documents which he declares show his opponent, Senator Barkley, is a study in contradictions. The topics ranged from the Anti-Saloon league to horse racing and the sitdown strikes.

Disagrees on Spending.

"I'm a friend of President Roosevelt," said the governor. "I stumped twenty states for him, but I've got to disagree with the spending program of the administration.

"I don't believe a senator ought to be a yes man or a rubber stamp. The President needs advice from fellows not obligated by favors. Senator Barkley, the floor leader, has demonstrated by his record that he's got to vote as they say. He's been a yes man and a down the liner, and the President needs men who will tell him when they think he's right or wrong.

"The records show Senator Barkley has taken contradictory positions on important questions.

"He was a paid dry speaker, rode to victory on the dry wave, then turned with the tide. In a Washington hearing in 1926 Wayne B. Wheeler, then general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, said Barkley was one of a list of twenty to thirty representatives and senators who received honorariums for speeches made under the auspices of the league. Senator James Reed of Missouri did the questioning.

Changes on Dry Issue.

"Barkley voted for the five and ten severe penalty bill. In 1932 when he was keynoter of the national Democratic convention Senator Barkley was one of the first to come out for repeal. A lot of folks say this changing and shifting doesn't set so well with them.

"In his 1932 keynoting he was against waste and extravagance and favored a reduction of expenditures at Washington. In 1936 he was justifying the increase.

"In February, 1928, he voted against a third term for President, following the George Washington dictum. Where would he stand today should a third term be sought?

"On the prevailing wage question he voted two ways in one week.

"Early in 1937, as governor I took the position that sitdown strikes were illegal and not to be tolerated in Kentucky. I asked the labor leaders not to employ the sitdown strike in this state. We never had any sitdown strikes.

Fails to Oppose Sitdowns.

"Senator Barkley in April, 1937, did not support a resolution to declare sitdown strikes illegal.

"Folks remember that when he ran for governor in 1923 he was against race horses and pari-mutuels and for a tonnage tax on coal, which roused opposition in the mining districts. He was a bone dry."

In 1923 Barkley was beaten for governor by J. Campbell Cantrill, who died after the nomination. In that year Barkley spoke in ninety-two counties, his endurance getting him the sobriquet, "the iron man." Chandler's friends say he beat this record in 1935 by speaking in 105 counties. He expects to start his travels again early next month, first on a tour to say "howdy" to folks, then on a speech making drive.

Gov. Chandler says that since he took office he reduced the state debt from $28,500,000 to $10,000,000 in two years. The Barkley camp disputes this figure, but admits in one tax analysis that the state debt has been cut $7,000,000 since Chandler took office.

Sales Tax Repealed.

Chandler in his campaign had pledged repeal of the 3 per cent sales tax. Early in 1936 soon after he was sworn in, the tax on retail sales was repealed. New taxes were imposed on corporate and individual incomes. Revisions to increase the yield were made in the inheritance tax, the beer and gasoline excises. Taxes were revised on cigarets, spirits, and wines. Taxes were levied on sale of cosmetics, candy, chewing gum, nuts, ice cream, soft drinks. These last mentioned were repealed a year ago. Meanwhile the Court of Appeals had held the ice cream tax, a penny on a nickle cone for children, invalid. There were other taxes, such as those on amusements and on receipts of electric, gas, telephone, and telegraph utilities.

Critics of the tax program say Louisville was hardest hit by the income tax. It was taken into court. When it got to the Court of Appeals, the court held it was disqualified from passing judgment on the ground that the compensation of the judges was affected by the tax. So Gov. Chandler appointed seven men to judge the case. They upheld the law.

Under a reorganization act, a department of revenue was created to supplant the state tax commission and other state agencies.

Opponents Cite Tax Rates.

Chandler opponents say the governor's reduction of the state debt has come about through increased taxes, and that in the last two years the general fund revenue increased by 21 million dollars.

Be all this as it may, Chandler rouses his audiences as he describes the program under which the state debt has been cut to the point where within a year it will have been all wiped out.

"When I took office," he said, "the state debt was 28 million dollars. Today it is down to 8 millions. Next year Kentucky will be out of debt.

"In the last two years, Kentucky for the first time since 1908 has had a balanced budget. It has lived within its income. Last year we underspent the budget by $1,750,000 because of close supervision of expenditures. The revenue department has collected the taxes at a total cost of 1 per cent, an outstanding record in the United States.

A booklet put out by Chandler headquarters is entitled, "How Did He Do It?"

Pamphlet Tells How.

"He did it," the pamphlet answers, "by placing a tax on cigarets and whisky instead of upon meat, bread, and shoes of the poor man. And by a state governmental reorganization. He is building new penitentiaries and asylums. He is paying school teachers $1,000,000 more a year than before.

"Today Kentucky stands out with its business in the finest order and its credit rating listed at the peak."

The book points a contrast.

"Today," it says, "the federal government with Alben W. Barkley in the United States house and senate for 26 years, owes nearly 40 billions of dollars. This year the federal government, with Senator Barkley as leader of the senate, will increase that debt between one and two billions more."

The fifth annual business recovery show sponsored by the Rotary club of Chicago opened yesterday in the Hotel Sherman and will continue through Friday. More than 100 exhibitors are showing the latest wrinkles in merchandise. Hours are from noon until 10 p. m. daily. CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEADER RAPS WORDS OF MRS. ROOSEVELT

Boston, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—Criticizing what she said were recent pronouncements by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on divorce and upon a motion picture film on "The Birth of a Baby," Mrs. Charles Feehan, president of the League of Catholic Women, today said: "We have a right to expect a finer taste in the words of the wife of the President."

Addressing the second Boston Diocesan Congress of Catholic Women, Mrs. Feehan said Mrs. Roosevelt recently had stated that divorce was a recognized factor in American life and that the film entitled "The Birth of a Baby" could not be harmful because it is honest.

"I believe it is most unfortunate, unfair and dangerous for the wife of the President of the United States to make pronouncements that give offense to a large part of our citizens," Mrs. Feehan said. "It appears she is taking advantage of her position to inject that prestige into her personal views that do not at all reflect the common opinions of the people."

PLEADS FOR LAW TO RETIRE OLD HORSES, MULES

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—Representative Byron Harlan [D., O.] trotted out a troop of spirited adjectives today in defense of horses and mules that have given the best of their lives to the government. He is sponsoring a bill permitting the old steeds to be led to green pastures or to quick death instead of to the auction block.

Harlan said that Gen. Pershing's horse and other army horses that have borne famous riders are in quiet pastures because the army knows how to kick through the traces of red tape. "But," Harlan added, "the government departments outside the army apparently have not mastered the old army game."

"There are about 100 horses and mules sold by the government every year," he said. "That is just 100 cases of ingratitude and needless cruelty."

BLOSSOM QUEEN CONTEST TONIGHT IN MICHIGAN

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—Twenty-four girls will meet at the Liberty theater here tomorrow night in an elimination contest to determine the sixteenth queen of the southwestern Michigan blossom festival set for May 7 to 15.

Judges for the contest will be Alfonso Iannelli, Park Ridge, Ill., sculptor; Louis Mulligan, dress designer; Betty Mathias, newspaper woman; Patricia Gordon, beauty adviser, and Maurice Seymour, photographer, all of Chicago.

Next Monday the blossom queen and the governor of Virginia will dedicate U. S. 33, the new Blue and Gray trail highway, which runs from Richmond to St. Joseph, Mich. The queen will lead a motorcade over that highway, arriving in St. Joseph May 7.

The queen and her court will go to Chicago on May 9 and 10, returning Wednesday to St. Joseph for the quen's coronation ball.

JARECKI FAVORS 100% LETDOWN OF PRIMARY BARS

Feels Voter Is Sovereign; Should Vote as Pleases.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., April 26.—[Special.]—The question of whether Illinois should have "open primaries"—an issue which developed from the bitter April 12 vote—will be referred to the legislative commission now studying the revision of election laws, County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki said here today.

By "open primaries" Judge Jarecki means that any voter can vote in the primary of any party he chooses. It means the abandonment of the effort to keep the members of one party from influencing the party machinery of another party by voting in the primary election. The present state law makes an effort to prevent this interference of one party in another's party machinery by forbidding a voter to switch primary ballots oftener than once in two years.

Denies Act of Expediency.

Judge Jarecki's announcement, which he accompanied with his own arguments in behalf of open primaries, was made in an interview given after he had conferred with Gov. Henry Horner and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Judge Jarecki insisted the edict was no spur of the moment decision for his own benefit, but represented the deliberate judgment of officials of the nine election board cities of the state, evolved last summer.

"We construed the law," he explained, "as meaning two political years and we define 'political years' as the space between two primaries and not two 365-day periods.

"Certainly the voter had time enough in two years to make up his mind.

"The 1938 primaries were discussed last summer, at my suggestion, by the election boards of Illinois. I felt the opinion of County Judge Harlington Wood of Sangamon county permitting a party change, plus the judgment of Attorney General Otto Kerner, was sufficient to allow an open primary this year.

Uniform Ruling Desired.

"I felt we should have a uniform ruling for the election board cities. Not content with these opinions we had briefs drawn and discussed the matter in the Chicago election board for some time, finally laying down a ruling last November. We hadn't hurried it because there was no rush. It was a job done with care and deliberation.

"And all of the election board cities—Aurora, Bloomington, Cairo, Danville, Decatur, E. St. Louis, Peoria, Rockford, Springfield—followed this ruling. That's the history of the 1938 primary.

The judge then enumerated his arguments for open primaries.

"In the past," he said, "there often have been complaints of people not participating in primaries. Might it not be because many of them didn't want to be bound for a period of time?

Wants Complete Freedom.

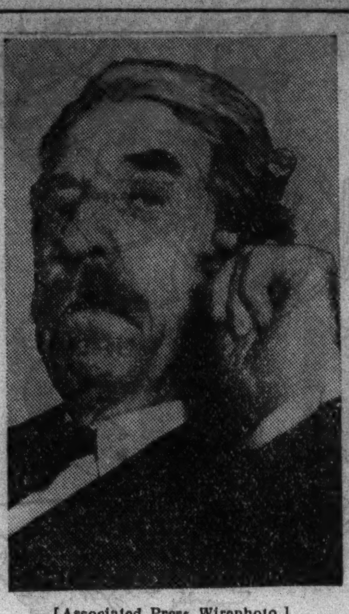
"The law now states that when a voter takes a Democratic or a Republican ballot, he is driven into a political room from which he cannot release himself for two years. I don't believe that confinement is by his choice. I think he wants complete freedom at all times—freedom to vote in either party primary.

"Why should he be restrained if, in his judgment, the interests of the state, the county, or the city would be served best by the nomination of a group of candidates in another party?"

Without caring to go definitly on record, Gov. Horner and State's Attorney Courtney let it be known that they are not planning any overtures to the Nash-Kelly organization in response to harmony proposals made yesterday.

Although they are depending upon the Cook county regulars to plug for their state ticket and for Judge Jarecki in the fall campaign, the Horner leaders plan to continue their own organization work, both downstate and in Chicago.

On Comeback Trail



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, former Oklahoma governor, smoking up for his campaign to win nomination.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 26.—[Special.]—William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, waging a comeback campaign to regain the governorship of Oklahoma, asserted today he is seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination on a "back to the constitution" platform.

The picturesque, long mustachioed candidate is an authority on constitutional law, which he likes to study while lounging on a bed in a wrinkled serge suit well sprinkled with the ashes of cheap cigars.

Raw boned "Alfalfa," who still is vigorous at 68, came out of rural retirement on his 70 acre farm in the Kiamichi mountain foothills to try again for the office he used to boast he hitch-hiked into eight years ago on a diet of cheese and crackers. Despite his gruff manner and his scorn for the frills of education, he is a gifted orator.

WORKERS SPURN C. I. O. IN LUMBER MILLS ELECTION

Park Falls, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—The C. I. O. has met a setback in its efforts to control labor bargaining in this lumber town of 4,000.

By the overwhelming vote of 204 to 98, employés of the Edward Hines Lumber company mill here yesterday rejected the C. I. O. Lumber Workers' union as their bargaining agent. The question voted on was merely whether the workers wanted the C. I. O. to represent it. No other labor organization was concerned in the immediate issue decided.

The outcome of the balloting was a particularly heavy blow to C. I. O. hopes here inasmuch as organizers of that movement had concentrated their efforts for more than a year on seeking to win employés of the two lumber mills in Park Falls. Organizers for the American Federation of Labor have been active in this community for anly a few weeks.

Village of Dolton Sues Two Former Treasurers

The village of Dolton yesterday filed a suit in the Superior court demanding an accounting of special assessment fund disbursements made by two former village treasurers, Garrett Jacobsma and John Harms Jr. The bill, drawn by Attorney David Maloney, requested that the two men and their bondsmen be compelled to repay any sums disbursed illegally.

ROOSEVELT AID TO LOOK IN ON RADICAL RALLY

An Original Brain Truster Will Be in Madison.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—Added interest in the conference of radicals called by Gov. Philip La Follette to meet here Thursday was stirred tonight by reports from Washington, D. C., that A. A. Berle, one of the original administration brain trusters and now an assistant secretary of state, will attend.

President Roosevelt announced at his press conference in Washington that Berle would attend the meeting. The president made it clear, however, that Berle was going in a personal capacity and not as a representative of the administration.

May Discuss Third Term.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had not contemplated sending a message to the conference, but he commented that it was his opinion that the more liberal forces organize in this country to promote liberal policies the better it would be.

Whether the President under any circumstances will seek a third term is expected to be one of the major questions posed for consideration by the radical rally here if it is to be made a spring board for launching a third party in 1940. It is believed Mr. Roosevelt would be interested in what they have to say on this subject.

To Republicans and outspoken anti-Roosevelt Democrats, the rally represents a belief by La Follette, a former Roosevelt ally, that by 1940 the President's personal popularity will not be much of a factor in the political race.

Silent on Possible Leaders.

Democrats of varying degrees of administration loyalty profess to see in the radical survey of 1940 third party possibilities an effort to influence the Democratic ticket and platform for that year, rather than a real move to set up a Progressive, or Liberal, national ticket.

Political onlookers believe the rally could be a beginning of a radical farm party just as the C. I. O. drive in Pennsylvania and New York City is held to be the start of a Labor party. No one has suggested the time or the possible leader for uniting these units into such a party.

JUNE BUGS CATCH NO. SHORE WITH WINDOWS OPEN

June bugs took over the North Shore towns last night, buzzing joyously because they were earlier than usual and larger too, and because they never suspected for a moment that they weren't welcome.

The walks were covered. June bug haters said the lights were dimmed by their numbers. Some said the bugs' buzzing kept them awake.

Hardly any one had got the screens up in time, it developed, because the June bugs, due in May, had arrived in April. The warm weather was credited for their early arrival. For the last week the advance guard of the June bugs has been moving in, but it was not until last night that the bugs began arriving in hordes.

Old fashioned fly swatters, however, were used with excellent results.

Mrs. McLaughlin Asks Court to Curb Indulgent Father

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Court fans gathered around yesterday to see and hear Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, the one time dancing star, who lately has been occupied in a cruelty-to-cows controversy in Lake county. On this occasion, however, she appeared in a Cook county court, and it was her estranged husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, not a farmer, she was after.

Appearing before Judge John J. Lupe, and abandoning her riding pants for an ultra feminine short-sleeved black dress bedecked with embroidered daisies, Mrs. McLaughlin complained demurely that she hadn't seen as much of her daughter, Barbara, as the major had on the child's Easter vacation. Barbara is 13 years old and is in school in the east. By agreement of her parents, she is supposed to divide her vacations between them.

Attorney Speaks for Major.

The major was absent from court, but through his attorney, Frederick Burnham, pleaded guilty to overindulgence of children. "I think he was overindulgent in letting Barbara stay two extra days," he said. "But a ticket has been bought and she's leaving at 4 o'clock this afternoon."

Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr. counsel for Mrs. McLaughlin, told a graphic story of how Mrs. McLaughlin had wept Sunday night because she had not heard from Barbara, and assumed she had gone back to school without saying good-by.

It was only when he threatened to come into court that Maj. McLaughlin decided to send the child back to school that day, said Mr. Cantwell. Moreover, the major was insulting to him on the phone, he said.

"He told me to go on and go into court, that was what I was paid for, and to go anywhere I gee-dee pleased," said Mr. Cantwell. He continued, while his client looked demure and fluttered the lashes over her cornflower blue eyes: "I'm beginning to see my client was right. I don't see how she lived half an hour with that man——"

"All I want to know about is the child," said Judge Lupe dryly.

Calls to Say Goodbye."

"Barbara called her mother last night, but Mrs. McLaughlin had an engagement," said Attorney Burnham. "She could have seen her this morning, but she had to be in court."

"Everybody has spoken but me," wailed Mrs. McLaughlin, and went on at length to say that she had a house guest and was expecting a Lake Forest man to take them to the movies when Barbara called. "But I even would have have stayed home, except that she just wanted to say good-by."

Judge Lupe said she could be with Barbara in the afternoon and take her to the station. "Maybe the major would like to ride along with you," he added. The courtroom tittered, as she replied, "No, I don't think he would."

PUPILS VICTORS IN TWO ILLINOIS SCHOOL STRIKES

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—Special.]—The student body at the Community High school in Virginia, thirty miles northwest of here, won a one day strike today when the board of education acceded to the strikers' terms that their parents be permitted to decide whether Amos Mahan would be rehired as athletic director and commerce instructor.

The pupils agreed to return to classes after the board announced questionnaires would be sent to their parents. All except five of the 154 pupils paraded and demonstrated in the business district last night in protest after they learned Mahan's contract for next year was not renewed.

Striking pupils at the Mendon Township High school in Adams county also won their strike, the school board promising to remove Supt. Charles Bilderback in accordance with their demands. The strike began last Thursday after townsfolk objected to Bilderback's policy in handling school purchases.

THROW AWAY harsh LAXATIVES

Use This Simple Plan!
EVERYONE knows that harsh laxatives merely "relieve" constipation temporarily, and also irritate the intestinal tract.
Instead, try this. First thing every morning squeeze the juice of a lemon into a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass, put half a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth, and drink when foaming subsides.
Make this a daily health habit. See how you benefit, right from the start.

ANOTHER GREAT DECISION.

The decision of the Supreme court in the case of Alma Lovell vs. the city of Griffin, Ga., is another landmark in the history of liberty. With the right of free speech and free press abolished in Russia, Germany, Italy, and the minor dictatorships in Europe, their preservation elsewhere is the chief concern of civilization. The opinion in this case was handed down by the Chief Justice of the United States, and was concurred in by the whole court, including the two New Deal members, and lacked only the concurrence of Mr. Justice Cardozo, who was absent through illness. It further fortifies the right of free press in the United States, and it is notable in extending its application to a field not hitherto adjudicated.

The appellant was convicted in the city of Griffin of violation of an ordinance which prohibited the circulation of "circulars, handbooks, advertising, or literature of any kind" without a permit from the city manager. The pamphlet in point was a religious tract setting forth the gospel of the "Kingdom of Jehovah," and the appellant had not applied for the city manager's permit because she regarded herself as an agent of a higher power. The question of whether the conviction constituted restraint upon freedom of the exercise of religion was not determined in this case, which was decided solely on the issue of freedom of speech and of the press. On that ground the court held that the ordinance was invalid on its face.

As The Tribune has contended throughout its years of effort to protect freedom of the press, the Chief Justice in his opinion in the Lovell case declares: "The liberty of the press is not confined to newspapers and periodicals. It necessarily embraces pamphlets and leaflets. These indeed have been historic weapons in the defense of liberty, as the pamphlets of Tom Paine and others in our own history abundantly attest. The press in its historic connotation comprehends every sort of publication which affords a vehicle of information and opinion."

The court points out that the ordinance in its broad sweep prohibited distribution of "circulars, handbills, advertising, or literature of any kind. It manifestly applies to pamphlets, magazines, and periodicals." Whether in actual administration the ordinance is applied to newspapers does not appear, but it "apparently could be." It is not limited to "literature that is obscene or offensive to public morals or that advocates unlawful conduct." There is no restriction with respect to time or place, nor is it limited to ways that may be regarded as inconsistent with the maintenance of public order, or as involving disorderly conduct, the molestation of the inhabitants or the misuse or littering of the streets.

It was argued that the ordinance applied to distribution and not to publication, but the court holds that it cannot be saved because of this. "Liberty of circulation is as essential to that freedom as liberty of publication," as the court said in ex parte Jackson, and now reaffirms, for "without circulation the publication would be of little value."

Among the great cases that have confirmed and broadly applied the guaranty to the American people of a free press and free utterance the victims of oppression were often obscure people, with little means to protect their rights in expensive legal procedure. Help was essential and The Tribune has regarded it as a duty and privilege to render it in cases which are more historic such as the case of Near vs. the State of Minnesota in which The Tribune intervened to provide adequate trial and successful appeal to the highest tribunal of the nation. It gave aid also in another leading case, Grosjeans vs. the State of Louisiana, where the Huey Long dictatorship hoped to suppress criticism through the taxing power. In these cases, as in that of Alma Lovell, the great court has placed the shield of constitutional principle before the weak who most need protection from oppressive laws.

But that duty should not be left to the court alone. It is no less an obligation and a responsibility of the executive and the legislative branches of our government. We hope this truth will come home more emphatically to these branches and induce them to conform more carefully than they sometimes do to well established constitutional principles, the chief of which is freedom of utterance.

ZONING FOR THE AIRPORT.

For five years the city council has neglected to pass amendments to the existing zoning laws which would prohibit construction of tall buildings near the city airport. Existing laws allow structures as high as 132 feet to be built on the streets immediately adjacent to the airport area. If such buildings were constructed they would make the field unsafe for any flying operations and certainly would nullify the effort and expenditures now being made to expand the 300 acre airport to 620 acres.

An amendment which would limit the height of buildings to 33 feet close to the airport and to 66 feet for a considerable distance around it has been on file since 1932. It has been considered several times by various council committees but nothing has been done. Property owners rallied on each occasion and entered protests against the proposed amendment saying that they would be unfairly penalized if it was passed. Their protests have been sufficient to block the amendment to date.

Property owners should—but apparently do not—see that proper zoning around the airport is as important to their own personal safety as it is for safety of airline operations. Dwellers in a tall building near an airport should be as apprehensive about the passage of monster airliners near their buildings as are the pilots of the planes about the presence of the building near the landing field.

The pilots know the real danger. In conditions of poor visibility—and modern flying is requiring the flying of big ships in very bad weather conditions—the difference of 50 feet in the height of a building may spell the difference between a safe landing by a big ship or a collision which would be followed by a fierce gasoline fire and death for those in the airplane and also for many of those in the building.

This amendment to the city zoning laws would be acceptable to the airlines and to the bureau of air commerce which is charged with overseeing safety measures in connection with commercial flying.

Every aeronautical group in the city has recognized the importance of proper zoning. The city aero commission, the association of commerce aviation committee, and other such organizations have petitioned for action.

It ought to be taken without further delay.

A TEST VOTERS CAN APPLY.

Two relief measures are pending in congress. One is the tax bill as it passed the senate, eliminating the tax that had scared the daylights out of capital. The other is the pump priming program.

Both might be referred to as pump priming measures. But there are many important differences. One would prime the pump with private money, and the other with public money.

One proceeds on the theory that jobs for the unemployed can be provided by creating conditions which encourage the investment of money in private business. The other proceeds on the theory that the government should create the jobs by building postoffices and roads, and providing acting and writing projects.

One of the recovery proposals would not require the borrowing of a single dollar, and would thus not entail any new tax burdens for the future. The other would necessitate the raising of billions of dollars by taxation at some future time.

The elimination of burdensome taxation has often started business on an upward climb. Thus one of the recovery measures is of proven effectiveness. The other method has twice been tried as a business stimulant, and twice has failed.

One of the measures is earnestly desired by a majority of the American people. The other is opposed by a majority of the American people. [This is said on the basis of a survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion. Of the persons interviewed by the institute 79 per cent said they were in favor of getting out of depression by reducing business taxes. Only 21 per cent wanted to do it by government spending.]

The elimination of the surplus earnings tax was voted by the senate. A conference committee composed of house and senate members has voted to retain the tax in part. A partial abandonment of the tax won't do the job.

In a little more than a month the senators and congressmen are coming home for electioneering. If the depression continues unabated after they have arrived home those will be held accountable for it who do not now bestir themselves for the repeal of the panic tax. The position congressmen and senators take on this measure is a simple test which the voters can readily apply.

Editorial of the Day

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to cure his depression out of the same bottle that caused it can hardly be said to have met with general acclaim. The opposition to it, both in and out of congress, is already formidable, and may be expected to stiffen as his bills move through the two houses, just as opposition to his court packing and nondictatorial reorganization schemes stiffened. Some of the most ardent of the original dupes of the More Abundant Life have got bellyfuls at last, and are showing signs of acute discomfort.

But in one direction at least there is only enthusiasm for the new plan of salvation, and that is in the quarter of the communist comrades. They are for Roosevelt to a man, and are whooping up his wizardries in a manner hitherto reserved for the miracles of Stalin. On the day after his recent fireside chat the Daily Worker of New York, the Bible of the more or less American Marxians, cleared off three columns of its first page to make way for an editorial headed, in large black type:

Get Behind the President's Job and Recovery Program.

The editorial itself was printed in four kinds of type, like the manifestoes of the late Arthur Brisbane, and was full of frantic exultations and pious exhortations. The Reds, as every one knows, have lately come out for democracy in a Large Way, in this country as in France and Spain, and are trying hard to effect an alliance with both the New Deal and the C. I. O., to be known as the People's Front. We quote from the editorial:

"Democracy depends on economic security, President Roosevelt has said. Then all who believe in democracy must form a democratic front behind this program for economic security. Workers, farmers, middle class people, this is the fight for your homes, for your jobs, for democracy, and for the future of America."

The Red idea appears to be that no dose can be too strong for natural suckers, made so by God's inscrutable will. In Russia the middle class was long ago liquidated, and the softest whisper for democracy now rates at least ten years in jail, but in this country the old shibboleths are still good, and so they are put to use. The same gang that cheers the bloody war upon democracy in the Marxian Utopia is in a lather of zeal for it here.

Unfortunately the Reds can no more mix boldness and prudence than the rest of us. They are forever letting something slip. What they let slip in the editorial we have quoted was this:

"Let us first make sure that the President's program is enacted as it stands. It is a fine beginning. Let's pass it, and then go on from there."

THIS IS BE KIND TO ANIMALS WEEK, so we shall tell you about the Red Cross nurse who picked up a stray cat sick with pneumonia. She made him a pneumonia jacket, rubbed him with camphorated oil, fed him warm milk and aspirin. He was too far gone to be helped and died, warm and grateful.

About That Skeleton in Kankakee.

I think I can enlighten you about the skeleton some of your stooges saw hanging from a doorway in the little settlement near the railroad tracks on the outskirts of Kankakee. The clew is your mention of it having been seen on Good Friday. Investigation probably would disclose that the shack is occupied not by Negroes but by Mexicans, who frequently are on the labor crew of railroads. In Latin speaking countries Holy Week has its humorous aspects, too. The Saturday preceding Easter Sunday gayety and feasting prevail. On this day stuffed figures or skeletons of well known gangsters or unpopular politicians are hung across ropes stretched between buildings or suspended from trees. Firecrackers are attached to them and lighted. The people call it quemando de Judas, or burning of Judas. . . .

Cerf's Satire.

Bennett A. Cerf, head of a New York publishing office, got out a satire on the usual book press sheet, part of which follows:

Romney Tillingholme is completing a new mystery story on the tablecloth at Reuben's. . . . Hillary Hillary's novel "Fun in the Morgue" has been translated into Dutch, Arabic, Russian, Lithuanian, and Egyptian. . . . Mr. Hillary recently received his copy of the Greek edition specially inscribed by Gregory Stanlikopuloff, "This will be Greek to you."

Vladimir Pizitz, second assistant bookkeeper at Random House, returned yesterday on Car No. 079 of the BMT from a tour of Brooklyn and Flatbush. Pizitz brought back with him the manuscript of Phyllis Lockjaw's new volume of poetry, for which the publishers have tried for two years to break the contract, and the first four chapters of a book on Vermont by the last native of that state to write a book about it.

"Well, why not?" concludes Mr. Cerf. "You've printed a thousand just like them."

"But how does that make your team winner?" her mother questioned.

"O, we got the first nothing," the child explained.

SPRING COLDS.

SOME of these days a research worker, probably from Timbuktu, will point the way to the prevention and the cure of colds. The present state of our knowledge carries us only a short way toward this goal. The cold is among the most ancient of maladies and no panacea has been discovered. We are reasonably sure, however, that were it not for some initial virus and the presence of bacteria there would be few manifestations of the affliction. Furthermore, if association with those who are ablaze with nasal inflammation could be avoided, many of us would be bothered less frequently.

There is one popular error that should be corrected. Neither wet feet nor a draft on the back of the neck is an immediate cause. Nevertheless, chilling has a tendency to disturb the circulation and lower the vitality. Only when such a situation exists will microbes begin to disport themselves and flourish. The infection, then, may flame, because we have permitted needed reserve to be used up or dissipated.

Most of us suffer two or three such seizures each year, although those who are regarded as susceptible may succumb to a dozen onslaughts in the course of a twelve month period. Outdoor workers are relatively exempt and, conversely, those who are employed in offices find themselves in a much more delicate balance. Carefully compiled data indicate that clerks have nine times as many colds as taxi drivers.

Clothing is an important element and the overdressed are more likely to fall ill than those who are lightly but comfortably clad. On the other hand, sudden temperature changes must be guarded against. The man who leaves his overcoat at home on a balmy spring morning and is obliged to face the return journey with a 40 degree drop in temperature is a ready victim.

Regardless of what is done, an attack will last about so long—run its course, as we say. We hear the expression frequently, "I am all over a cold in three days." Such a belief is a delusion and a snare. The acute symptoms may disappear within a few days, but as a rule normal reserve will not return for two weeks or longer. If the onset is recognized early and is met with the prompt use of plenty of fluid, particularly fruit juices—tomato juice and the like—a brief illness only may be expected. Oranges, lemons, and grapefruit provide an ample supply of alkalis and they may be taken freely. A hot bath, followed by a glass or two of hot lemonade, will promote perspiration and the desired elimination. Bed rest is imperative.

I have long urged the trial of vaccines, knowing full well that they will not be successful in every case. With a majority, however, a certain amount of immunity is developed. Vaccines may be taken by mouth.

A number of my physician friends have urged the feeding of generous quantities of vitamin A, and I am sure that good has come from this suggestion, but sound judgment indicates that we cannot shatter the rules of health and expect vitamins to glue the pieces together. If one is deficient in vitamin A it may be that frequent colds will come and, for protection, the body should be provided with enough. Routine sources are oils from fish liver, fresh asparagus, cabbage, lettuce, orange juice, tomatoes, carrots, etc.

But no galaxy of remedies will do away with the necessity of exercising intelligence in the matter of health. Overeating—an everyday fault—obliges the digestive tract to perform an increased amount of useless work. Paradoxically, too much food will decrease resistance. The old notion of "stuffing" a cold is nonsense.

COMES FROM OTHER AILMENTS.

Mrs. P. writes: What are the symptoms of sciatic rheumatism? Can it be cured?

REPLY.

The pain is sharp or tearing, is increased upon motion, and shoots along the course of the nerve into the hip, thigh, calf, ankle, and heel—at one or all points—in paroxysms. It is a secondary disease, usually produced by arthritis, pelvic tumors or inflammation, spinal cord tumors, prostatic infection or tumors, neuritis, or tumors. Heat, rest, and sedatives will give relief but cure depends on the underlying cause.

IT'S PROBABLY SAFE.

I. M. writes: Would it be safe for a man and a woman to marry if there has been tuberculosis in both families?

REPLY.

The disease itself is not inherited, but the tendency to contract it under adverse circumstances may be. If both parents are healthy, and if the children are kept away from all cases of the disease, the chances are that they will be safe.

GOOD FOR GENERAL HEALTH.

N. L. writes: Do you consider citrus fruits advisable for one with rheumatism, arthritis, or neuralgia?

REPLY.

FROG POND.

Chicago, April 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Our next door neighbor has kept frogs in a hole in his back yard for the last two years. He has a waterpipe extended from his house into this hole and has wasted thousands of gallons of water. Now when the ground is frozen the water flows into our yards and this morning I had to call the police because there was a miniature river running under my house, which is on posts and becoming undermined. Please advise what can be done about this.

ILLINOIS' AID TO THE AGED.

Springfield, Ill., April 23.—In your issue of Monday, April 18, your Editorial of the Day is the comment of the Palm Beach Post on John T. Flynn's article on abuse of assistance to the aged.

Mr. Flynn devotes most of his article to other states, but a few paragraphs near the end pertain to Illinois, and are as full of misinformation and downright falsehoods as it would be possible to crowd into the space. His worst misstatement is that conditions became so bad in Illinois that "once again last year the federal government had to step in and withdraw its funds." The social security board held up the payment of funds to Illinois for old age assistance only once, and that was for a period of only thirty days. This state has been paid every cent that has been due it from federal funds on account of old age assistance.

Mr. Flynn says that Illinois has now been trying to patch up its system. On the contrary, Illinois has built a sturdy, effective system of old age assistance and it has been done rapidly and efficiently. What has been done during the last nine months in organizing the administration of old age assistance in Illinois has brought forth the approbation and praise of the social security board at Washington and of a number of states that have investigated it.

Mr. Flynn's statement that "administration of old age assistance in Illinois has been a disgraceful patronage battle between state and county leaders" is equally misleading. The first old age assistance bill was passed by our general assembly in the midst of a terrific factional fight, but Gov. Horner and the department of public welfare from the very start have resisted the injection of politics into the administration of old age assistance. The public is fairly well acquainted with the last decision of Gov. Horner and of the department that each county in submitting its five names for examination for county superintendent of public welfare should divide them three and two between the political parties. The department has had a strenuous struggle with a number of counties in the state that have refused to comply with this wholesome regulation. But all, except four or five counties, finally have fallen into line. This regulation was applied to all counties, irrespective of their local political affiliation.

A. L. Bowen.
Director Illinois Dept. of Public Welfare.

WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 24.—There is one thing about The Tribune's journalism that I never could understand. Why do you make such a big fuss over such things as the marriage of Edward Windsor and other items of really no news after the first announcement, and yet you rarely come out with an item that would help to clear up this political situation here in Chicago?

I cite as an example the fact that all of the licenses have been raised, in some cases 250 per cent, and even the little coal man today, who is starving to death, has been raised to where he's got to pay $50.

Also cases of rotten existing political conditions keep right on going and never a word in your paper to help eliminate this condition. Therefore, why you call yourselves "The World's Greatest Newspaper" is more than I can understand.

PUBLICITY FOR CARELESS MOTORISTS.

Chicago, April 25.—For a long time The Tribune has been doing a grand job of publicizing the tragic slaughter of innocent people by automobiles on the streets of Chicago. Now I am wondering if you could not go a step further in arousing a semi-wakened driving public by sponsoring a series of safe driving campaigns during which the white light of publicity would be turned on the trafic violators and those responsible for accidents rather than on the victims.

To me it is a mystery how any one can see the broken body of a child lifted from the pavement where it has been struck down by a reckless driver and still not recognize the fact that an automobile in the hands of a careless driver is as dangerous to the community as a loaded gun in the hands of a maniac.

There are many persons driving cars on our streets every day who are neither mentally nor physically capable; whose eyesight is poor; who lack power of concentration; who daily constitute a deadly menace to life and property.

Let us do everything possible to remove such persons from behind the steering wheel of a car.

THE COUNTY HOSPITAL AGAIN.

Chicago, April 25.—I am writing in regard to the County hospital and the emergency case of Ralph Ainsworth, 9 year old son of my neighbor who is a WPA worker at $55 a month. Four children and a wife in the family at 1845 West Madison street. Ralph developed appendicitis; there was no money for an operation. The family doctor told them to take the boy to the County hospital. Mrs. Ainsworth did this on April 18 and the county doctors said there was nothing wrong and refused to admit the patient. The child's godmother then sent her doctor over to my neighbor's home and he took the sick child to the West Side hospital, where it was operated on the morning of the 20th. The surgeons said that in 48 hours the little boy would have been dead. Now he is recovering.

The treatment they give the poor at the County hospital is a disgrace. To be treated right you must have a political pull.

TAXES COST HALF HER INCOME.

Glencoe, Ill., April 23.—I filled out my personal property report truthfully and accurately: Bonds, $6,000; electric refrigerator, $25; jewelry, $25; used Ford, $127.50, a total of $6,177.50. My bill for personal property just received is $149.90, exactly 10 cents less than half the income I receive from my bonds. I am a woman 64 years old. This is all the income I have from investments. Is it fair that half of it should be taken from me? What have you to say about it, Mr. Watson?

H. F. J.

PROBABLY.

Chicago, April 25.—I've been waiting a long time for you to change the spelling of the word "weather" to "wether." Are you really going to do it some time?

James Hopkins.

WHY THE DISCRIMINATION?

Chicago, April 25.—Assuming that the federal undistributed profits tax law pertaining to corporations provides an exemption of $25,000, and a corporation of twenty-five equal shareholders earn a year's profit of this amount, being $1,000 per shareholder, instead of distributing any dividend, this may be used, without punitive tax penalty, for business expansion or paying an existing debt.

However, if the corporation consists of one hundred equal shareholders earning a year's profit of $100,000, being also $1,000 per shareholder, and they likewise decide to use the year's earnings for paying a loan, or for plant or business expansion, and thus increasing employment, there would in this case be a punitive undistributed profits tax on $75,000, applying on $750 per shareholder.

Why this discrimination against shareholders? In fact, why penalize sound business expansion and productive energy at all?

C. F. Peterson.

WEARY OF CONSTANT JIBES.

Chicago, April 24.—I, for one, am growing weary of the constant jibes thrust at those workers who are trying to support their families with meager WPA earnings. Why imply that they are dishonest—won't work—don't want work—lean on their shovels until the termites eat through the handles—and various other senseless charges? For a "diversion" from the usual charges, we read a letter flaying the WPA. Excuse me, PWA, because the man's wife, taking a baby for an airing in the park, couldn't find a bench to rest on; reason, all benches occupied by the "lazy PWA workers." What rot! If anything breeds class hatred, it is such stuff as this.

No, I've never been on WPA or PWA, but I do have feeling for those in distress. And it's high time that those who are sitting pretty, with secure jobs and fine incomes, stopped yapping about the less fortunate.

Mrs. Ethel Rosborough.

MAY DAY PARADE.

In soviet Russia May 1 is dedicated to ostentatious parades. The Red square in Moscow will be a tumult of motley crowds extolling communism, Leninism, Marxism, and atheism. Stalin will be a hero.

Sympathizers with this government philosophy will stage similar parades throughout the world, especially in the large industrial centers. We, too, here in Chicago will have an opportunity of witnessing such a parade on May 1. It will be a cry of fist shakers expounding the same doctrins and blaspheming the principles of Christianity, deriding our form of government, and attacking the capitalistic system from all flanks.

It would be proper for a patriotic American who will pause on the curb of the street to study the physiognomy of these paraders—their nationality and their race.

Ivan Kalmuk.

Now's the Time to Slenderize for Swim Suit

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Just a couple of more months, my beauties, and you will be struggling into the bathing suit, last year's or this, and wondering, mebbe, where the hippiness came from. Not happiness! Hippiness is the word.

Cheerio, though, you have a couple of months for whittling the hips down, and how, in the interim, you can use the streamlined figure!

How you could get along without that heavy look below the waist d o w n hip-thigh-and-buttock way! Don't be silly and just keep staring goggle-eyed at what's happened to your girlish outline. Hop down on the floor and go to it with intent to outsilhouette the best of 'em.

Do the popular old scissors exercise and see how you begin to get back the old neat line. Lie on the floor on your left side, with your left arm under you head, stretched out, palm up. Put your right hand on the floor in front of your chest. Lift both feet off the floor and move your legs back and forth in a scissors grind. Keep the knees straight and let the scissors movement be in the hips. Work away ten, twenty, thirty times.

When you're down but not out, do the bicycle workout. Lie on your back with feet together and hands under the fattest part of your hips. Raise both legs in the air, bend the knees, and pedal as if you were going somewhere with intent to get there or die in the attempt. Keep up the good work this side of the tiring point. [Might report an acquaintance's success with this one exercise done a hundred times a day. Hips and rear beautifully slenderized.]

Three's enough if you DO them—not just talk about them.

Develop poise and dignity in your bearing! The right exercises—the kind used by West Point cadets—can help you! Thirty of these exercises, illustrated, are available in the booklet, "West Point Exercises." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

This Show Has Chicago Artists at Their Best

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors has a magnificent exhibition at the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue. This is the type of show which is really representative of Chicago art at its best.

The paintings are colorful, forceful, and intelligible. Where modernist art seems to have struck an impasse and to be turning back upon itself in monotonous repitition of eccentric absurdities, academic painting apparently is forging ahead, sure of itself and certain of its goal.

The current show, which continues to May 5, offers several incidents in witness of this supposition. One would go far before meeting in any other type of art the two creations as magnificent as the portrait study, "Ned Mortimore," by Charles Sneed Williams, and the gorgeous still life, "The Four Horsemen," by Anna Lynch.

In another vein, one of gentle poesy, is the exquisite still life of fruit and flowers by Leo Marzolo. Walter Krawiec gives us a stunning surprise by suddenly leaving his favorite circus theme and going to the Pacific coast for his subject matter. He has brought back "A Cruiser in Puget Sound," strongly painted. Rudolph F. Ingerle shows another of his beautiful night scenes, "Moonlight and Branches," an intriguing alliance.

Karl Plath shows a decorative study of two birds, "African Wood Ibis." Julius Moessel in "Gold, Incense, and Myrrh" has achieved a stunning representation of the three kings coming in worship to the Infant Jesus. Frederic Tellander has painted a most successful portrait of L. L. Valentine, and Pauline Palmer scores another definite hit with her "Forsaken," an old house deep in grass.

Through the commission for the encouragement of local art, founded in 1914 by Carter Harrison, who was mayor at that time, Chicago has purchased four paintings from this exhibition. The pictures selected by the committee are "Place Verte-Montreuil-sur-Mer," by George Ames Aldrich; "Park 'n' Eat," by Edith Jane Cassady; "A Summer Day," by F. Farrand Dodge, and "Old Houses in Galena, Illinois," by Tunis Ponsen.

Mother Frets Over Conduct of Little Son

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Misery loves company" in more ways than one. Certainly it is a comfort to many mothers to learn that their child whose behavior is fretting them so is not the exception—worse and more troublesome, as she believes, than all the "nice" little boys and girls she sees around her.

This comfort many of you would have if you realized that babies, little children and older children go through certain stages in their growing—not only bodily stages, but personality stages. The distressed mother who wrote the following letter should be comforted to know that her description fits, in some degree, most 5 or 6 year olds.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have a problem that is making me desperate. My little boy is 6, but as disobedient a child as could be found, though at times he is so sweet and lovable. He is an only child. Both my husband and I love him so much.

"My son's worst fault is calling names and answering back. I can't understand why he does this, as we live in a nice neighborhood and he's not allowed to play with anybody but a few boys near his own age. He goes to school and, of course, I know around the school yard he must pick up this kind of language."

All this shows that this small boy has turned the corner from babyhood. His world's bigger, he's wide-eyed mentally at what he sees and hears in it, and a lot of it he's bound to imitate. This will include what to you is "bad," but to him is only novel.

He'll experiment, try things out at home—a sort of personality swagger of new-found independence. You may even see signs of that in the actual swagger of his walk!

So, accept the change. Ignore some of the things which shock you, and to your surprise, I'm sure, you'll find one day that the "bad words" have disappeared, the impudence melted away. All this provided you go calmly on your way, being as courteous as ever, and gentle but firm in your correction when correction is needed.

"We don't use that word—here's a better," or "I don't speak that way to you, son—we don't talk so to each other in our family," are often all that is needed to check chronic use of an undesirable word or a child's try at talking back.

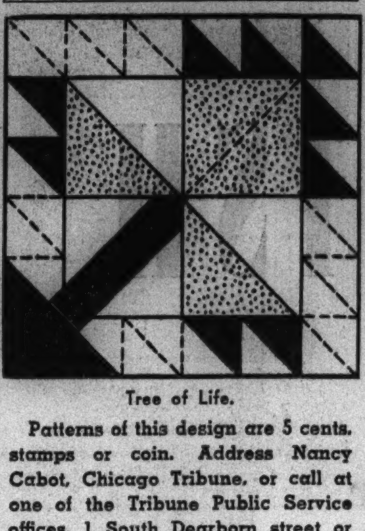
TODAY'S QUILT



Tree of Life.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A favorite pieced pattern of the 1850s was the Tree of Life, which was used by the religious New Englanders as a symbol of their piety. A coverlet composed of these pieced blocks was set together with four inch bands between the blocks and finished with a seven inch white border and a half inch bias binding. At that same time in Virginia there was an exceedingly beautiful applique coverlet which was given the same title, but the design rambled over the entire quilt, forming one vast Tree of Life. Both blocks are outstanding in their field of pieced and applique work.

Woman Will Relate Arctic Adventures at Science Academy

From school children to bearded pundits the Academy of Sciences offers something for everybody. Its Thursday night bill this week will appeal especially to women, for Dr. Marguerite Baumgartner of Michigan will tell the story, with pictures, of a college girl's adventures in the arctic.

There she spent two summers, photographing birds and plants, canoeing among ice floes of Hudson bay, and visiting with Indians and Eskimos. It was difficult going in a bleak region where the arctic tundras meet the last outposts of the northern forests, but Dr. Baumgartner found it fascinating, and that fascination she imparts in her lectures an "Arctic Summers." This scientist speaks with authority, for she was formerly associated with the ornithological laboratory of Cornell university.

Tomorrow evening's program, like all the Academy's offerings, is open to the public and there is no admission charge. The hour is 8 o'clock.

Great Pianist Discovered at Small Recital

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The pianists had the musical stage to themselves yesterday and succeeded in providing enough news to satisfy any reporter's appetite. One of them, a complete unknown as far as I am concerned, turned out to be a very great artist. Another suffered a unique piece of poetic justice when his much punched instrument showed some spirit of its own and snapped back at him.

To join my small and carefully guarded list of first rate pianists comes Marc d'Albert, a young Chicago Negro, who played a recital in Kimball hall last evening. People of not one-twentieth of his talents have played to 2,500 people in Orchestra hall; he had to be content with a homey little group of 150 or so. O, for a press agent for Marc d'Albert!

He plays in a quiet commanding way, as easily as if music rather than speech were his native language. There is an unstudied persuasiveness and eloquence to everything he does. Countless little beauties of nuance glorify each phrase. His periods positively burst with meaning.

Mr. d'Albert has the spiritual depth necessary to grasp the music's significance, the imaginative power by which he can personalize it, a respect for the composer which forbids him altering the music content to suit his own whims, and the technical wherewithall to communicate to a listener anything whatsoever that he wishes to communicate. If you know a better recipe for a fine pianist, please send it along special delivery.

Mr. d'Albert played Scarlatti, Beethoven [the Opus 54 sonata], Chopin, Schumann [the G minor sonata], and a modern group. The Shumann, especially, was a revelation. I had never heard the angularities of this unpianistic piece conquered before. Last night it was self-contained and exceedingly lovely of tone and line.

Gunnar Johansen's Breasted hall series of twelve historical piano recitals, which began so auspiciously a few weeks ago with highly musical performances of pre-1750 pieces, came to grief in more ways than one yesterday when the turn of the Chopin ballades and études came along.

An extremely eccentric rubato marred the first ballade. The second was jerky and not technically clean in its headlong portions. Not until the fourth was reached was there even an approximation of the contemplative flow which these narrative-like pieces demand.

The suspicion that Mr. Johansen was mistaking mere expressiveness for good art was strengthened in the C minor étude ["Revolutionary"] when the performance became definitly unbeautiful both in line and tone. Even the stormiest musical episodes must remain more music than storm—otherwise the resulting product, while possibly just as respectable as art, is most certainly not art.

This was where the piano hit back. It growled horribly and whipped a broken string out of its interior. However, some sort of repairs were effected and the program went on.

One Dressy, One Tailored

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESSES.

Our pattern offering today consists of two models, one a rather dressy frock and the other a trimly tailored dress.

Shirring plays an important part in the chic of the model at the left. It has a softly draped V neckline, a gracefully shirred bodice and dolman sleeves, and a snugly fitted waistline, an ideal contrast, by the way, to the softness of the top. The skirt is traditionally pretty with its simple cut and comfortable flare. Sheers and soft silks and cottons make up beautifully, and delicate prints are especially acceptable.

The tailored dress has a high and round neckline that takes to two kinds of embellishment. There are a Peter Pan collar and two stitched tabs to match the unusual and rather wide belt. The short sleeves are squared. The skirt, which shares in the paneling originating in the waist, is perfectly fitted through the hips and gracefully flared below the knees. Cottons and linens in dark shades are perfect for this model, which may go to school, office, club affairs, and spectator sports events.

Style No. 3300 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3194 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅜ yard of 39 inch fabric for the collar and ⅛ yard of 39 inch material for the girdle.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the best tips we ever got was from a woman whose beauty cupboard is never bare. She owns more fine preparations than you and I ever dreamed of. It was she who told us about a heliotrope sachet, which she sprinkles about her house and through her delicate possessions in an annual spring ritual.

After acquiring some of this for ourselves we agree with her that it's tops. This sachet has been on the market for many years; it's just one of those thoroughly good things that some thoughtful, careful women buy regularly. The rest of us don't think of it because there's never any fanfare about it.

This comes in a little glass container with a simple gilt top. It's a fine cream colored powder, with its exquisite scent highly concentrated. There are few fragrances in the world as clean and fresh and completely charming as this sachet version of heliotrope. For spring you couldn't make a better choice.

There are dozens of tricks you can do with this. Make little bags, if you are handy with your needle, and scatter these about. If you're smart you even will wear one, pinned below the neck of your dress or to your underthings. Or you can just scatter the powder among the contents of the dresser drawers. A very little does the work of scenting the things and the scent lasts so long you'll know you've found a truly GOOD sachet.

We like this particularly as a body sachet. The powder is fine; you can rub it in sparingly to the flesh after your bath. Use it inside the elbows, on your neck, even on the skin of your body. You'll walk in delicately perfumed beauty all day long!

Opera Accepts a Free Ballet; Saves $7,500

The Catherine Littlefield ballet of Philadelphia, Pa., will be the official ballet of the Chicago City Opera company during the seven week season opening at the Civic Opera house Oct. 30, Jason Whitney, president of the opera company, announced yesterday.

The company, numbering sixty-five members, will dance in all operas in which ballets are required. In addition it will offer a series of seven special all-ballet performances on Tuesday evenings.

The newly engaged Philadelphia group replaces the City Opera ballet composed wholly of Chicago dancers, and directed by Ruth Page since 1933.

The entire cost of transporting the new ballet between Philadelphia and Chicago will be borne by Catherine Littlefield, director and manager of the company. In addition Miss Littlefield will pay the salaries of all the dancers for the entire season, furnish costumes and scenery for the special productions, and turn over to the opera company 30 per cent of the gross receipts of each Tuesday performance. Aside from the ballet's share of the special performances the ballet will receive no payments from the opera company.

The contract between the opera company and Miss Littlefield will enable the opera company to save approximately $7,500, the aggregate cost of financing Miss Page's ballet in the 1937 season.

About thirty resident Chicago dancers, for all of whom the seven weeks of opera represents between one-third and one-half the total work available in an entire year, will be displaced. Many Chicago dancers are now on the rolls of the Federal Theater project, and no funds are available to receive additional applicants for enrolment in the dance unit.

The Catherine Littlefield company was organized in Philadelphia, and has appeared with the Philadelphia orchestra under Leopold Stokowski. In recent summers the company has given ballet programs with the same orchestra in Robin Hood Dell at Philadelphia, and with the Philharmonic-Symphony society of New York at the Lewisohn stadium.

The troupe was the first American ballet to tour in Europe, Miss Littlefield having taken her dancers to Paris, London and Brussels in 1937.

The style of the company is said to include both classical and modern techniques and both serious and comic subject matter, with an emphasis upon typically American material.

Club to Hold Hunter Trials Memorial Day

BY JUDITH CASS.

MEMORIAL day, when most of the country clubs officially are opened for the summer, has a new event scheduled for this year, a combination gymkhana and hunter trials to be given by the Longmeadow Hounds. At a meeting at the Hubbard Woods home of the master of the Longmeadow hunt Clark J. Lawrence, and Mrs. Lawrence, Hill Blackett was appointed chairman of the gala event.

Hunter trials appeal particularly to hunting folk, but the gymkhana, an informal horse show, is of interest to a wider group. Denison B. Hull, Henry W. Meers, and Frederic Burnham are assisting Mr. Blackett with plans for the affair, which will be held on the grounds of the new stables that Mr. Blackett and Mr. Hull recently have completed on Lee road in Northbrook.

Mr. Lawrence was reëlected M. F. H. of the Longmeadow at Sunday's meeting and the other officers are: President, Mr. Burnham; vice president; Ross J. Beatty Jr.; secretary, Ernest S. Ballard; treasurer, Mr. Hull; field master, Thomas J. McKearnan; honorary whips, Mr. Beatty and Freeman J. Wood; field secretary, Mr. Meers.

Henry Field to Wed Georgia Resident.

Announcement is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Mrs. Placidia White Knowlton of Thomasville, Ga., and Henry Field of Chicago. The wedding will take place in June at the home of the Thomas P. Lindsays in Southboro, Mass. Mrs. Lindsay is an aunt of Mr. Field's and Mr. Lindsay is a cousin of Mrs. Knowlton's, whose father is the Rev. Robb White, rector of the Episcopal church in Thomasville.

Mr. Field's mother, Mrs. Algernon Burnaby of England, was Miss Minna Field of Chicago, daughter of the late Henry Field, who was a brother of the first Marshall Field. Henry Field's father was the late Preston Gibson. Young Mr. Field tood his grandfather's name after his parents' divorce. The marriage of Elizabeth Sturges Field and Henry Field was ended by divorce last summer and last fall Mrs. Field became the bride of James E. Finan of New York.

Mr. Field is curator of physical anthropology at Field museum. He and his bride will go to England on their wedding trip and upon their return will be at home in Chicago, probably in the apartment at 999 Lake Shore

Straw Fashions Top Flight Hats of New Season

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The sailors have taken the town. Rakish flat straw affairs, from the coquettish models with short brims about two inches wide and a flat crown, to the cartwheels as straight as a disc.

Straw is the top favorite with toast tan the favorite color. Veils with big chenille dots the size of pop corn are worn swathed over the brim edge, or wound round the crown and tied in a huge bow.

Gay green sailors are contrasted and tied with a vivid blue veil; white sailors with navy blue or copper or black veiling. Pink straw hats go out with veils of navy or powder blue, and chalk blue teams with hot coppertone.

Cartwheels are wider than ever before. Coarse straw, at least a good inch wide, is woven in rustic effect and the finished hat is then trimmed with ribbon and flowers. Cartwheels dipped down at the front are giving the flat models a race for fashion popularity. Flowers are bunched high and fastened directly in front, ribbon streamers flutter alluringly down the back. These hats are picturesque, flattering and extremely wearable.

Rough white straw, a white that glistens in the sunshine, is a new idea this season. This straw is used in tiny trifles, in brimmed versions and in medium brims for street wear and in small confections for cocktail clothes. It makes grand contrasts with dark costumes, especially with sheers. Ribbons, veils, and velvet trims in dark color make the white straw even more dramatic.

Flower hats are still pet buys. Tiny nosegays of every conceivable bloom perch on the very tip of the coiffure and then are anchored with either a decorative hat pin, a flowered band at the back, or colored veil.

SYNOPSIS.

Gordon Stone returns to Barranca after eight years in prison. Gordon Stone was framed by Lyn Gilbert, owner of the Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford. Because Gilbert's niece, Karen, warns Gordon and Jack Turnbull in time to save them from a posse of Gilbert's riders, her uncle imprisons her at his ranch. Gordon and Jack start a campaign against Gilbert. Heading a band of men, Gordon captures four Bar B B riders rustling cattle belonging to Gordon's uncle, John Fleming, owner of the J F ranch. Gilbert offers his rider Cheyenne Karen's hand in marriage if he will kill Gordon. Gordon and Jack are tricked into a trap by Cheyenne and Buck Hayes. They capture Hayes, but Cheyenne rides off, taking Karen with him. Gordon and Jack investigate at the Bar B B ranch house and barely escape alive. Cheyenne takes Karen to a cabin occupied by Bud Cowell. They camp out that night.

INSTALMENT XLV.

A HARDY SCOUNDREL.

When Karen awoke Cheyenne was busy with the frying pan and the coffee pot. She pulled on her boots and walked through the trees to a trickle of a stream fresh from the snows above. After she had washed her face and hands as best she could, using her wisp of a handkerchief as a towel, she patted her hair into some order.

Smoke rose from the friendly camp fire where the bacon was simmering. Busy with her breakfast was a man. In the distorted lights of night his shadow at times had taken on the shape of a monster. Now she knew he was not that. He was a villain by all social standards. He had tried the short cuts of robbery and murder to gain wealth. But deep hidden in all his viciousness lay a stratum of decency that made him draw a line he would not cross.

He called to her, "Come and get it." His voice was harsh, unfriendly. "I'm so hungry I could eat a mail sack," she told him cheerfully as she moved forward. "Coffee—flapjacks—bacon. Food for a king."

The man's face did not respond to her warmth. He poured coffee into her tin cup and filled her plate. The raspberry jam she had scorned he passed to her. He had nothing to say. A heavy, sullen silence had replaced the camp fire talk of last night. Karen carried the burden of such conversation as there was. His contribution was limited to "No" and "Yes." This adventure had gone sour to him. She thought she understood why. He had staked everything on one cut of the cards and lost. He had not been thorough villain enough to seize the stakes after he had failed to win.

During breakfast he volunteered only one remark. "If you're not intending to use that carving knife you better put it back in the sack."

Karen was disconcerted. That was exactly what she had meant to do as soon as she found the opportunity to get it back unobserved. The knife was still hidden in the folds of her blankets.

"If we're not going to stay here I suppose I had better do the dishes and pack," she said, rising from where she sat. "If you ever want a recommendation as a cook please refer to me. A swell breakfast."

"No need to pack," he said. "We'll leave the plunder here."

Karen waited, in her eyes an eager unspoken question.

"I'm taking you to town—or part way anyhow," he continued harshly. "I'll leave you with some one who will get you in with a car."

"You don't know how glad I am," she said in a low warm voice. "Of course I'll tell everybody you rescued me when I was a prisoner at the ranch."

"Yeah!" he jeered. "And who'll believe it? What d'you think Bud Cowell has been doing but saving his face by spreading the news? After we left he was out of that hogan quicker than hell could scorch a feather."

"But if I deny his story—if I say you did what I asked you to do——"

"Won't make any difference. Too late. It will hurt you and won't help me. They'll ask where we were all night. There's no answer to that. I'll have to light out of this country if I'm going to save my bacon. About this time the posses are starting out to collect me. Soon as you're off my hands I'll be pulling for the Rio Grande . . . I'll go rope and saddle."

She watched him straddle away, rope in hand, a hardy and resolute scoundrel. The wish was strong in her that he might come through alive.

As Gordon Stone and Jack Turnbull raced across the back yard at the Bar B B they knew the ranch hands were pouring out of the kitchen like seeds squirted from a squeezed lemon. The fugitives had a start of fifteen or twenty yards, but before the darkness had swallowed them revolvers were barking furiously in the rear. Jack did not stop to return the fire, since hasty escape was imperative. At that distance, in the dim light of night, the shooting of the pursuers was random. If either of them should be hit, it would be by a chance bullet.

"Have to hit the gate farther down," Jack told his friend. "Can't risk getting hung up on the barbs."

"Right," Gordon agreed.

They were making for the big pasture where they had left their mounts. Jack reached the gate first and vaulted over it. A moment later Gordon was scudding after him into the mesquite. The drum fire of guns followed them.

"They're still hell-bent to get us," Jack panted. "Hope we don't miss our broncs in all this brush."

"More to the right," Stone answered. "Oughtn't to be far from here."

"Over this way," Jack called, not loudly. "I see 'em."

They pulled the slip knots and swung to the saddles. A man broke out of the darkness as they got into action.

"Scare him," Gordon said, and Jack turned in his seat to fire.

They plunged into the chaparral, paying no attention to the cactus spines that clutched at them or the branches that whipped their faces.

Through the brush they rode to the fence corner where they had left Buck Hayes. The Bar B B man had rolled around a good deal. They found him trying to cut the rope which bound his wrists on one of the barbs of wire. So far he had managed to tear his hands a good deal more than the rope.

"Let me do that chore for you," Jack said, and with his knife slashed the strands. From the man's mouth he removed the gag.

Hayes looked at his freed hands, then sullenly at Stone. "What's it to be?" he asked. "You fixin' to bump me off?"

Gordon found the revolver of the prisoner which he had tossed into the brush after binding him. "I'll borrow this permanently if you don't mind. I suppose we ought to rid the world of such varmints, but we're not thorough enough. We'll ask a question or two. About your dear friend Cheyenne, who left you here alone to do a job too big for you. He didn't go back to the house. Where would he likely be?"

The sulky eyes of Hayes fastened on Gordon. He did not feel that he was out of the woods. After these men had got information from him they might pour bullets into his body and ride away. It was what he would have done if the situation had been reversed.

"How would I know where he went?" he asked thickly. "The skunk lit out without saying a word to me. When I meet up with him——"

He left the sentence in the air, but the savage tone left no doubt of the meaning.

"You might guess," Gordon suggested, his voice low but not at all reassuring. "You don't like him. Nor us. If we should find him somebody will probably get hurt. That would suit you, wouldn't it?"

It would exactly suit him, Hayes thought. Moreover, it would be a very likely result of meeting between these men and Cheyenne. He was a fighter, ready to fight at the drop of a hat. Rather than surrender Cheyenne would go to smoking as soon as he saw these fellows. Somebody would get killed. Maybe all three of them.

"How do I know you'll stick to what you say and not gun me?" the Bar B B man demanded.

"You don't," Gordon told him. "But you can use your bean. We've had chances to wipe out eight or ten of your outfit and we haven't done it. We're not killers except in self defense."

Birth Control League Told How Japanese Closed Only Clinic

Adventures in educating Asiatic countries to birth control were told yesterday by Mrs. Alexander B. Dick of New York at the 14th annual meeting of the Illinois Birth Control league in the Woman's Athletic club. Mrs. Dick was in the orient last summer with Margaret Sanger and was present at the opening of the first birth control clinic in Japan.

This clinic was established by Baroness Shizue Ishimoto, Japan's most famous feminist. Recently Mrs. Dick received a letter telling of the baroness' arrest and the closing of the clinic.

Vegetables Do the Honors for Quick Dinner

Even if you've never cooked in your life, you probably like to make candy. There is a variety of recipes in Mary Meade's booklet, "Candies That Are Fun to Make," on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Or enclose 5 cents in stamps in a letter to Mary Meade, and the booklet will be mailed promptly.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

This department's mail indicates that not a few of our readers have vegetarian tendencies. Therefore I'm suggesting a vegetarian dinner for today's easy-to-prepare meal.

I think you'll agree that this combination of fresh vegetables and fruit has a very healthful air about it. There's nothing rich or hard to digest in the whole menu. Neither is there any food difficult to prepare.

VEGETARIAN DINNER
Creamed Potatoes
Buttered Turnip Tops or Mustard Greens
Buttered Fresh Lima Beans
Toasted English Muffins [Bakery]
Bar-le-duc Jelly
Fresh Sugared Pineapple
Unfrosted Sour Cream Spice Cakes
Milk, Tea or Coffee

Plain creamed potatoes may be varied in many ways. If you like, add one of these to the plain white sauce:

1. Chopped parsley.
2. A beaten egg [this simply makes a richer sauce].
3. Sliced or grated cheese.
4. Chopped or sieved pimiento.
5. A little grated onion or chopped chives.

The ideal way to prepare creamed potatoes is to boil the "spuds" in their jackets before cutting them up into the sauce, but a much quicker method is to cut the raw potatoes into small pieces and boil them in salted water while preparing the white sauce. The disadvantage of this method is that overcooking is likely to take place and the potatoes may not keep their shape as well as they would otherwise.

Although spinach and certain other greens are cooked with only the water which clings to their leaves, mustard and turnip greens require a different method. They are cooked in a large amount of boiling, salted water. Combine the greens if you find them both in your market, or combine either of them with dandelion greens, which are cooked in the same way. Serve them with plenty of butter and seasonings, and perhaps just a little vinegar. A piece of salt pork or bacon may be added while they are cooking, if you aren't being strictly vegetarian.

Sour Cream Spice Cakes.

1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon soda
⅓ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
⅓ teaspoon cloves
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup thick sour cream

Sift flour, soda, salt, and spices together. Beat eggs, add sugar gradually, and beat thoroughly. Add flour mixture alternately with sour cream and beat well. Fill small greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake at 375 degrees for about twenty minutes.

Serve these cakes unfrosted and warm. What are left may be frosted or served with a sauce for a later meal.

Thursday's Menu

BREAKFAST
Stewed Prunes
Oatmeal
Orange Toast
Milk or Coffee.

LUNCH
Tomato Rabbit on Toast
Watercress, Endive, Radish and Cucumber Salad.
Buttered Toast
Sour Cream Spice Cake

DINNER
Kidney Stew
Riced Potatoes
Buttered Turnip Tops
Celery Curls Radish Roses
Apricot Upside Down Cake
Coffee

drive where Mr. Field and Guy Murchie Jr. are living now. Mrs. Knowlton has two daughters, one 9 and one 5 years of age.

Miss Lucy Wilcox Dominick has set June 18 as the date for her marriage to John Rodney Wilson, son of Mrs. Oliver T. Wilson of Lake Forest. The wedding will take place late in the afternoon in the Episcopal church in Greenwich, Conn., followed by a garden reception at the home of Miss Dominick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Dominick Jr., on Old Church road.

The bride's brother-in-law, the Rev. J. Moulton Thomas of Williamsport, Pa., whose wife is the former Miss Adrienne Dominick, will officiate. Mr. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Charles C. Dennehy, the former Miss Virginia Wilson, will be one of the bridesmaids and Mr. Dennehy will be best man for his brother-in-law. Edward Byron Smith and Cyrus Hall Adams III. of Chicago will usher. Among Mr. Wilson's eastern friends who will usher are Thomas Terbell and John Gerli, both of Greenwich, Yale classmates of Mr. Wilson's.

Williams-Mason Nuptials Today.

Two of Chicago's oldest families will become connected by the marriage this afternoon of Miss Mary Wadsworth Williams and Barrett Kerfoot Mason, who will repeat their wedding vows at 4:30 o'clock in Trinity Episcopal church, Highland Park. The Rev. Christoph Keller will read the service, and a reception will follow at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Y. Williams, 160 Hazel avenue, Highland Park.

The home formerly was that of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian G. Yoe, and their daughters, the Misses Yoe, with whom the bride has made her home since the death of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Robert Cutts Williams.

Grace Yoe Williams will be maid of honor, and Mary Elizabeth Williams will be a flower girl for their aunt, whose other flower girl will be a niece of the bridegroom, Phyllis Louise Mason. Rodney S. Mason will be best man for his brother, and ushering will be another brother, Arnold D. K. Mason; Everett Mills, John H. Gardner, E. Randolph Harrington, David Loub, and Gerrit van Schaick.

Mr. Mason, son of Mrs. Henry Eager Mason of Highland Park, is a great-grandson of Roswell B. Mason, mayor of Chicago at the time of the great fire. For something old his bride is wearing a pearl necklace that belonged to her great-grandmother, Lucian Yoe's mother. Another matter of sentiment is that Miss Williams and Mr. Mason are being married on her parents' wedding anniversary. Robert Williams will give his sister away.

Mrs. Petersen Again Heads Woman's A. C.

Mrs. William F. Petersen was reelected president of the Woman's Athletic club yesterday morning, and three women, who have been members of the board for from 18 to 22 years, resigned, Mrs. Frank P. Graves, Mrs. H. Newton Hudson, and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins.

Elected to fill their places are Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell Jr., and Mrs. Chester D. Tripp. Other officers elected are Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, Mrs. Mark Trude, and Mrs. Charles Ward Seabury, vice presidents; Mrs. George Cragg, recording secretary; Mrs. Stanley Zaring, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Taylor Strawn, treasurer.

The annual commencement reception of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, given by Dr. and Mrs. John Timothy Stone, assisted by members of the faculty, will be held from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Commons building. The commencement exercises will be held tomorrow night in the seminary church.

Tennis Committee to Entertain Alice Marble.

Miss Virginia Winston and Miss Josephine Otter will pour at a tea the Junior Wightman cup committee of Chicago is giving today at the International club in the Drake hotel for Miss Alice Marble, former national woman's tennis champion and first ranking woman player in the United States, and her coach, Miss Eleanor Tennant.

Mrs. David W. Kimball is opening her home, 132 DeWindt road, Winnetka, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon for a meeting of the Evanston-North Shore Smith club.

There will be an informal reception tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock at the Art institute to open the 17th international exhibition of water colors, drawings, monotypes and pastels.

According to CULBERTSON

FIVE-SUIT BRIDGE: THE WIDOW.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I have been writing and preaching from time immemorial, bidding is essentially a process of imaginary play. In the new game of five-suit bridge imaginary play becomes an even more important factor, because there now are two phases of the game in which it must be employed. It still applies to the bidding, of course, and, in a more concrete form, it applies to the proper placement of the widow card. After the opening lead is made, declarer places that card either in his own hand or in dummy, as he sees fit, and discards a loser. But the term "loser" is too general and superficial to be descriptive of the advantage declarer can gain from the correct discard. A "loser" may be one trick or, paradoxically, may be two or more. Let me illustrate this by means of an actual hand.

Widow: Royal queen.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 royal	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 royals	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
5 royals	Pass	6 royals	Pass
Pass	Pass

During the bidding South mentally added the widow, the royal queen, to his own holding and mentally discarded a losing spade. This left him with an excellent hand and accounted for his slam-urging bid of five royals over three no trump. North, with two aces and club strength, felt justified in accepting the slam invitation.

West opened the spade king. Declarer took the royal queen into his own hand and got rid of his spade loser. After winning with the spade ace, he drew trumps. On the third round East signaled dramatically with the diamond king. Now, when declarer went about establishing dummy's heart suit, he met a sudden setback. West, winning the second heart, did not waste a precious tempo in the vain effort to cash a spade trick. He shifted immediately to a diamond and this spiked declarer's plan. The heart suit still needed another concession for its establishment. West won with the heart queen and cashed two diamonds, to defeat the small slam contract one trick.

Now let us see what the proper exchange for the widow would have done for declarer. He should have realized that if he were to concede two heart tricks in order to establish dummy's suit, a diamond shift would be fatal. Hence, he should not have worried so much about a losing spade but should have laid his plan to establish the heart suit with only one concession and, thereby, only one loss of the lead. He should have taken the royal queen into his own hand and discarded, not a spade, but a heart. The play then would have gone: First trick, spade ace; three rounds of trumps; a heart lead from the closed hand, ducked in dummy. East would win, and let us concede that the defenders would cash their spade trick before shifting to diamonds. Now the diamond ace would win and declarer would lead his remaining heart to dummy's ace, then would ruff a third round. Two long hearts then would be established in dummy for the discard of two losing diamonds. In all, only one spade and one heart would have to be lost.

Women's Army Ready to Open War on Cancer

This is the slogan with which the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer has entered upon an enlistment campaign this week in Illinois, which has for its objective the widespread dissemination of medical information on this subject.

The drive, which has enlisted the support of both Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly, is under the state direction of Mrs. George Hanly Nippert, 4438 Magnolia avenue. Dr. Clarence C. Little, former president of the University of Michigan, is managing director of the national society. Dr. F. L. Rector of Evanston is the field representative for this district.

Seventy thousand lives might be saved each year, it is stated, if every man, woman and child knew the painless signs of early cancer and, when they appeared, promptly visited a competent physician.

"This is every one's fight," said Mrs. Nippert yesterday. "Most of us have watched and applauded the campaigns against tuberculosis and venereal disease. By reasonable care and self control we should be able to prevent these diseases from becoming personal problems. That is not true of cancer. In the face of it, we are all equal.

"While most states have taken steps to insure care of the insane, the blind, and the tuberculous, only a handful have a comprehensive plan of action against cancer, a disease which destroys 150,000 men, women, and children each year. Illinois acted for the first time in 1937.

"A total of $2,012,000 was appropriated in 1937 by seven states for cancer clinics, education, hospitalization, and research. This is little in the face of a disease which brings tragedy to 396 families in our country each day.

"Already many state health departments are doing creditable educational work, independently, or in coöperation with the Women's Field army. Additional comprehensive state programs may be expected soon."

As lovely in color as the spikey leaves of the tulip are some new roller shades. Last year shade manufacturers stepped out of the beaten path in creating the sun-rose color.

So, if your dining room or living room or bedroom looks a bit on the dull side, and if the color scheme harmonizes, try some of these new green roller shades. They're ideal for summer, too, as green is one of the coolest colors in the palette. And they are not expensive.

Lake Forest Academy Marks 80th Birthday at Dinner Tomorrow

A dinner at the University club tomorrow night will mark the eightieth anniversary of the founding of Lake Forest academy and the twenty-fifth year as headmaster of John Wayne Richards. President Hutchins of the University of Chicago will be the principal speaker. The north shore academy, doubled in size during Dr. Richards' administration and enrolled to capacity, was founded by prominent early settlers from New England, and is linked with the early development of Chicago and the central west.

Moths Are Hatching Now, So Get "Expello"—It Kills Moth Worms

The flying moth never eats anything. It's the moth worm whose practically unquenchable appetite plays havoc with your prized possessions! It buries itself in creases, folds and linings, far beyond the reach of liquid sprays and similar preparations—but not beyond the reach of "Expello"! This white crystalline substance evaporates when exposed to air and releases a gas that permeates all fabrics and swiftly kills all moth worms. Yet it's harmless to humans, animals, fabrics and furs, and leaves no lingering odor. So, if you're cleaning house and storing your winter things, rely on "Expello" to free you from moth worries.

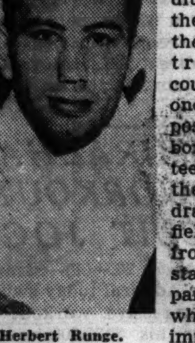
COACHES FEAR UPSETS IN INTERNATIONAL FIGHTS

WARN BOXERS OF EUROPEANS' HIDDEN POWER

Golden Glovers Get Set for Surprises.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The most certain fact about the amateur boxing matches between Chicago's Golden Glovers and the champions of Europe in the Stadium May 18 is the uncertainty of the results. The truth is, of course, that when one team is composed of the best boxers from sixteen nations and the other is drawn from a field of winners from twenty-six states there is a parity of ability which makes it impossible to predict the outcome of any three round bout.



Herbert Runge.

This equality, while assuring splendid contests, will cause the Chicago coaches to worry and it will force the Chicago boxers to their best efforts in training to be ready for their opponents.

They Know Worry Well.

Worry has been a constant companion of Johnny Behr, Fred Caserio, Paddy Kane and Issy Kline, the men who direct Chicago's boxers, prior to all intercity and international contests. They worry despite the fact that Chicago has not been defeated by New York since 1934 and never has lost an international meet. These men know that preparing a team for international competition is a most difficult assignment because there is no knowledge of the opponents' strength and weakness. They have warned Chicago's boxers to get set for surprises.

Upsets are frequent. Last year, for instance, Ulderico Sergo, of Italy, although he had won the Olympic title, surprised by defeating Frankie Kainrath. Incidentally, Kainrath, who captained Chicago's victorious intercity team, is the only member of the 1937 team on this year's squad which will start training in the Illinois Athletic club May 4.

Europeans Surprised, Too.

Another surprising defeat was that of Verne Patterson, 1937 welterweight champion, who was beaten by Michael Murach of Germany. On the other side the European officials were dumfounded when Germany's Olympic heavyweight title holder, Herbert Runge, was knocked out by Lem Franklin. That knockout produced the 4 to 4 tie.

The morale of any Chicago team never has been questioned, but the spirit of this year's squad before the intercity matches was exceptional. It was well that it was, for no team ever got away to a more disheartening start and then rallied to win. The first four Chicago boxers were defeated, none badly outpointed, but each lost and New York led, 4 to 0.

Jack Simmons, featherweight alternate, was first to win and Eddie Dempsey and Milton Bess followed before New York broke the rally to lead, 5 to 3. Then came Marvin Liddell and Jim O'Malley, welterweights, and Booker Beckwith, middleweight, to send Chicago ahead. William Muldune, Linto Guerrieri, and Lloyd Montgomery later clinched Chicago's team championship.

Don't Sell Kainrath Short.

Judged by its New York victories, Chicago would seem to be strongest in the featherweight, welterweight, and light heavyweight classes. But since Europe may be strongest in these weights it doesn't follow that Chicago boys in these classes can win. For that matter, you can't sell Kain-

Mike Jacobs Picks Yankee Stadium as Title Bout Site

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Promoter Mike Jacobs today officially awarded the second Joe Louis-Max Schmeling fight for the world heavyweight title to New York City.

Mike Jacobs.

The time: June 22. The place: Yankee stadium.

"Such a selection was owed to the thousands of New York boxing fans who have supported the Twentieth Century Sporting club, a strictly New York organization," explained Promoter Jacobs as the official details were completed at the regular meeting of the New York State Athletic commission.

The announcement, while expected for several months, put a definite end to negotiations for the bout by Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit interests.

Hope for $1,000,000 Gate.

While the two page typewritten statement emphasized that Jacobs was acting out of gratitude to Gotham fans, it was also admitted that terms of the contracts for exclusive use of the two New York ball parks, Yankee stadium and Polo Grounds, influenced his decision. A threat of a possible breach of contract suit, in the event the heavyweight plum was not bestowed here, had been made by the Yankee and Giant managements.

Selection of New York assures Jacobs of a gross gate of at least a million dollars in case of a sellout. The Stadium plans, as drawn by Lionel Levy, architect for the Twentieth Century, provide for 90,000 seats. The ticket scale provides for the rest.

Ringside seats will be priced at $30 and the balance of the house will scale down gradually—$20, $16.50, $11.50, $7.75, and $5.75—with all taxes included in the ticket price.

Choice of the Stadium appeased the commissioners, who have maintained ever since last summer that removal of the Jim Braddock-Louis titular bout to Chicago had cost Gotham merchants nearly a million dollars.

The failure of the recent Louis-Harry Thomas tuneup match in Chicago to attract more than 18,000 fans was a factor in refusing the offer of Chicago interests. The Chicago merchants' group had offered Soldiers' field for a rental of $25,000 and had even offered to pay that bill for Jacobs.

Louis Goes East May 15.

Conflict with the American league baseball schedule was considered the reason for disqualification of Detroit's enlarged Briggs stadium. Philadelphia's offer was received too late for consideration, it was said.

The heavyweight champion will arrive in the east on May 15. Louis will sit in at the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong bout May 26 at Madison Square Garden Bowl and then start serious training at Pompton Lakes.

Schmeling is due to arrive on May 9 in this country from Hamburg.

SEEKS BAER FIGHT

Joe Foley, who served as co-promoter with Mike Jacobs for the title bout between Joe Louis and James J. Braddock in Comiskey park last June 22, said last night that he is negotiating for Max Baer to meet the winner of the Louis-Max Schmeling contest in Chicago next fall.

"Several weeks ago I spoke to Jacobs about the possibility of holding the proposed match between Baer and Louis or Schmeling in Chicago," Foley explained, "and Mike indicated that this city would get the bout."

INDIANS WIN AS SOX MOUNDSMEN WORK IN SHIFTS

Hose Just Can't Seem to Stay in Front.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox offense yesterday was vastly improved as it struggled to stop the winning ways of the league leading Cleveland Indians, but pitcher weariness, or moundsmen's fatigue, continued to raise its ugly head and the Indians won their sixth straight game, 10 to 6.

To give you some idea of the extent that ennui beset the Sox for the seventh time in seven games played this season, it may be pointed out that in the first four innings the Indians made no runs and only three singles off Merritt Cain, and in the succeeding five innings made their ten runs and fifteen hits for twenty bases off Cain, Cox and Rigney. For the second time this year Clint Brown was not called on to finish the game.

The Sox were ahead, 2 to 0, going into the fifth, the first of these runs being a home run by Mike Kreevich. The Indians tied it up in the fifth.

The Sox took a 4 to 2 lead in the fifth and the Indians tied it again in the sixth.

The Sox took a 5 to 4 lead in their half of the sixth, and the Indians tied it again in the seventh.

Batting Punch Isn't.

The Sox faded out with three straight outs in the seventh. Then the Indians made three runs off Cox in the eighth and the Sox countered with a lone marker.

The Indians hammered out two runs off John D. Rigney in the ninth. The Sox went out in order in the ninth.

The White Sox made ten hits, including a single, double, and triple by Gee Walker and that homer of Kreevich's. It was the first time they had been able to assemble as many as a half dozen runs. They played errorless ball and several plays, by Hayes and Walker, were extraordinarily good. But the pitchers tire, O goodness, how they tire!

The Indians have won six straight since dropping their season opener.

The Sox sagged below the .500 mark for the first time this season. They have lost four games in seven, the last three in a row.

Mike's Homer Is a Liner.

Kreevich's homer, accomplished after Keltner had thrown out Hayes in the first inning, was a line shot which came down in the fifth row of the left field grand stand. Steinbacher followed up with an infield single and stopped at second on Walker's line single to center. The runners advanced on Kuhel's infield out and Owen was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Berger sent a high fly to Averill.

The Indians also wasted a couple of singles in their second inning. After Walker had made a nice running catch of Solters' drive, Averill singled and went to third on Trosky's single. Keltner hit into a double play, Hayes to Berger to Kuhel.

The Sox added their second run in the second inning. Sewell and Cain flied out to Averill but Hayes singled off the left field wall, a smack that narrowly missed being a homer and bounced so truly into Solters' paws that Jackie couldn't even make a start toward second. Kreevich walked, after which Steinbacher bounced a grounder to Lary, who came up with the ball but tossed wildly in an effort to force Kreevich. Hayes scored, Kreevich stopped at second and Steinbacher reached first on the error. Walker bounced to Trosky.

Sugar Gets Tired.

Cain, in the fifth, suffered the mid-game fatigue that besets White Sox pitchers but emerged with no worse than a tie. Trosky opened with his second single but Walker backed against the left field wall to pull down Keltner's fly. Pytlak rolled a single to Walker, putting Trosky on third and when the ball was slowly

Today's Derby Long Shot Tip: Bet Co-Sport

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—From away up in the eaves of the longshot chamber there floated out over the Churchill Downs race course today the name of the "long shot with a chance" in this year's Kentucky Derby.

Co-Sport is the tag they hung on the rascal. He should be 100 to 1 in the Derby betting. After the Derby crowd looks him over he may go to 200 to 1.

Co-Sport is not much to look at. He's scrawny and his face isn't particularly intelligent looking. He is sound of bone and muscle, however, and proved it shortly after daybreak this morning.

He was out on the track at that unearthly hour for his morning prep and it was a severe one. He was to run as fast and as far as he could and he didn't do a bad job.

This Isn't So Bad.

He reeled off a mile and an eighth in 1:55, then cantered on out the full mile and a quarter Derby route in 2:10. Some clockers said the move was a second slower. A red haired kid by the name of Bob Yelton, who has ridden many long shots past the winning post—not in the Derby but in other races—was in the saddle. He held a stop watch in his hand. "It ticked all the way around," Yelton said. His watch showed exactly 2:10 when the rehersal ended.

This is no assuring message that Co-Sport will win the Derby. One hundred to one shots ordinarily do not win races, but once in a long while one does gallop home in front.

Co-Sport is a son of the sire Cohort. Old Cohort never did go in for good looking sons. Most of his get have been rough and tough from the bone out, as was Roman Soldier.

The Soldier Could Go.

Roman Soldier ran a pretty smart Derby field dizzy a few years back. He didn't win, but if any bad luck had happened to the two that finished in front of him he would have been the winner. Later he developed into one of the greatest handicap horses in the land.

Roman Soldier wasn't a bit handsomer than Co-Sport. Therefore, if Co-Sport can run as Roman Soldier did, he may have some kind of a chance in the Derby. He's fit.

He raced around Chicago all last season. Later he went to Florida and was in training there all winter. He couldn't beat Lawrin in Florida, but maybe—just maybe—he can do it in Kentucky.

Co-Sport came out of today's drill

PIRATES TAKE FIRST BEATING OF YEAR, 5 TO 3

Two Triples, Single Decide It.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26.—Mr. Rip Collins, who has been quiet since his hitting outburst on opening day, and Mr. Billy Herman, who has been so docile that his attitude was becoming a matter of alarm, got into a huddle today with results beneficial to the Cubs. They went to work with their bats in the tenth inning and, along with some help from Joe Marty, slammed home the runs that whipped the Pirates, 5 to 3, in the second game of the series. The Pirates hadn't been trimmed this season, winning seven. They won their last ten in the 1937 race.

The Herman-Collins-Marty act was the concluding feature of a struggle in which Tex Carleton set out with the idea of accomplishing his first triumph of the year, and finally succeeded. His success, however, was not definite until after he had experienced three separate losses of a one run lead. The last time this slim advantage faded into a tie was the sixth after which he hurled four successive innings marked by only one enemy hit.

Cubs Make Good Start.

At the start of the day's business, transacted before 7,523 customers, the Cubs were delightfully ferocious although not scoring enough to accumulate better than a 2 to 1 lead. They scored one in the first on two hits and a pass off Ed Brandt, the venerable southpaw. They scored one more in the second although the expense was terrific. It took two hits and a pair of passes to harvest that much off Brandt and Bill Swift who came to the rescue. From this point to the tenth Swift did right well except for a hit which Tony Lazzeri sent over the wall in the sixth to put the Chicagoans in front for the third time.

When Herman came up to open the tenth he had two run figuring singles to his credit. This time he tripled over the head of Paul Waner in right. Big Waner tried to play the ball off the wall for a double but the bounce fooled him. Collins also tripled over Big Paul's head without benefiting from a bounce, Herman scoring.

Collins Comes Home.

Collins refused to charge toward the plate on Demaree's hopper to Vaughan, but he did drift home leisurely when Marty poked a single into right.

After this there was nothing except that Galan completed the inning by bouncing into a double play and Carleton went through the home half without much trouble, possibly inspired by the fact that Dizzy Dean had charged down into the bull pen to warm himself for eventualities.

Two hits in the first inning gave the Cubs a momentary one run lead. After Hack was retired on Vaughan's throw to Suhr, Herman singled to center. So did Collins, Herman going to third. Brandt treated Demaree to a more or less intentional pass which was a compliment in view of the hitting done by the Cubs' right fielder thus far. Marty slammed a fly to Baby Waner in center, Herman scoring after the catch. Galan hit a line drive into Vaughan's hands for the third out.

Pirates Tie Score.

The Pirates also put together two hits off Carleton in their first half, a tying run resulting. It was principally a matter of the mischievous Waner boys. Lloyd, the junior member of the pair, opened with a single to right. His brother, Paul, shoved

NEW YORK U. TO SEND FAST TEAM TO PENN RELAYS

Mile Quartet Finishes Good Indoor Season.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—[Special.]—New York university, which has not won a championship in the annual Pennsylvania relay carnival since 1933 when its four mile team broke the tape, may capture two titles Saturday afternoon on Franklin field if past performances count for anything.

With two of the speediest middle distance runners in this section of the country on the one and two mile teams, the Violets stand an excellent chance of upsetting the favored Pittsburgh quartet in the shorter distance and the Indiana, Manhattan, and Pittsburgh teams in the longer race.

Herbert to Run.

James Herbert, national champion and world's record holder for 600 yards indoors, and Edgar Stripling are the two stars upon whom Coach Emil Von Elling places his hopes for victories in both the mile and two mile events. Martin Witte and Curtis Giddings complete the quartet.

New York university's hopes for triumphs in the relays is not without foundation. During the last indoor season the Violets twice broke the track record for a mile in Madison Square Garden. In the Millrose games the team ran 3:20.2 to shatter the mark made in 1932 by the Pennsylvania team led by Bill Carr, 1932 Olympic 400 meter champion.

Sets Fast Pace.

Later in the season the same combination ran the distance in 3 minutes 19.8 seconds to break their own record. On that occasion Herbert was clocked in 48.2 seconds and Stripling in 49.7 seconds. In the National A. A. U. championships New York university broke the record for the 1600 meter relay by running the distance in 3:19.4.

Strong Quarter Mile Field Seeks Title in Drake Relays

Des Moines, Ia., April 26.—[Special.]—A strong field of 440 yard dash specialists gained capable reenforcements today when officials announced the entry of two Washington State quarter milers in the Drake relays. The field also includes Wilbur Miller, the new Pacific coast star from Compton Junior college of California; Harold Cagle of Oklahoma Baptist, who ran on the 1936 Olympic team in the 1,600 meter relay; Cleve Tate, Oklahoma Aggie star; and George Halcrow, University of Chicago's Big Ten champion.

Archie San Romani.

These Boys Are Good.

The two newcomers are Lee Orr and Melvin Peddichord. Orr won the 220 yard dash in the Pacific coast vs. Big Ten meet last summer, and ran on the great Washington State mile relay team of 1937. Peddichord is a newcomer in varsity competition but both of the Cougar stars are reported to be capable of near 47 seconds in the quarter.

Another star who entered the relays today was Archie San Romani, Emporia Teachers college middle distance champion. He filed his entry for the special 1,000 yard run.

San Romani, former national collegiate and national A. A. U. champion at 1,500 meters and one of America's best in the 1936 Olympics, beat Glenn Cunningham in the mile at last week's Kansas relays. San Romani has beaten Cunningham six times.

Fenske Will Compete.

Arrayed against San Romani in the 1,000 yard special will be Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin, national collegiate champion in the mile; Calvin Bell, Rice institute; W. A. Morse of Duke university, Southern conference mile champion; Art Bodeau of Purdue, who ran second to Fenske in the Big Ten half mile, and Ray Mahannah, Drake graduate who topped the National A. A. U. junior 1,500 meter field last year.

Late entries sent the total for the meet beyond the 1937 total. One hundred eighty-two schools will be represented by approximately 2,000 athletes.

PASCH FAVORITE TO WIN STAKE IN ENGLAND TODAY

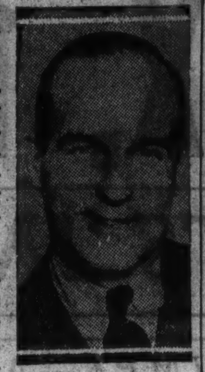
Cooper Wins $4,498 to Lead Golf Pros After Winter Season

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Harry Cooper, the little man whose golf game generally runs like a well kept clock, is right where you might expect him to be as the money winnings and score averages among American professionals, is prepared for the advent of the spring and summer season.



Harry Cooper.

From Jan. 1 until last Saturday, Cooper was leading all the cash collectors in the league with a total of $4,498.22. With eight months of the competitive calendar remaining, it would appear that Harry might well outdo his great 1937 season, when he won more than $14,000.

Not content with heading all the prize winners, Cooper also is in front among the average scorers, with a mean of 70.97 shots per round, gained by playing 48 rounds in 3,455 strokes.

Another Chicagoan is second in money winning. He is John Revolta of Evanston, whose game has returned to him in full this winter, and thereby earned him a total of $4,390. Horton Smith of Oak Park and Dick Metz of the Mill Road farm course are listed among those who have won more than $2,000 since Jan. 1.

The leading money winners are:

Harry Cooper, Chicago, $4,498.33; John Revolta, Evanston, Ill., $4,390; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., $4,063.50; Jim Thomson, Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., $3,390; Byron Nelson, Reading Pa., $3,260; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., $3,079.05; Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., $2,874.84; Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., $2,285; Jimmy Hines, Great Neck, N. Y., $2,280; Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., $2,155, and Dick Metz, Lake Forest, Ill., $2,045.

Averages of leading scorers:

	Rounds.	Strokes.	Average.
Harry Cooper	48	3,455	70.97
MacDonald Smith	4	284	71.00
Ralph Guldahl	20	1,433	71.65
Frank Moore	16	1,153	72.06
Ky Laffoon	48	3,462	72.12
Henry Picard	36	2,597	72.13
John Revolta	48	3,463	72.14
Paul Runyan	48	3,463	72.14
Dick Metz	26	1,880	72.30
Horton Smith	44	3,198	72.68

The next important event for the pros is the Metropolitan open, to be played on Long Island, N. Y., May 12 to 14.

Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, national secretary of the P. G. A., yesterday received a letter from his brother Frank, wherein the latter informed him that he has signed as professional at the Bretton Woods Golf club of Bretton Woods, N. H. Frank was at Bryn Mawr for several years, and was ranked Chicago's leading homebred tournament pro. He will come to Chicago to take part in the $5,000 Chicago open, to be played at Olympia Fields on July 22, 23, and 24. He expressed satisfaction with the terms received in his new position, which will permit him to compete in several of the summer tournaments.

Olympia Fields officials and members of the executive and advisory committees of the $5,000 Chicago open, gathered yesterday at the La Salle hotel for a get-acquainted luncheon, at which plans for the big show to be held at the south side course in July were discussed.

Maynard G. Fessenden, chairman of the executive committee, said that the tournament is assured of a quality field. He recently received a letter from Horton Smith, now in Bermuda, promising the entries of himself, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson, and Lawson Little. Walter Hagen will return to this country shortly and is expected to compete. Gene Sarazen, who won the inaugural Chicago open last year, will return from the British open in order to defend his title.

Golden Glove Coaching Staf Fears Upsets

rath short in any bout although he was beaten in New York.

That was a close fight and it quite easily could have been awarded the C. Y. O. star. Many thought he had won, which is by no means an alibi, for New York had equally opinionated ideas of other matches Chicago won.

One of the most intense intrasquad rivalries is bound to develop in the middleweight class. The champion, Cornelius Young, who could not fight in New York because of an injury; Joe Benna, and Booker Beckwith have been invited to report for training. Benna lost in New York and Beckwith, who joined the intercity squad several days late, was a winner. With confidence because of this victory, Beckwith will be difficult to displace from the international lineup.

He's Versatile Athlete.

Beckwith was the first of the out of town boxers to send in written acceptance of the invitation to join the international squad. Booker lives in Gary, Ind., and he had an advantage over others who couldn't receive their letters as quickly. Beckwith is a student at Roosevelt High school, an all round athlete, having competed in football, basketball and on the track.

Beckwith's enthusiasm is matched by that of Jimmy O'Malley, whose victory in Madison Square Garden over Phil Shea was the outstanding battle of the sixteen intercity bouts. O'Malley not only is Golden Gloves champion, intercity champion and National A. A. U. champion—titles won between March 11 and April 6—but he was awarded the Barney Ross sportsmanship trophy in Chicago and the "best amateur boxer" trophy in Boston.

AURORA STALLS FILLING FAST FOR MONDAY OPENING

Thoroughbreds Work Out for Inaugural.

President Robert S. Eddy Jr. and Racing Secretary Dick Leigh of the Fox Valley Jockey club looked around at the Aurora track yesterday and decided they have enough horses now for Monday's opening.

There are 1,001 stalls at Aurora, and there will be some 950 thoroughbreds on hand by next Monday, when racing starts. Had Aurora accommodations for 200 more, they would be taken. A full house in the stabling department is assured for the twenty-four day meeting, which lasts until May 28, Illinois Derby day. The Aurora record of $140,000 in purse money to be distributed is the main lure.

Thoroughbreds Working Out.

Most of the thoroughbreds shipping here from the Fair Grounds in New Orleans and from Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs have already arrived and have been working at Aurora for several days. Daily there are additions, many of those arriving by van direct from farms where they have rested for the long Chicago campaign. Shipments from Kentucky and Maryland will complete the roster by the end of the week.

But Eddy and Leigh saw enough speedy thoroughbreds on hand yesterday to make up a crack field for the opening feature, the Fox Valley Inaugural handicap at six furlongs.

In A. G. Tarn's barn were the veteran handicap champ Bien Fait, and Faust, Bomber, Pelter, and the "iron horse," Rushaway, all possibilities for the opening day feature. In addition, Wise Fox, winner of the Louisiana Derby, is stabled and preparing for his engagement in the $12,000 Illinois Derby.

Totalizator Nearly Ready.

Mrs. C. E. Dale's 3 year old Allanwood is on hand, with the likely youngster Blaufuss, also working well for the meeting. Butsey Hernandez' Woodlander and Zuni, recent arrivals from the south, may be ready for an early appearance.

Preliminary tests of the new totalizator having proved successful, only finishing touches remain to be added to prepare it for the opening of racing.

Schurz Junior, Senior Track Teams Beat Loyola

Schurz won both ends of a track meet, with Loyola on the Loyola field yesterday. The juniors triumphed, 47 to 29, and the seniors were victorious, 72 to 31.

Today's Derby Long Shot Tip: Bet Co-Sport

in fine condition and tried to run away with Yelton after the session had ended. Then his owner Bert Friend of Lockland, O., made definite announcement that Co-Sport will be a Derby starter.

Co-Sport is another story book horse. Warren Wright of Chicago bred and raised him. He didn't look to be much and couldn't run very fast in his early 2 year old engagements. Wright dropped him into a claiming race. Friend snatched him and got a bargain.

It Would Be a Bargain.

It indeed will be a big bargain if Co-Sport should win the Derby. However, this correspondent doesn't care for the homely colt's chances.

There was concern at Churchill Downs during the training hour about Earl Sande, trainer of the Derby favorite Stagehand, when he phoned Jocky Jack Westrope at 6 o'clock that he was ill and would not be at the track today.

Sande suffered a severe attack of influenza in California soon after Stagehand won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. He spent three weeks in Arizona, then returned to Santa Anita to supervise the transfer of Maxwell Howard's horses from the far west to Churchill Downs.

It's a Hard Life.

Sande's job here has been difficult. Interviewers, photographers, autograph seekers, horsemen, jockies, and trainers swarm around him from the time he reaches the track until he leaves.

They make it hard for him to pay any attention whatever to Stagehand and The Chief, the two Derby colts in his care.

Late today it was learned Earl was suffering from a slight cold which caused him to remain in bed. He said he would direct Stagehand's and The Chief's training tomorrow morning.

WAR ADMIRAL HAS A FAST WORKOUT; SEABISCUIT JOGS

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral today swung through an impressive workout in preparation for his $100,000 match race against Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit at Belmont Park Decoration day.

The 1937 3 year old champion stepped the mile in :13, :26, :39, :52, 1:05, 1:18, 1:31, and 1:43 2-5 and then finished out another eighth, eased up, in 1:56 4-5.

Tommy Davies, veteran Glen Riddle exercise boy, held the Admiral under stout restraint most of the way.

TURNER WINS 2D AS BEES DEFEAT DODGERS, 4 TO 1

Boston Star Yields Only Five Hits.

Boston, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—Jim Turner, who won twenty games last year for the Boston Bees, took another stride toward equalling that mark today when he turned in a five hit performance that stopped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 1. It was Turner's second triumph.

Until the eighth he had a three hit shutout in his grasp. Then Woody English drew a walk and, with two out, Pinch Hitter Gibby Brack belted a triple to right center to score English.

Larry French and Cy Blanton to Pitch Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26.—Larry French will try to take care of his former Pittsburgh teammates for the Cubs in the final of the series tomorrow. Cy Blanton will pitch for the Pirates. In the event rain washes away tomorrow's affair French will work in the opener against the Reds at Chicago on Thursday. Otherwise it will be Bill Lee.

Bill Jurges tuned up his injured right thumb again before today's game, but it didn't feel so good so he decided that he wouldn't make his reëntry until the Cubs return to Chicago.

Dizzy Dean, besides being a pretty fair pitcher even without his old speed, must be an intriguing character. His new mates sit around the hotel lobby in the morning and listen in awed silence while he spins yarns of the doings of his former mates, the St. Louis Gas House Gang.

Pie Traynor, the Pirate manager, pays a compliment to Lon Warneke as a pitcher; that is, when Lonnie was with the Cubs and at his best. Traynor admitted today that when he was playing and the Arkansas slat was good, he preferred to hit against any other fellow in the league.

Cubs Defeat Pirates, 5-3, in 10 Innings

him to third with a single to right center. A double play was built on Rizzo's tap to Lazzeri and while this was going on Baby Waner scored. Herman let Carleton get out of the inning by picking up Vaughan's grounder.

The Cubs had two passes and three hits in the second inning but scored only one run. Lazzeri, the first man up, walked. Hartnett gave him the hit and run sign but Gabby didn't connect so Tony was thrown out going into second. Hartnett then walked. Carleton hit a liner against the right field wall but went only as far as first base, Gabby meanwhile taking third. Brandt turned over his pitching job to Swift and Hack welcomed the latter with a single on which Hartnett scored. Herman dunked a single into short center, filling the bases. Collins slapped into a double play.

Pirates Jolt Carleton.

Carleton's reign of terror and the Cubs' one run lead met up with a jolt in the fifth. Brubaker started this inning by being the grateful recipient of a pass from Carleton. Young bunted and Carleton made a noble dive for the ball which was close to the base line. Carleton wanted to throw out Young but Herman had forgotten to cover the bag.

The two runners moved up on Swift's sacrifice. Baby Waner bounced to Herman who threw to the plate to nail Brubaker although the latter's feet seemed to be on the plate before Hartnett could bend over on a high throw and tag him on the shoulder. After the Pirates had finished kicking about this decision, Big Waner singled to left, Young scoring the tying run. Rizzo then fanned.

Lazzeri came up with two gone in the sixth and the first pitch from Swift looked so tempting that the ex-Yankee slapped it over the left field fence to put the Cubs in front, 3 to 2. The lead was so short lived that the Cubs didn't have time to enjoy a breathing spell. With one out in the home sixth Suhr singled to right and galloped to third on Todd's drooping single in the same direction. Suhr scooted home with the 3 to 3 run on Brubaker's fly, which was too deep for Marty to take a throwing aim at the plate.

Cubs Miss Chance.

Demaree opened the Cubs' eighth with a single to left, but after being bunted to second he died there because of the aerial tendencies of Galan and Lazzeri. The Pirates threatened in the same inning, although not doing any hitting. Carleton punctured Rizzo with a pitched ball and Vaughan forced Rizzo. Suhr struck out. Todd grounded to Lazzeri, whose throw to Herman was a bit leisurely. On top of this Herman juggled the ball, so Vaughan was safe. The inning wound up with Hack picking up Brubaker's tap and touching third.

Hartnett led off the Cub ninth with a single to center. Carleton tried to sacrifice but forced Gabby at second. Hack in turn forced Carleton. Hack tried to get himself into scoring position by stealing but Todd's throw to Vaughan beat him to the coveted destination. Then after the Cubs had punched home the winning runs in the tenth Carleton walked Vaughan to start the Pirates' final. The next three men did nothing worthy of mention.

White Gone, but Record Book Goes On

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Charlie White died a year ago last week—but baseball hasn't forgotten him. Baseball can't do that, because the Little Red Book won't let it.

The 1938 edition of the volume of facts and figures, records and players, went on the stands today, with statistician Al Munro Elias continuing the work White built up through so many years of digging into diamond history. The chief difference in this year's edition is that it's no longer Charlie White's little red book, but The Pocket Cyclopedia of Major League Baseball.

Gehrig's Is Prominent Name.

Otherwise, it has all the records and information that has made Charlie White's book as much a part of a baseball writer's equipment as his typewriter and pass.

As was expected, Lou Gehrig's name is sprinkled more liberally than ever through the pages for playing service and slugging. His 1937 performance gave him eight new major league records, a tie in a ninth, and a deadlock for an American league mark. Among the new highs are the 22 homers he has hit with the bases loaded during his playing career, and, of course, the 1,965 consecutive games for the iron man championship of all time.

Ott Takes Homer Lead.

Several other top flight players of the modern era broke into the record makers' columns. Chuck Klein of the Phillies took the National league slugging mark from Rogers Hornsby with a lifetime mark of .586 to the Rajah's .578; Mel Ott, with 306 homers during his career, took the senior league mark from Hornsby and his 301; Rudy York, with 18 homers in one month, bettered by one the major league mark Babe Ruth set in his terrific last month drive in 1927; Bill Dickey, hitting two homers with the bases loaded in two consecutive games last Aug. 3 and 4, equaled one of Ruth's marks.

Jesse Haines, who finished up 18 years of service to the Cardinals, equaled the modern National league record for playing with one club; Lou Finney of the Athletics equaled a major league mark by drawing two bases on ball in one inning, and Ripper Collins of the Cubs went through an entire game without a fielding chance last year, to tie a major league record for first basemen.

Sox Choose Lee to Face Indians, Harder Today

Thornton Lee will pitch for the White Sox in today's final with the Indians. He will be opposed by Mel Harder.

Rollie Hemsley, the Indians' merry catcher, has been forgiven after his second suspension. He flew in from Cleveland, where he had been sent from Detroit Sunday night. Rollie got to the Indian bench just as the game got under way. He was fined $250 Monday for celebrating Bob Feller's victory over the Tigers Sunday.

Apparently many of the fans couldn't believe summer weather was at hand. Few more than 3,000 paid to get in. This group was augmented by 5,000 kids.

Photographers were the busiest they have been since Diz Dean left town. It seems there is a fellow named Feller on the Cleveland club.

The Sox will leave tonight for Detroit. They will play two games there, return for two with the Browns, then push off Sunday night on their first eastern trip.

DUROCHER SEES DEAN IN MOVIES, THEN PICKS CUBS

Boston, Mass., April 26.—[Special.]—Leo Durocher, keyman of the Brooklyn Dodgers' infield, is ready to wager anything from a necktie to a complete wardrobe that Dizzy Dean will win at least seventeen games for the Chicago Cubs.

"I wanted to make the bet before Dizzy threw a ball for the Cubs, but nobody on our team would take it," declared Leo today. "I saw a newsreel the other night and it showed Dizzy pitching against the Reds, and I noticed he was going through the same sort of windup he uses when his arm is right. He seems to be a cinch to win at least seventeen, and maybe he'll work often enough to get the thirty victories he wants to pile up. But his chances of winning thirty games are not so good. That's a lot of victories.

"Since the Cubs bought Dizzy they've been favorites in my book to take the pennant. The Giants are strong, tough to score on, and they don't beat themselves, but with Dizzy back in shape I like the Cubs."

handled in a play on Trosky, Pytlak sneaked to second. Whitehill singled to right, Trosky scoring and Pytlak stopping at third. Lary drew a pass, filling the bases. Campbell drew three wide ones, then Cain braced and got one over. Campbell flied to Walker and Pytlak scored the tying run after the catch. Hale fouled to Sewell.

The Indians took a flight into the clouds in the fifth and while they were soaring the Sox grabbed a two run lead. Walker bounced a double past Keltner to get the unusual session under way. Kuhel fouled to Pytlak, after which Owen grounded to Keltner. Walker was trapped between third and second, but, after an elaborate run down, Walker dived past Lary and was safe at third. In the meantime Owen had pulled up at second. Berger flied to Averill, Walker scoring and Owen taking third. Sewell dumped a single in short right, Owen scoring. Cain fanned.

Bang Goes the Lead.

The second Sox two run lead did not last an inning. After Berger had thrown out Solters, successive doubles rattled off the bats of Averill Trosky, and Keltner for a net of two runs and a 4-all tie. Pytlak was given an intentional pass. Hayes threw out Whitehill and Lary.

The Sox took the lead for the third time after two were out in the home sixth. Hayes flied to Averill but Kreevich got his second pass. Steinbacher flied to Averill and Walker tripled off the score board in right center, scoring Kreevich. Kuhel struck out.

With two out in the seventh Solters doubled along the right foul line and scored the tying run on Averill's single to right, Averill reaching second on Steinbacher's throw to the infield. Trosky was given an intentional pass, then Cain was replaced by Cox. Walker went against the score board to get Keltner's drive.

Landrum Strikes Out.

Pytlak opened the eighth against Cox with a single to right. Whitehill attempted to sacrifice and fouled to Sewell. Lary singled to right, putting Pytlak on third. Campbell doubled off Kuhel's glove, Pytlak scoring and Lary stopping at third. Hale singled to left, scoring Lary and Campbell. Cox threw out Solters, Hale stopping at second. Russell was sent to second to run for Hale. Averill popped to Hayes.

MAIDS SCORNING JOBS WILL FACE LOSS OF RELIEF

Officials to Get List from Employment Agency.

BY MARCIA WINN.

An investigation of the domestic service situation in Chicago, in which women on relief allegedly turn down offers of employment, will be made today, Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the Chicago Relief administration, said last night in Springfield.

Lyons said he will ask Mrs. Jane Carver and Mrs. Esther Hoegh, managers of the A-Rite Employment agency at 1133 East 63d street, to confer with him. The agency, opened Nov. 1, is closing Saturday because it is unable to find enough women who will take jobs as maids.

Mrs. Carver and Mrs. Hoegh assert they have three times as many jobs as they can fill. Fully half of the women who register for work, they say, refuse jobs, on one pretext or another, when it is offered. Many, they say, frankly admit that living on relief is easier.

Will Get List of Job Scorners.

Lyons said he will request the two women to bring him the list of women job scorners whom they believe to be on relief.

"We feel it should be looked into," Mrs. Carver said. "We have felt that way for a long, long time."

That the list of job scorners is no brief one was indicated yesterday when the women, in the midst of dismantling the office where they sought [but had no opportunity] to offer free training in household service before placing the women on jobs, pulled out a long drawer of filing cards.

"Most of these," Mrs. Carver said, "are women who wouldn't take jobs. We don't say they all are on relief, but some of them are. Many of them were offered five or six or more different jobs, good ones, and turned them all down."

Cites Examples from Records.

Flipping the cards out one by one, she cited various instances:

1. Woman, white, 32, separated from her husband; experienced as a maid; would work for $8 to $10 a week. She was offered the following jobs: [1] as maid in household of two children, two adults, with Thursday and Sunday off, start at $8 a week, with room and board; [2] family with two children, general housework, no laundry, private room, $10; [3] similar one at $12; [4] similar one at $10.

"Then she came in one day," Mrs. Carver related, "and decided on this job with one child and general housework at $8 a week. We called the employer, and said the woman would be right over. But she just sat here.

"Finally she said—'To be frank, if I thought I would lose relief, I wouldn't take it. I am on relief. What if the woman didn't like me and I didn't like her? Where would I be?' And she wouldn't go."

Another Girl on Relief.

2. An inexperienced girl of 19, family on relief, wanted job as nursegirl. Was offered job in home where there was housekeeper and one child. No cooking or housework to be done; $6 a week with room and board.

3. Colored woman, 24, penniless. Was sent out to prospective job and failed to appear.

4. Two sisters, one 17, one 19. Had had experience in housework. On relief. Were offered "any number" of jobs. Refused because they wanted factory work.

5. Married woman, 22, husband out of work, wanted job within walking distance. Was given one at $8 a week, to serve dinner in rooming house; off from noon until 4 p. m., through for day at 7 p. m., one block from her home.

"It was just what she wanted," Mrs. Carver sighed. "The hours were perfect for her. So was the location. And she said—'My friends would laugh at me for working. We can get more than that on relief.'"

News of Radio

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

There are straws in the wind indicating that sponsors who bellow about their wares may soon be outlawed. Listeners too long have endured inconsiderate announcers of raucous and repetitious sales talk. Now radio manufacturers are taking up the cudgel in behalf of listeners.

Several are bringing out hushing devices which enable the listener by a simple push of a button to reduce the lether-lunged auctioneers to the barest whisper, or if you like, to knock them out altogether. Of course, if you keep them barely audible, you can tell when they have finished and return to the entertainment without missing any of it.

One Chicago manufacturer, who is stressing the effectiveness of the push-button in throttling long-winded announcers, has an added feature in new receivers which will be a headache to so-called spot sponsors. Exactly on the hour and quarter hour intervals, while an electrical mechanism makes the switch from one station to another, a cam device causes a 15 second period of silence.

Thus, listeners may soon be hearing no more of those "news flashes" followed by a sponsor's plug so often sandwiched in during station breaks.

Another device now on the market, developed under the title "hushtone" by a Tacoma, Wash., business man, is attachable to radios not equipped with push-button control. In addition to shushing overloud and long blurbs it enables listeners in any part of the room desired to turn the volume down when the telephone or door bell rings, or when wishing to converse during an unwanted stretch of program.

If these devices prove as effective as they promise they will be a real boom to listeners. Advertising matter must become sprightlier and probably pithier. You may expect to see considerably more of the interweaving of entertainment and advertising matter found already in the Jack Benny, Burns and Allen, Bing Crosby and a few other programs.

Truman Bradley, whom the State street merchants recently proclaimed one of the ten best dressed men of Chicago, and who is widely known as the narrator of the Ford Sunday evening hour, as a news commentator on WBBM and as a manufacturer of cosmetics, yesterday blossomed out as a baseball broadcaster, pinchhitting for Pat Flanagan, who is confined to Passavant hospital with a heart ailment. Bradley's previous experience with baseball broadcasting was restricted to reporting the between innings color of a world series. He is assisted for the present by Val Sherman, Flanagan's relief man, and Jim Crusinberry, WBBM sports editor.

Eddie Cantor missed his first broadcast in years Monday evening because of an attack of flu. Rudy Vallee, who was vacationing in his Maine woods retreat, heard about his illness by radio and volunteered his services by telephone. Offer was accepted and with Jane Froman helping out on the singing end the Cantor period was filled as usual.

Kay Kyser's sponsor is beckoning to Al Pearce now that Henry Ford has built him up. . . . Josef Cherniavsky has introduced something he calls a Musical Steeplechase at WLW. There are prizes for those who guess the winners. . . . Ruth Lyon of NBC is ill and Olga Kargau is filling in for her. . . . Lois Zarley has joined cast of Woman in White and Norma Peterson has replaced Nancy Hurdle in a Tale of Today.

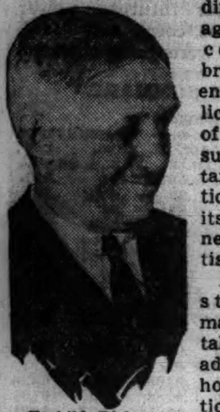
STOCKHOLDERS URGE OIL FIRM TO AIR BURDENS

Ask Newspaper Ads Telling Tax Load.

Stockholders of the Texas corporation, meeting yesterday in New York, directed the management of the company to bring to the attention of the public the problems of its business, such as growing taxes and regulation, by telling its story through newspaper advertisements.



Torkild Rieber.

A resolution instructing the management to take the step was adopted by stockholders on a motion offered by J. Newcomb Blackman, who described himself as "a substantial stockholder."

The motion was passed unanimously after Chairman Torkild Rieber told stockholders that the corporation had paid taxes of $104,000,000 in 1937, which he said was more than twice the total of all salaries.

Other Firms Tell Trends.

Reports on first quarter business were given to stockholders of a number of other companies at annual meetings held yesterday. The appraisals of business conditions and prospects given by officials were unfavorable in most cases.

Stockholders of the Texas company applauded Blackman when he offered his proposal to advertise. Blackman waved a newspaper ad in the air as he told the stockholders that all corporations should regularly use full page newspaper advertisements "so that big business can tell its story."

"Get the facts home to the public," he said, "don't attack anybody. Just give the facts."

Lashes "Fool Questions."

"We spent about a half a million dollars preparing government forms and spent about one-half our time answering all sorts of fool questions and answering all sorts of nitwits," he said. "If this keeps up for another five years we won't be able to spend any time in the oil business."

In answer to a question, Rieber said that he expected the company would have a good year and that orders are running equal and possibly a little larger than a year ago.

The company, he told stockholders, withdrew from Mexico several years ago in anticipation of the crisis which resulted in the recent seizure by the government of all foreign oil properties in Mexico.

The company earned 56 cents a share in the March quarter, compared with $1 a share in the first three months of 1937.

Thomas J. Hargrave, vice president of the Eastman Kodak company, told stockholders at the annual meeting in Jersey City, N. J., that sales volume in the photographic business has held up this year. The interest in amateur photography has helped maintain sales, he said.

Cities Service Change Voted.

Cities Service company stockholders, at a meeting in Dover, Del., voted overwhelmingly to reduce the stated value of the company's stock and exchange the common stock on a basis of one for ten. The stated value of the common stock will be reduced from $187,278,350 to $37,455,670. Par value of the common stock was fixed at $10 per share instead of no par value.

The object of the change, it was explained by W. Alton Jones, first vice president of Cities Service, was to create capital surplus to be used to write down on the books of the company the carrying value of certain assets.

Directors were elected for a three year term. They are Henry L. Doherty, W. Alton Jones, Warren Foster, George H. Shaw, and George MacDonald.

Macy Sales Off 7.7 Per Cent.

Percy S. Strauss, president, told stockholders of R. H. Macy & Co. meeting in New York, that sales for the first quarter were about 7.7 per cent below the 1937 period.

Business of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company will probably show no improvement in the second quarter of 1938, William G. Given Jr., president, reported to stockholders at their meeting in New York.

The business of Ingersoll-Rand company, manufacturers of industrial machinery, was off 38½ per cent in the first three months of 1938 from the corresponding period last year, George Doubleday, chairman, told stockholders in New York.

At the meeting of May Department Stores company in New York, Nathan L. Dauby, vice president, said sales from Feb. 1 to May 1 were about 7½ per cent below last year.

L. DU PONT DEFENDS SLOAN'S SALARY AT G. M. ANNUAL MEETING

Wilmington, Del., April 26.—(AP)—Lammot du Pont, a director, said at the annual stockholders meeting of General Motors corporation today that "corporations must pay high salaries to keep their successful executives."

He made the statement in answer to a criticism of the salary paid Alfred P. Sloan Jr. as chairman of the board. The critic was John J. Gilbert, a minority stockholder.

Du Pont said Sloan was of "great value" to the company, "not only from an executive and business standpoint, but because of the high regard in which the workers hold him." He said total compensations paid its officials by General Motors, a Delaware corporation, "are less in proportion to its profits and sales than any other large corporation, and its business is more in proportion to its capital investment."

He remarked that if each General Motors worker would increase his efficiency 1 per cent the corporation would save $3,000,000. "That makes Mr. Sloan's compensation look rather cheap," he said.

Directors were reëlected. They will meet in New York Monday to organize.

$41,995 PAYMENT TO DEPOSITORS OF 3 BANKS READY

Repayment of $41,995 to 3,700 depositors of three closed Cook county banks was authorized yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. Each of the three payments represents a 5 per cent return to depositors. Funds were obtained in ordinary liquidation of assets.

The largest of the distributions is that of $17,464 to 1,400 Arlington Heights State bank depositors, who then will have received 25 per cent of the money due them. In addition, the receiverships has paid $115,661 on debts of the bank before closing and $2,751 to preferred creditors. The People's State bank of Arlington Heights is repaying $10,173 to lift returns to 1,100 depositors to 30 per cent. Payments on bills payable and preferred claims have totaled $52,927.

The First State Bank of Barrington is returning $14,358 to 1,200 depositors to put total return of 60 per cent to date. In addition, the receivership has paid $2,775 in preferred claims and $127,981 on bills payable.

MANAGEMENT UPHELD BY REO STOCKHOLDERS

Lansing, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—Efforts to overturn the present management of the Reo Motor Car company collapsed completely at the annual stockholders meeting today as a rebel director, William Loeb Jr., of New York City, was displaced.

Loeb had appealed for proxies, promising a drastic managerial change if he gained control. At today's meeting, neither Loeb nor his representatives appeared, with a result that the present directors, with one exception, were renamed. Earl Goodnow, general manager of the Atlas Drop Forge company here, was chosen to suceed Loeb.

There are two vacancies on the board, created by the resignations of Frank A. Vanderlip Jr. and Charles G. Sinclair Jr. The board will name their successors at a later meeting, it was indicated.

Eastman Says Wage Boost Was Ill Timed

Declaring that the nation is entitled to an investigation into railroad wages, Joseph B. Eastman, a member of the interstate commerce commission, yesterday indicated that he does not believe the wage increases given railroad labor last year were justified. He spoke before the Traffic Club of Chicago.

"I want to give a word of caution to the railroad employés which they have not sought and doubtless will not welcome," he said. "Even if an increase in wages can be shown to be just and reasonable on abstract grounds, it does not necessarily follow that it will prove to be of practical advantage. That depends on the time and circumstances, including the immediate ability of the employer to pay.

Wages Not Government Fixed.

"It is quite possible, I fear, that the time and circumstances were not propitious for the increase in railroad wages which was made last year, and that the employés as a whole have not benefited from the increase."

Eastman said he wanted to correct an impression that railroad wages are fixed by governmental authority.

"When the railroad managements agreed to a general increase in railroad wages last year they agreed of their own volition," he declared. "The responsiblity was theirs, and they should accept it without recourse to alibis."

Not Confined to Railroads.

Eastman said that financial difficulties are not confined to railroads among the various transportation agencies. When a railroad goes into bankruptcy, he said, it gets a lot of attention, but there are many failures of motor truck companies which are given no publicity.

In the working out of the railroad problem, he said, he favored a great degree of coöperation among the railroads rather than actual consolidation of the various companies.

Eastman said he hopes to see the authority of the I. C. C. extended over the entire field of transportation and to see it properly organized and equipped for that purpose.

MEXICO REFUSES AGAIN TO RETURN BRITISH OIL LANDS

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—(AP)—The Mexican government told Great Britain for the second time today that the expropriated properties of Aguila [Royal Dutch Shell] Oil company would not be returned to their former owners.

The refusal was in a formal note in reply to a British note presented last week insisting that the properties be returned.

The lengthy communication, delivered at the British legation early in the afternoon, "maintained Mexico's previous stand," it was stated at the legation. Mexico previously had told Great Britain the government had the right to expropriate the properties and that they would not be returned.

Bill to Extend Loans to Bank Officers Signed

Washington, April 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a bill today extending for one year from next June 16, the period in which loans made prior to June 16, 1933, to executive officers of federal reserve member banks may be renewed or extended.

MERCANTILE EXCHANGE HEAD CENSURES OWN COMPANY FOR ERROR

Michael E. Fox, president of the Chicago Mercantile exchange, disclosed yesterday that he had joined with other directors of the exchange in censuring his own company, Peter Fox Sons, for an error made by an employé in grading a shipment of butter made by the company.

The exchange directors last week stopped deliveries from the Fox company's warehouse for a ten day period as a result of the mix-up in grading labels.

The action grew out of the sale by the Fox company last February of 81 tubs of butter to a trade customer, Fox said. The butter was graded 92 score [top grade] by the exchange. A government check of the grading showed that one of the seven churnings included in the shipment graded only 90 score, a lower quality.

Through an error, Fox said, an employé of his company reported to the government agents that 76 tubs came from the 92 score churning whereas the correct figure was 67 tubs. Subsequently discovering his error, the Fox employé changed the grading marks on nine tubs to conceal his mistake. The changes in the markings were reported by the purchaser and an investigation followed.

UTILITIES POWER RECEIVER FEES HEARINGS END

The Securities and Exchange commission, represented by George C. Mathews, a member, and Arthur E. Boroughf, an examiner, yesterday took under advisement applications for fees and compensation in connection with the reorganization of the Utilities Power and Light corporation. The hearing was held in the United States court house.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Tom A. Reynolds for the SEC, Daniel C. Green, former trustee for the Middle West corporation and now head of the Central Service corporation, testified that the attorney for the trustee of Middle West received less than half of the $6,000 a month asked by Melvin M. Hawley, attorney for Charles True Adams, trustee of Utilities Power and Light.

Attorney Reynolds brought out from Green a statement that Attorney William J. Froelich, then trustee for the Middle West corporation, was receiving compensation authorized by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson at the rate of $1,500 a month and a final compensation of $17,000 during a seven month period, making total compensation at the rate of $2,500 a month.

The average flow for the first four hours was sixty barrels an hour, he said. The well is located on the Bird Haven sanctuary, one mile northeast of Olney.

PROFITS OF 162 FIRMS FALL 41% IN 1ST QUARTER

Stewart-Warner Loss $215,166.

The first 162 companies reporting for the quarter ended March 31 had an average drop of 41 per cent in profits, compared with the 1937 first quarter, according to an Associated Press compilation made yesterday. The firms had combined net income of $130,400,000 this year against $219,000,000 a year ago.

Frank Phillips reports turn in oil prices.

Yesterday's reports again showed a predominance of lower first quarter earnings, and a number of net losses. Among those showing declines were Phillips Petroleum company, Southern California Edison company, Ltd., and New England Telephone and Telegraph company. Losses were shown by the Stewart-Warner corporation, Poor & Co., Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, and Bridgeport Brass company.

Annual reports for 1937 issues yesterday showed higher earnings for a number of large companies, including Socony-Vacuum Oil company, Paramount Pictures, Inc., and the Tennessee Electric Power company.

Group Results Compared.

The Associated Press compilation showed that heavy goods industries were affected most by the slump in profits. Combined results of firms included in each of three lines—steel, railroad equipment, and automobile accessories—showed losses for the quarter, compared with substantial profits in 1937. Oil, food, finance companies, and utilities showed the smallest declines from a year ago.

The following table gives the record by groups of the 162 companies for the first quarter, showing combined net income and per cent of decline from last year:

Stewart-Warner Has Loss.

Stewart-Warner's report yesterday showed that gross profit from operations in the first quarter slipped to $923,611 for the first quarter of 1938, compared with $2,055,577 in the corresponding 1937 period. Net loss after expenses and taxes was $215,166, against a net profit last year of $841,257.

Indications of current conditions in the petroleum industries were found in statements at the Phillips Petro-

Four Point Emergency Rail Aid Program Agreed Upon

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—A four point emergency legislative program designed to aid the railroad industry was agreed upon this afternoon by congressional leaders and representatives of the administration and the country's carriers.

The program calls for:

1. Loans to railroads to purchase equipment, using the equipment as security.

2. Work loans to reëmploy railroad men who have been furloughed since last October. These loans may be used up to 25 per cent for the purchase of materials.

Would Lift Loan Rule.

3. Repeal, for one year, of the requirement that the interstate commerce commission, in passing on loans to be made from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, certify that the railroad is not in need of judicial reorganization. It was understood, however, that the interstate commerce commission would still have approval power over loans but that they would be made on the basis of the security the roads could offer.

4. An arrangement by which the government would bear the cost of building new bridges across streams to accommodate water transportation.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, said he will draft a bill embracing the program and introduce it in the senate as soon as it is completed.

Action Slated Next Week.

Representative Clarence F. Lea [D., Cal.], chairman of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee said he will call the committee into session next week to begin work on the program.

The conference was called by Jesse Jones, director of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, after a discussion with President Roosevelt on the rail problem.

After the program was evolved, Jones said the group felt that it is the minimum for accomplishment at this session of congress. All present, he said, felt that the plan can be effected before congress adjourns.

George Harrison, railroad labor executive, emerged from the conference asserting that labor will not accept a wage cut.

"We're definitly on record that we won't take any cut," he said. "You can put that down emphatically."

Chicago Meeting Called.

Earlier in the day, John Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, called a meeting of the association in Chicago for Thursday and Friday to determine what steps shall be taken toward negotiations for a wage cut. Representatives of all class one roads will attend. The association's directors will meet Thursday and the general meeting of members will be held next day.

Pelley would not state what size cut the rail executives will seek. It is expected, however, that the roads will attempt to effect a 15 per cent cut, which would save the railroads 260 million dollars a year.

Throughout all administration efforts to help the financially bogged railroads, management representatives have insisted that what the roads need is more money. They assert that more money can be obtained only through higher rates or saving on wages. The interstate commerce commission recently denied the railroads' plea for a 15 per cent boost in freight rates, giving them about one-third the amount asked.

Long Haul Bill Advances Step.

Meanwhile, railway leaders were encouraged by the action of the senate interstate commerce committee in reporting favorably, by a vote of 10 to 3, the Pettengill long and short haul bill.

Chairman Wheeler, who voted against reporting the bill, conceded that it will pass the senate overwhelmingly, as it passed the house last year.

The bill will permit railroads to make special rates for through hauls. Existing law does not permit them to charge less for long hauls than the aggregate charge for intermediate short hauls.

TIN PLATE SCRAP EXPORTS LIMITED FOR REST OF YEAR

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—A virtual embargo on the export of tin plate scrap for the rest of this year was imposed by the state department today. Export allotments, it said, already have been made for 10,000 long tons this year, the limit originally contemplated, and further export licenses will not be issued unless special reasons can be demonstrated by an applicant.

The control of tin plate shipments abroad was imposed by an act of congress because of the importance of conserving a supply of metal necessary for domestic industries and for arms manufacture. In the last two years all of the exports have gone to Japan for its munitions industry.

There was no indication that the virtual embargo was a move directed at Japan. It was regarded rather as a step in conserving the domestic supply on lines long contemplated.

BRITISH POUND DIPS ON BUDGET MESSAGE URGING TAX INCREASE

The value of British currency declined on the international exchange market yesterday following delivery to the house of commons of the government's budget message proposing an increase in income taxes.

The pound sterling closed in New York at $4.98⅜, or ⅞ cent below the preceding day. The budget message was not given until after the close of trading on the London market, where prices had moved up moderately in light trading.

Foreign currencies other than the pound were little changed in relation to the dollar. The franc was steady at 3.1125 cents after its sharp advance on the preceding day. The Holland guilder closed slightly lower and the Belgian belga was unchanged.

U. S. STEEL LOSS IS $1,292,151 IN FIRST QUARTER

Inland's Net Income Is $923,076.

Reflecting the business decline, the United States Steel corporation—world's largest steel company—yesterday reported that operations in the first quarter of 1938 resulted in a deficit of $1,292,151 before payment of dividends on the preferred stock. However, the directors, meeting in New York, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock. They took no action with respect to the common stock.

Henry G. Dalton sees no near gain in steel industry.

Other steel companies reporting yesterday also had sharp declines in earnings.

In contrast with the loss in the first 1938 quarter, United States Steel corporation had a net income of $28,561,533 in the first three months of last year. This was equal after preferred dividends to $2.56 a share on the common stock. Net income for the last quarter of 1937 was $4,591,505.

Output Far Below Year Ago.

Operations of the corporation in the first 1938 quarter were carried on at 32.3 per cent of capacity. In the first quarter of 1937 the rate was 82.6 per cent and in the last quarter of 1937, when the effects of the business decline were beginning to be felt, the rate was 41.3 per cent.

Despite the low operating rate the corporation has on its pay rolls approximately 205,000 employés, many of them, however, were working on part time, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., the new chairman of the board, stated.

Steel shipments in the first quarter totaled 1,565,244 tons, against 3,698,041 tons in the like 1937 quarter—a decline of 57.6 per cent.

Shipments in April to date have averaged below those for the corresponding month of 1937.

$26,000,000 Capital Outlay.

Capital outlay for modernization of the corporation's plants and for improvements and for the payment of maturing bonds and other obligations totaled $26,000,000. On April 1 the unexpended balance for plant additions was $56,000,000.

"Due chiefly to the low rate of production which extended throughout the first quarter," Stettinius said to the directors, "and consequently

Letters of a business man to his son

XLIV

DEAR SON:

What we have been threatening to do for several years we have finally done—moved the accounting offices over to the east side of the building to "get a little more light on our figures." This puts me in the corner office with a bird's-eye view of Traffic Officer Deneen. I can almost hear him grind his teeth when careless motorists disregard his signals!

While I was gazing out of the window today—woolgathering, they call it—I imagined a kind of tableau down below. With money trucks and messengers and mailmen going in and out of the bank on the corner, it seemed to me that suddenly the bank took on Officer Deneen's character—a kind of traffic regulator in the rolling stream of dimes and dollars which lubricates the wheels of business and industry.

With Officer Deneen's intense aim and purpose in life—to keep things moving—the banks of the nation create the channels through which our money traffic flows and keep them free of congestion. If you could stop every mail train and plane at the same hour on the same day and take a look at the bank checks going from one place to another, there would appear to be a thousand and one streams of money traffic crossing and recrossing at thousands of junction points—and at every junction point a bank, an Officer Deneen, keeping things moving.

You may not have as much occasion to "woolgather" as I have—being so busy scrambling up the ladder (I hope), but whenever you happen to ponder the smoothly operating financial traffic system of our country, you'll have an increasing respect for the precision and competence with which the banks do their respective jobs.

Affectionately, DAD.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—The stock market slipped still further today, with closing prices fractions to 2 points lower. Practically all classes of stocks were weak, although resistance was shown by a few industrials, rails, and utilities during part of the session.

Except for a period in the third hour when selling pressure was fairly heavy, trading was dull. The day's volume was 444,730 shares, compared with 395,880 shares yesterday.

Chemical, motor, metal, farm implement and steel shares were the hardest hit. Allied, du Pont, Air Reduction, and Union Carbide lost 1 to 2 points, while Dow Chemical, an inactive stock, broke 5 points. Coppers lost up to 1 point, with Anaconda in heaviest supply. International Harvester, 4 points lower at one time, rallied to lose 2 points net. Other farm implement shares lost 1 to 2 points.

Motors continued depressed by the union labor troubles. Chrysler slumped nearly 2 points. General Motors lost 1⅛ points.

Uncertainty as to what would be disclosed at the United States Steel dividend meeting, held after the close of the market, was said to be responsible for the 1 point drop in the common shares of the company and a 1½ point loss in the preferred. [Story on the meeting appears elsewhere in this section.] Other steels lost up to 1½ points.

The aviation issues were relatively quiet after nearly a week of active trading. They gave ground with the remainder of the list.

Carrier shares showed a firm tendency for a while but later declined with the industrial sector.

New York Bonds.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—The bond market closed lower today as business failed to give new clues to the forward trade outlook. Gains of fractions to 1 or more among a few industrial issues had no bolstering power for the general list. Rail bonds as a group slipped lower, as did utility and foreign issues.

Conspicuous industrial gainers included Penn Dixie Cement 6s, rising 1¼ at 81, reflecting in part the spring building upturn. While building has not shown the upward velocity seasonally expected, cement makers are anticipating a substantial volume of new business if the government's public works are expanded.

United States treasury issues, riding the past few days to the highest levels since early 1937, moved raggedly today, ending 7-32 of a point lower to 2-32 higher on reduced volume.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stock prices continued downward yesterday with trading interest again light. A total of 16,000 shares was traded against 13,000 on Monday.

Volume leaders were unchanged to lower. Cities Service, the most active issue, closed unchanged at 1⅛. Middle West dropped ⅜ to 5⅜, Commonwealth Edison dipped to 23⅝, off ⅝, and Central and South West closed at 1½, off ⅛.

The Tribune average of twenty stocks dropped to 8.50, compared with 8.67 on the preceding day. Of the seventy-four issues traded yesterday, twelve advanced, thirty-seven declined, and twenty-five were unchanged.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday, and quotations were unchanged from Monday in practically all issues. Exceptions were Continental Illinois National, which eased 50 cents a share, and City National, which advanced $2. Chicago Title and Trust company shares were up $3 at $123 a share bid, $126 asked.

MAY WHEAT DIVES TO LOWEST SINCE '34, BUT RALLIES

Liquidation by holders of May wheat contracts yesterday caused an early decline of 1½ cents in that delivery to 80¾ cents a bushel, a new low level since 1934, but a rally left the close ½ cent lower on the day. New crop months eased early on reports of beneficial rains in the American and Canadian northwest, but these deliveries also rallied late in the session, short covering being a factor. The deferred futures were ¼ cent a bushel higher at the close. Buying of the latter was induced by reports of black and orange rust in the Dallas, Tex., area.

Other grains were affected by the action of wheat, but failed to rally sharply. May corn sold at the lowest level since the middle of March and closed ⅜ cent a bushel lower. Oats, rye, and soy beans were fractionally lower. Scattered liquidation was in evidence in May oats.

Crop Expert H. C. Donovan in a report yesterday to Thomson & McKinnon from Denison, Tex., said he had found rust spoors in all fields of winter wheat examined from Waco north, and while no damage was showing as yet or will for at least ten days, there were possibilities of it developing with favorable weather.

The Associated Press index of 35 weighted wholesale staple prices, with 1926 equal to 100, declined yesterday to the lowest point since July 10, 1934. It stood at 67.11, compared with 67.29 Monday.

Commodity futures moved unevenly, with more declines than advances. The Dow-Jones index of commodity futures closed at 49.57, off 0.19.

Tin futures slumped 0.55 cent a pound, under influence of news from Singapore that the Malayan government had rejected proposals for a "buffer pool" to stabilize the international price of tin. Traders in New York regarded the action as a setback to recent proposals of the international tin committee in London to reduce fluctuations in tin prices.

The committee had proposed the formation of a pool to buy tin when the price falls below $1,000 a ton and sell when it rises above $1,150 a ton. The Malayan government is one of the principal producers of tin.

Moving up slightly yesterday were copper and sugar futures. Lower were rubber, hides, cocoa, cottonseed. Other contracts were little changed.

CROPS MAY AID UNION PACIFIC, GREAT NORTHERN

Rail Heads See Promise of Gain in Trafic.

The present condition of farm crops holds some promise of benefit to the Union Pacific and the Great Northern railroads, executives of the two carriers said yesterday in their annual reports to their stockholders. In the meantime most of the railroads reporting yesterday on their net operating incomes—incomes before payment of bond interest and other fixed charges—for March added to the list of statements of reduced earnings as compared with last year.

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, said crop conditions in the territory served by his road "look pretty good," indicating that favorable crops would help railroad trafic later in the year. For the present, he said, business continues at a slow pace.

As previously reported, the Union Pacific's surplus available for the common stock for 1937 was $13,673,792, equal to $6.15 a share, against $18,226,810, equal to $8.20 a share, in the preceding year.

Freight Is Speeded Up.

Harriman commented that the volume of freight trafic handled in 1937 was approximately the same as was handled in 1927, but that the freight service was approximately 38 per cent faster than it was in 1927.

The company's oil properties in the vicinity of Los Angeles and Long Beach, Cal., harbors, he said, at the end of 1937 were producing in excess of 20,000 barrels of oil a day under rigid curtailment.

W. P. Kenney, president of the Great Northern, said "crops are quite promising," and added: "There has been a large amount of snow in sections where moisture is badly needed."

As previously reported, net income of the road for 1937 was $10,089,920, against $9,903,986 in 1936. Iron ore trafic last year was the greatest in the history of the company, 20,582,151 long tons being hauled. Kenney said present conditions indicate that not one-half the ore handled in 1937 will be carried this year.

The day's reports on net operating incomes indicated that few railroads will have anything left over, after fixed charges, for the common stockholders.

"S. A. E." and Automobile Engine Oil.

"S. A. E." in the designation of an automobile engine oil stands for the Society of Automotive Engineers. Prior to 1912 there was no uniformity on the part of the petroleum companies in their measurements of the viscosity [body] of the various grades of engine oils. Each company had its own standard for what was thin, medium, or heavy oil. Thus, the motorist could not be sure that he was getting an oil of the proper viscosity for his engine.

In 1912, therefore, the society set up a table of lubricant viscosity numbers to guide the purchaser of oil in making his purchase to suit his needs. The lower the S. A. E. number in the table, the lighter bodied is the oil; the higher the number, the heavier bodied is the oil. The S. A. E. numbers start at 10 and move upward 10 at a time. Thus, S. A. E. 20 is the designation for the next to the lightest grade of oil.

The viscosity of oil is determined by the amount of time required for a given amount of oil to pass through an aperture at a given temperature. The Society of Automotive Engineers holds meetings from time to time at which it may make changes in its designations to meet changing conditions.

leum annual meeting and in the 1937 annual report of Socony-Vacuum.

Fred A. Poor, president of Poor & Co., maker of railway supplies, told stockholders at the annual meeting that dollar volume of sales so far this year has been only about three-eighths of that for the corresponding 1937 period. He estimated the company had a net loss of $25,000 for the first quarter, compared with profit of $570,000 in the quarter ended March 31, 1937.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the Phillips company, said that an upward trend in prices for petroleum products and a seasonal increase in sales volume in March brought earnings for that month to more than the combined earnings for January and February, and indicated a good improvement for the second quarter. He said that declines in refinery prices of gasoline and other manufactured products which started late in 1937 had continued until March of this year, and brought prices below the cost of production.

Adams Elected President.

The company's net profit dipped for the first quarter to $2,314,642, or 52 cents a share, against $1.26 a share in the 1937 quarter.

At the meeting K. S. Adams, formerly executive vice president, was made president to succeed Frank Phillips, who had been both chairman and president. Phillips continues as chairman.

Although net earnings of Socony-Vacuum in 1937 rose to $1.82 a share against $1.38 in 1936, John A. Brown, president, pointed out to stockholders in the report that the outlook for 1938 profits is not so promising.

"It seems probable," he said, "that 1938 will see a slight increase in gasoline consumption, a decline in consumption of other products and lower profits.

J. C. Gould Jr., president of the Tennessee Electric Power company, a Commonwealth and Southern subsidiary in the TVA area, told stockholders that proper payments by the government for private utility properties would restore the confidence of investors in public utilities securities and "do more than any other one thing to enable the utility companies to sell their securities to finance their expansion programs, and thus materially assist in lifting the country out of the current recession."

LAMONT DEFENDS AID TO WHITNEY AS 'MOVE MY HEART DICTATED'

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Thomas W. Lamont, partner in J. P. Morgan and company, defended himself before the securities and exchange commission here today for saying nothing about supplying $1,082,000, for the restitution of securities which he knew Richard Whitney used "unlawfully" last November. Whitney now is in prison for these peculations.

Explaining why he permitted Whitney to continue in the brokerage business until the New York Stock exchange caught the broker in further unlawful use of customers' securities, Lamont said:

"I moved as my heart dictated."

In two hours of questioning he returned in various forms to the same explanation: That "my partner, George Whitney, wanted to save his brother."

"Here, he said, "was a question of a man in whom we had the utmost confidence. His brother still had the utmost confidence in him, believing this was an isolated thing. It was a terrible mistake that Dick had made. His brother was going to rectify it—to make good his default—to save him.

"It never occurred to me that I should butt in, that I should run to the stock exchange authorities when they had all the machinery in the world. I thought it would be taken care of in their own way."

EMPLOYMENT DIPS AGAIN IN CHICAGO RESERVE DISTRICT

Employment in Illinois and the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district declined in March compared with February, according to figures reported yesterday by the state department of labor and the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

The reserve bank said that employment of reporting companies on March 15 was 1.3 per cent below the Feb. 15 level, but wage payments showed an increase of 1-10th of 1 per cent.

In each of the ten preceding years, the bank reported, employment had registered an increase for the period, the average gain amounting to about ½ of 1 per cent. The increase in wage payments, it added, was less than seasonal.

The Illinois labor department report showed that 6,617 employers in the state reported a decline of 1.9 per cent in the number of workers from Feb. 15 to March 15. Pay rolls of the reporting companies fell 1.6 per cent for the period.

The March employment level, the department said, was 13 per cent below the comparable period of 1937 and wage payments were down 16.6 per cent from a year ago.

Business Bits

Richard J. Thain has been placed in charge of the new department store division of Butler Brothers, Roy M. Henry, general manager, announced yesterday. Thain came to Butler Brothers two years ago after having been advertising manager of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., wholesale, for a number of years. The new division is to specialize in serving merchandise needs of retail stores in important middle west centers.

Clinton H. Haskell, president of Beatrice Creamery company, and James H. Edmondson, vice president of Chicago Cold Storage Warehouse company, were elected members of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Clinton E. Stryker, chief engineer of Fansteel Metallurgical corporation before joining McKinsey, Wellington & Co. in 1936, has become a partner of the latter firm, a management engineering concern.

H. Lee Rauch has been elected president of the Consolidated Paper company to succeed his father, who died recently. He also continues as general manager.

Charles F. Goedke, president of Ganschow Gear company, Chicago, has been elected vice president of the American Gear Manufacturers' association. Howard Dingle, president of Cleveland Worm and Gear company, was moved up from vice president to president of the association.

The Chicago section of the American Ceramic society will hold an open meeting Saturday afternoon in the east exhibit hall of the La Salle hotel for persons interested in new residential construction. Laurence Teesdal, Madison, Wis., will speak on condensation in modern buildings. Methods in double glazing and in fibre glass insulation will be presented by representatives of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company and the Owens-Illinois Glass company.

HELM OF FAIR IS TAKEN OVER BY MAGINNIS

Stockholders Are Told of Sales Decline.

D. F. Kelly, for 13 years president of the Fair store, yesterday presided at the annual stockholders' meeting for the last time. At the directors' meeting which followed, C. S. Maginnis, vice president, who has had 35 years of service with the Fair, was elected to the presidency, which Kelly had resigned. Kelly will continue as an active director without compensation.

S. S. Kresge, chairman of the board and holder of 67 per cent of the common stock of the Fair, told stockholders at the meeting yesterday that the Fair can still make a profit, but that all forms of business need confidence from Washington, and that measures should be taken to encourage the public to buy, in place of pump priming practices. He lauded Kelly for his record at the Fair.

Sales Are Lower.

Kelly said that estimated sales for the first two months of the fiscal year, which began Feb. 1, were off about 12 per cent. He added that the earnings outlook is clouded and that he would not predict whether a profit would be shown in the first quarter, ended April 30, although Easter week sales showed a gain compared with last year.

The company's Oak Park store, Kelly reported, has been doing well in comparison with the rest of the system. He also said that the Milwaukee Avenue store was unprofitable and that plans for disposing of it were being considered.

Executives' Pay Reduced.

The company has no bank loans outstanding and is in a sound financial position, Kelly told stockholders. He said that salaries paid to executives [officers and merchandise managers] had been reduced this year to $112,700, compared with $192,000 last year and $263,000 in 1923. Kresge, he disclosed, this year took a voluntary cut from $30,000 to $15,000 as chairman. Kelly also explained that he had received no salary since the beginning of the fiscal year.

As had been expected, W. E. Killian, former merchandise manager, was elected vice president to replace Maginnis. A. C. Gay was elected secretary, succeeding C. Y. Freeman, who resigned Feb. 1. Stockholders elected to the board of directors William Baar, merchandise manager. Phillip R. Clarke was not reëlected to the board.

He had requested that he not be renominated because his duties on the board of United States Steel corporation would keep him from giving enough time to the Fair.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber.

Investors' Guide: What is your opinion of Goodyear Tire and Rubber company stock at this time?—R. V.

Answer: The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, a $194,933,000 concern, is the world's largest producer of rubber goods. It uses about one-seventh of the total rubber production of the world and has manufactured approximately 265 million tire casings since it began business in 1902.

The tire and tube division of the company accounts for about 75 per cent of dollar sales, tires for replacement purposes constituting the largest proportion and being the most profitable. Other products include rubber flooring and mats, hose, belting, packing, printer's supplies, rubber bands, aviation supplies, various molded articles, and Wingfoot rubber heels and shoe soles. A subsidiary manufactures airships and balloons.

Goodyear and its subsidiaries have thirteen plants for production of tires and other rubber goods. Total productive capacity of the plants is more than 100,000 tires and tubes daily. Seven textile mills are operated in the United States and Canada, rubber plantations are maintained in Sumatra, the Philippines, Panama, and Costa Rica, and a long staple cotton plantation is operated in Arizona.

Despite a sharp increase in sales during 1937 profits were reduced by higher operating costs and by inventory adjustments necessitated by the sharp fall in rubber prices toward the end of the year. The company charged off $10,342,742 in 1937 as inventory adjustment. The record of earnings in recent years:

*Deficit.

The company had 650,468 shares of no par $5 cumulative convertible preferred stock and 2,059,060 shares of no par common stock outstanding at the end of 1937. Dividends totaling $2.50 a share were paid in 1937 and a 25 cent payment was made March 15.

The company is strong financially. The values of its necessarily large inventories are subject to wide fluctuation because of changes in rubber prices. Sales and earnings at present are adversely affected by the depression. Pending an improvement in business conditions and definite indication that the trend of rubber prices is upward, shares of the company must be regarded as speculative.

16 LEADERS OFFER ROOSEVELT AID IN RECOVERY QUEST

Teamwork to Build Confidence Urged.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Sixteen leaders of business and industry, including Owen D. Young, General Electric chairman, and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, today offered to coöperate with President Roosevelt in his drive for recovery.

The announcement of the offer was made by John W. Hanes, Securities and Exchange commissioner, who broached the plan to the leaders. Hanes made public a joint statement signed by the sixteen men as individuals, not as a committee.

At his press conference the President said the statement had just been placed on his desk and that he had had time only to glance at it. He pronounced it excellent.

Cite President's Address.

The joint statement said in part:

"In his address to the nation April 14, the President stated the common need and aspiration of us all is the resumption of normal industry. To bring about this result calls for teamwork on the part of government and industry. We gather from the President's words that he recognizes that we live under an industrial system in which there must be full opportunity for legitimate profits.

"It is the responsibility of government to protect and to encourage the proper function of business. . . . Wide but honest differences of opinion exist as to ways and means.

"The President has clearly indicated that he believes that America's continued properity requires closer coöperation between business and the government.

Give Pledge of Their Aid.

"We pledge ourselves to aid to the full extent of our ability in such efforts of consultation and coöperation."

Among those who approved the statement, besides Young and Aldrich, were Robert H. Cabell, Walter J. Cummings, Frederick H. Ecker, William C. Potter, and Sydney G. McAllister.

The corporation pledge was handed to the President as he was preparing to meet at lunch tomorrow with Henry Ford, who has tangled with the administration on several occasions. The President said that Marriner S. Eccles, head of the federal reserve board, will be at the luncheon with Ford and the latter's son, Edsel. Eccles was invited, the President said, because the discussion will center on economics.

U. S. STEEL LOSS IS $1,292,151 IN FIRST QUARTER

Inland's Net Income for Period $923,076.

the higher unit operating costs which result as the business volume recedes, the earnings for the first three months of the year correspondingly declined."

The Inland Steel company, Chicago, one of the largest independent steel companies in the country, reported first quarter net income of $923,076 before provision for the federal tax on undistributed profits, equal to 59 cents a share. In the first quarter of 1937 the company had a net income of $5,008,774, equal to $3.34 a share, and in the first quarter of 1936 the net income was $1,934,632, equal to $1.34 a share on the common stock.

The directors declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock, payable June 1 to stock of record on May 13, a reduction of 50 cents a share from the $1 payment made on March 1.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Addressing the annual stockholders meeting of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company at Youngstown, O., yesterday, Henry G. Dalton, chairman of the board, said he can see no immediate improvement in the steel industry and in general business. Shipments and orders for April, he said, are approximately in keeping with those for March, with a downward tendency. Operations are at about 30½ per cent of capacity, he said.

"We were hoping for more relief from taxes than now seems likely," Dalton continued, "and with a proposed increase of expenditures on the part of the government, increasing further the deficiencies in the budget, continued harassing of business by further new laws and regulations, there will be little to expect from that source to increase confidence, which is first absolutely necessary to increase consumption on the part of private enterprise."

Youngstown Sheet & Tube disclosed yesterday that it had a loss of $139,529 for the first 1938 quarter after all charges, estimated taxes and depreciation figure of $1,687,877. The company had net profit of $4,886,020 for the corresponding 1937 quarter.

Improvements Postponed.

Dalton said the large improvement program for the Chicago tin plate plant, involving the building of a hot continuous strip mill, has been postponed "to more happy days." However, improvements under way will be completed.

The Continental Steel corporation, Kokomo, Ind., reported for the first quarter of 1938 a net profit of $55,208, equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to 6 cents a share on the common stock, against $279,447, equal to $1.17 a share for the first 1937 quarter. D. A. Williams, president, said operations averaged about 50 per cent. He said that the company took advantage of the low operating rate to modernize its rolling mill equipment.

Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation reported in Pittsburgh that it had a net loss of $1,269,725 in the first 1938 quarter. In the first quarter of 1937 it had a net profit of $1,982,394, equal to $1.65 a share.

FAIR TRADE CODE FOR AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY BEGUN

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—(AP)—The federal trade commission took first steps today toward drafting a "fair trade practices" code for the automobile industry.

Charles H. March, a member of the commission, taking advantage of the presence of several hundred automobile retailers here for the 21st annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers' association, heard their views as to what such a code should embrace.

The dealers voted down a proposal to ban price fixing, but almost unanimously approved a long list of other provisions having to do with manufacturer-dealer relationships, the handling of used and new car sales, and competitive practices.

VARNISH MAKER CUTS DIVIDEND TO FIFTY CENTS

Four Other Companies Reduce Payments.

The Sherwin-Williams company, large paint and varnish manufacturer, and four other corporations announced dividend reductions yesterday. Sherwin-Williams will pay only 50 cents a common share on May 16, compared with its previous regular rate of $1 quarterly. In addition, the company paid two extras of $1 each last year to raise total 1937 disbursements to $6 a share.

The Belden Manufacturing company, wire and electric supply manufacturer, cut its May 16 dividend to 5 cents a share. It previously paid 15 cents quarterly, and in addition disbursed an extra of $1.20 last December.

A dividend of $1 a share will be paid on Safety Car Heating and Lighting stock on June 1. No first quarter dividend was paid this year, but a year-end payment of $3.50 was made in December. Other payments last year were $1.50 in April and $2.50 each in July and October for a total of $10.

Curtis Publishing Pays Less.

Curtis Publishing company will pay only 25 cents a share on its preferred stock July 1, reflecting the decline in its revenues. It paid $1 in each of the preceding two quarters and a total of $5.25 in 1937. Giving effect to the current dividend, arrears will amount to $10.75 a share on July 1.

The directors of Chicago Mail Order company adjourned their meeting yesterday without taking action on the second quarter dividend usually paid June 1 to stockholders of record three weeks earlier. The company made a 25 cent quarterly payment March 1 and disbursed a total of $1.50 a share last year.

COTTON

Cotton futures declined sharply yesterday. Liquidation by holders of May contracts, following notice of intention to deliver 7,750 bales on May futures in New York and 9,500 bales in New Orleans. Houses with southern connections sold all months. Weakness in stocks also had its effect on sentiment. Closing sales on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .07 to .11 cent a pound. Other American markets were .05 to .10 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed .05 to .10 cent lower, with New Orleans, 8.95 cents; New York, 8.80 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.55 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

What vegetable varieties grow best in the Chicago area? The Chicago Tribune's agricultural editor gives a complete list of crops for this area in his booklet, "Suburban Gardening." Get a copy today. The information it contains can help you make your garden a greater success. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 15 cents. Postpaid, 18 cents.

Vegetables Come Up.

GARDEN vegetables are coming up at the Tribune's Du Page county farm. Peas, radishes, lettuce, endive, onions, spinach, carrots, and parsley started pushing through the ground last week and now are showing plainly in the rows.

The seeds were sown early in April, shortly before the heaviest snowfall of the year. Apparently none of the seeds was injured by the snow and cold weather that followed. Gardeners at the farm say that all these vegetable crops usually do well when planted early in the spring while the weather is cool. Another planting was made last week to have a succession of fresh vegetables for table use this summer.

Other Crops to Be Planted.

Such vegetable crops as string beans, okra, cucumbers, corn, lima beans, and squash will be planted next week. These crops are not so hardy as those planted before the snow. When planted too early the seeds usually rot in the ground or the tender plants get nipped by frosts during the first two weeks of May.

Celery, cabbage, and cauliflower plants that were started in the greenhouse and hardened off in cold frames were set out in the open garden last week. Only a few plants of each kind were set. Experience has shown that when such plants are set out this early in the season, they are likely to be killed or injured by late frosts. The gardeners follow the practice of taking a chance with a few plants each year. If they are ruined, the loss is small and if they escape injury they are ready for use earlier than the main crop.

There is a lot of excitement around the sheep barn. Some new lambs were born this week—the first of the main crop of 1938 spring lambs. There are 210 ewes, including 58 pure bred Southdowns, brought to the farm last year from Canada, that are to drop their lambs late this spring. Most of the lambs likely will be born in May.

Running on Pasture.

The ewes are running on bluegrass pasture and are fed mixed alfalfa and grass hay morning and night. They will be turned into a clover pasture near the barn after the lambs are born.

All the midwinter lambs born at the farm this year were sold early in April, except one that was kept for use on the farm. The seventeen lambs sold brought $5 a head. They were bought by dealers in Chicago for the Easter market. The price paid was relatively high as compared with what the lambs likely would have brought had they been kept on the farm and fattened for market next fall. All these lambs were grade Southdowns.

C. & O. CONTROL BATTLE WILL GO INTO CONFERENCE

Young, Guaranty Trust Man Meet Today.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Robert R. Young, representatives of the Guaranty Trust company, and others involved in litigation for control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, most profitable remnant of the $2,000,000,000 Van Sweringen rail empire, plan to meet tomorrow in an attempt to compose their differences, reliable sources said tonight.

Earle Bailie, partner of the Wall street banking firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co., is cast in the rôle of peacemaker, according to the reports. Young is reported by friends to have accepted an invitation coming from opposition quarters to meet Bailie "and talk things over."

Ball Reported Interested.

In addition to J. P. Morgan & Co. and other interests previously named in the controversy, George F. Ball is reported as desiring representation of his views.

The "peace meeting" is the outcome of the vote of a majority of the free stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio in Young's favor, against the position of Guaranty Trust company guaranty, in answering allegations of Young in an action still pending in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, said it wished to put Bailie and two others on the Chesapeake corporation board of directors. Young alleged they desired to get control of the C. and O. for "improper purposes," a charge the bank denied.

Controled Through Alleghany.

Young, through Alleghany corporation, the top holding company in the system which he controls, has nominal control over a controling block of Chesapeake corporation stock, which, however, is held by Guaranty Trust company, as trustee, as collateral for three issues of Alleghany corporation bonds.

Young, for the reported sum of about a quarter of a million in cash, got control of the vast railway system from George F. Ball, who, in turn, had bought it in at an auction conducted by J. P. Morgan & Co., after the Van Sweringen brothers had defaulted on payment of a loan from the bankers.
